New Life Given Conference

Four-Hour Conversation of MacDonald and Tardieu Changes Outlook

Allied Avenues Opened for Bringing France and Italy Into Agreement

LONDON, March 16. (AP)—A four-hour conference at Chequers between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu gave the naval conference a new lease on life today.

With A. V. Alexander, British First Lord of the Admiralty, and Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, and a whole crew of experts and advisers ranged beside them, the French and the British premiers negotiated to bring together the viewpoints of France, Great Britain and the other powers.

The conversation is believed to have changed the whole complexion of the conference. New avenues have been opened for bringing France and Italy into a general agreement on armaments, which has already been achieved by the United States, Great Britain, and Japan.

HOPEFULNESS REIGNS

The thick gloomy clouds that have hung over the negotiations for weeks were dispelled by a breath of fresh air from France. The return of the French Premier to London yesterday was generally regarded as marking a crucial point in the negotiations for a five-power agreement, and the delegates tonight believe that the stalemate will be broken.

M. Tardieu and M. Briand were in high spirits on their return to London, and did not conceal their satisfaction over the new developments since they received all the newspaper men covering the conference.

M. Tardieu issued a statement on the advance made.

"The French and the British delegations," it said, "have examined the whole conference situation together. We have applied ourselves to points that interest our countries more particularly.

HARD PROBLEMS STUDIED

"On the one hand, we have specified the questions about which an agreement is either certain or easy. On the other hand, and more especially, we have examined those about which any agreement has appeared difficult to reach.

"The different methods suitable for bringing our standpoints together have been discussed. They will be used conjointly in the days to come.

"We consider that the result to be desired is important enough to exclude any unwise haste; what we require is not haste but success.

"I am convinced that we shall arrive at satisfactory results. The River Yields Tortured Gang Victim's Body

CHICAGO, March 16. (AP)—The Chicago River yielded another corpse and another underworld mystery today.

Shot through the head and bound with baling wire, the body of John Rito was found floating in the north branch and taken to the County Morgue to reveal a story of torture and slaying—gangland's answer to a "wrong guy." Early investigation indicated the victim was either a bootleg ring collector or a bookmaker.

Identification came through a prayer book, on which Rito's name was inscribed in gold.

STORM ENDS WITH HAIL

Rain Total Near Last Year's

Cool and Cloudy Weather Forecast for Today and Tomorrow

Mountain Regions Report Heavy Snowfalls and Blocked Roads

Reaching a climax in a sudden burst of hail at 5 p.m. yesterday, which whitened streets and roofs in the downtown area, the storm which has been drenching all of Southern California for the past three days barely fell short of bringing the season's rainfall figure for the city up to the total for the same date last year and left mountain points throughout the Southland under a heavy blanket of snow. While the city itself remained slightly behind last year's rainfall record, many suburban points reported falls which brought their totals above those of last year and in some even the normal precipitation has been exceeded.

Until shortly before 5 p.m. yesterday the day had seen only light and sporadic showers in the metropolitan area, with some sections receiving a heavier fall than others and the Weather Bureau gauge, which is downtown, recording only .03 of an inch. The hailstorm was so intense that within twenty-five minutes the Weather Bureau recorded a fall of .42 of an inch, bringing the rainfall for the day up to 6 p.m. to .45 of an inch. Although the icy pellets laid a sleety carpet on downtown streets, they soon melted and turned the thoroughfares for a short time into miniature torrents.

HAIL FAREWELL GESTURE

Added to the previous precipitation, yesterday's fall of .45 of an inch brought the total for the present storm up 3.37 inches and that increased the total for the season to date to 10.28 inches. Up to the same date last year, 10.51 inches of rain had fallen and the normal precipitation for this date is 12.58 inches.

The hailstorm yesterday afternoon is believed by Col. H. B. Hersey, the local weather forecaster, to have been the farewell gesture of the present storm, for he does not expect any rain either today or tomorrow. His official forecast is: "Cool, partly cloudy weather Monday and Tuesday. Moderate northerly winds."

Most mountain points yesterday reported a continuation of the snowfall which had already made some of them inaccessible Saturday night. Not only were the roads to many of these places blocked but telephone wires were down and communication with them was broken.

LOWER RANGES CAPPED

The snow was not confined to the higher and more distant ranges but the white blanket crept down to the lower ranges, the Verdugo and the Santa Monica Mountains displaying some white-capped peaks. From down in San Diego county there also came reports of snow-capped peaks. Cuyamaca in that county reported twelve inches of snow on the ground there yesterday, and Julian, also in San Diego county, reported six inches on the ground.

Forty inches of snow were reported at Mount Wilson late yesterday afternoon, with the fall still continuing heavily, leading to a belief that last month's high mark of fifty-two inches may be exceeded. A snow plow was at work on a trail to the mountain top but, according to the reports received by the Auto Club last night, the road was still closed.

Will Rogers Remarks:

SAN DIEGO, March 16. [To the Editor of The Times:] Talk about "Having to see Paris" and "So This Is London" and "Must Visit Claremore," but till you have seen Agua Cliente, Mex., you have just grown up in ignorance. A beautiful spot, and the most sober and orderly crowd. Why, you wouldn't hardly believe they were Americans. Every nation must have its legalized form of gambling; we have our Wall street. Mexico gives you a more even break; they have "roulette." Also a percentage of your losings go to the government. They are of the primitive race, they put government above broker. Folks will take a chance. Old Noah gambled on not getting the "foot and mouth" disease in there with all those animals, and old King Solomon bet a hundred women he wouldn't pay 'em alimony and won his bet. "Viva la Mexico."

ARIZONA THOROUGHLY WET

Rainfall General Over Entire State With Water Outlook Most Promising in Years

PHOENIX, March 16. (AP)—Heavy rains over the lower altitudes of Arizona and snows in the higher portions of the State in the last twenty-four hours have increased the inflow in the various reservoirs and made water outlook for Arizona the most promising in years.

Every portion of the State was benefited to some extent, with Central Arizona getting the heaviest precipitation.

Observers reported that nearly two inches of rain had fallen in the district around the Roosevelt Reservoir with the storm continuing.

ABOVE NORMAL

On the Tonto branch of the watershed, in the Payson district, heavy rains and snows were reported in the late afternoon. A considerable volume of water was flowing into the lake there.

The Phoenix Weather Bureau recorded a precipitation of .94 of an inch in the twenty-four-hour period from 6 p.m. Saturday to 6 p.m. Sunday, bringing the year's total to date to 2.82 inches, as compared with a normal rainfall to date of 1.92 inches.

Precipitation at Tucson totaled .96 of an inch up to 6 o'clock tonight. Further rainfall during the night was indicated.

Heavy snows were falling in the upper reaches of the Sierra Anchas and the White Mountains.

Torrential rains were reported in the Prescott District Saturday, followed by snows Sunday in the higher reaches.

HEAVY SNOWFALL

At Flagstaff a fifteen-inch fall of snow had been reported up to 6 o'clock tonight, with the storm continuing.

More than an inch of rainfall had been recorded in Yuma and Yuma Valley up to 6 o'clock tonight. Indications pointed to more rain during the night.

At Coolidge the precipitation was estimated at more than one-half inch up to 6 p.m. Casa Grande and Florence reported thorough drenchings.

The downpour was reported light in the Douglas-Bisbee district but a steady downpour of rain had been falling at Nogales during the twenty-four-hour period ended at 6 o'clock tonight, and was continuing.

Highways throughout the State remained open though in many instances washes were running full, necessitating careful driving.

Auto Club Expedition to South America Runs Into Roads "Like Soup"

BY HARRY CARR
"Times" Staff Representative

CASA GRANDE (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—We may be able to find a path for an automobile highway from British Columbia to Buenos Aires, but not through Arizona, after riding all day from Yuma over a road that looked like soup, the Automobile Club exploring party came to a halt at this place. The Santa Cruz wash has become a roaring river from two days' rain and a State highway truck towed touring cars through until their truck stuck. It was necessary to telephone to Chandler, calling off a banquet at which more than 100 distinguished guests assembled. The expedition at this writing has turned back to Tucson with a prospect of swimming through mud for sixty miles.

Fall Off Horse Fatal to U.C. Girl Student

OAKLAND, March 16. (AP) — Miss Shirley Kathryn Johnson, 19 years of age, second-year student at the University of California, was killed here this afternoon when she was thrown from a horse. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage resulting from a fractured skull.

Miss Johnson was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Johnson. She was considered one of the most beautiful girls at the University of California.

Riding in Forest Park with Roswell W. Cox, a friend, her horse stumbled, the cinch snapped and she was hurled from the saddle, striking on her head. She had ridden frequently and was considered an experienced horsewoman.

Fascist Killed in German Riot

CHEMNITZ (Germany) March 16. (AP)—A violent fight between Communists and Fascists and Nationalists broke out tonight in the course of a meeting and demonstration by the Steel Helmet organization and Fascist groups against the Young plan. One Fascist was killed and seven persons were severely injured.

The police, who arrested ten, were attacked with stones, and half a dozen were hurt.

Policemen watching the fallen wire shouted warnings, but Moffett became entangled just as he stepped on a car track. There was a flash and Moffett was left in a somewhat embarrassing situation.

MANAGER OF AIRPORT KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

TOLEDO (O.) March 16. (AP)—Stephen G. Van Buren, 31 years of age, manager of the Toledo transcontinental airport at Lemoyne, O., was burned to death when he automobile in which he was riding with his wife and friends burst into flames following a collision with a truck on the outskirts of Milan, Mich., thirty miles north of here, early today.

ILLNESS MAY HALT MARCH OF GANDHI

Leader of Disobedience Drive Reported Suffering From Hot Indian Sun

LONDON, March 17. (AP) (Monday) Dispatches from Bombay to the Daily Mail say that Mahatma Gandhi, as well as some of his volunteers on the civil disobedience march to the Gulf of Cambay, is suffering physically from his pilgrimage under the fierce Indian sun.

On arriving at the village of Nadiad, Gandhi had to be revived by cold compresses applied to his head, and his legs were thoroughly massaged with ointment.

Bombay dispatches to the Daily Express report rumors that he may soon be obliged to abandon his march because of indisposition. The Mahatma is 61 years of age.

MAHATMA MAKES CAMP AT ANAND

ANAND (Bombay Province, India) March 16. (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi and his seventy-nine volunteers inaugurating the campaign of civil disobedience to the Indian government arrived here and made camp for the night. They will remain tomorrow and tomorrow night.

Addressing the villagers at Boriavi, his last previous halting place, Gandhi said: "Money alone will not win swaraj (self-government.) If money could win, I should have secured it long ago. What is required, therefore, is your blood."

WALES MAY START OIL PRODUCTION

Prince's Dominion Ranch Situated in New Center of Petroleum Activity

GLASGOW (Scotland) March 16. (Exclusive)—The possibilities of the Prince of Wales becoming an oil magnate are envisaged in the statement of Prof. W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Prince's Canadian ranch, on his arrival at Grennock this morning.

"If the Prince cares to develop the natural resources on his Canadian ranch there is nothing to prevent him from becoming a prosperous oil magnate," he declared.

"I think there is no doubt that the Prince will go in for the oil if he finds it worth while. His ranch is situated in the southern end of Turner Valley, which is being rapidly developed as an oil center. Only half a mile away from us a well has been sunk which will be spouting within a short time. Should the Prince go in for oil operation, he still will be able to carry on his farming. The ranch extends over 4000 acres and half a dozen wells won't make much difference."

VESSEL GROUNDED AT GALVESTON FLOATED

GALVESTON (Tex.) March 16. (AP)—The passenger steamer Henry R. Mallory of the Mallory line was floated at 5 o'clock this morning and immediately put to sea. The vessel went aground last night.

PRIMO DE RIVERA DIES IN PARIS LATIN QUARTER

Body of Former Spanish Dictator Found in Room by Daughters; Heart Attack Brings End

PARIS, March 16. (AP)—Miguel Primo de Rivera y Orbaneja, Marques de Estella, Spanish grandee and for seven years dictator of Spain, died today in the modest Latin quarter hotel where in the eighteen-nineties he spent what he always considered the happiest days of his life, as a student at the Sorbonne.

The former dictator was stricken by heart disease this morning and died alone in his room at 11 a.m., less than seven weeks after relinquishing the supreme power in Spain.

Death broke his voluntary and temporary exile in Paris with the rapidity of a stroke of lightning. Primo's hand was stretched forth in an effort to reach an electric button to summon his valet. His broken reading-glass lay beside him.

Perhaps the former dictator had a premonition of impending death, for as he kissed his daughters Carmen and Pilar early today he said: "Very well. Go attend mass. I feel much better and am going to dress, but be sure not to return too late."

DAUGHTERS FIND HIM

Mindful of his request, the young women went to his room on returning from church and, to their amazement and sorrow, found him dead.

He died on the eve of his departure for Wiesbaden, Germany, where he was going to take the cure for diabetes. For some time his general condition had been improving steadily.

A priest from Spanish Mission in Paris immediately went to the hotel and said the prayers for the dead.

Tonight his body lies with serene visage encased in a cowl formerly worn by the monks of the Carmel congregation. His body is draped in a coarse woolen fabric similar to those used in ancient Spanish monasteries. In his neatly manicured hands is a huge rosary of black granite.

As he lay in state, with his daughters and his son kneeling in prayer, a continuous procession of notables from the military, official and political worlds of Paris filed by the narrow iron bed. Almost the entire Spanish colony passed through the room.

TRICK OF DESTINY

His body will be taken to Madrid in a special car attached to the Madrid Express at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

By a strange trick of destiny, he had planned to lunch at the "Cafe De Paris," near the opera, at noon today where the Duke of Alba, Spanish Foreign Minister, and one of his most bitter political enemies, was lunching at a near-by table, and noticed his absence from the reserved table.

The Duke then inquired about the reason for his failure to appear, and on learning of his death, immediately forgot their political quarrel and was one of the first persons to visit the body of his dead rival.

Marshal Petain of the French army, a personal friend of Primo de Rivera, who was to have been one of his guests at the farewell tea, was another early visitor. He was accompanied by Ambassador Quinones de Leon.

SON GRIEF-STRICKEN

Young Miguel Primo De Rivera, son of the dead statesman, accompanied each visitor to the elevator in the little hotel. He appeared to be grief-stricken, and still bore the scar of the duel he recently fought at Pamplona in defense of his father's honor.

Many people recalled tonight Primo de Rivera's modest arrival in Paris after resigning the dictatorship.

The man who had ruled Spain almost like a sovereign since September, 1923, arrived alone at the Gare d'Orsay, carrying his own baggage, and drove alone to the hotel in the quarter he loved. He sought to avoid all publicity and remained incognito as far as possible. In registering he merely described himself as "landed proprietor."

RISE TO POWER

Gen Primo de Rivera, who was 60 years of age, January 3, last, reached the pinnacle of his career in September, 1923, when he broke the Spanish constitution and brought into power the military dictatorship, putting all the political parties hitherto ruling Spain into the background.

Until that moment the political life of the general had run on modest lines. On several occasions he had occupied the position of secretary and adjutant to his uncle, Field Marshal or Captain-General

NAVAL MEN ATTACKED

Manila Filipinos Injure Five

Fifty Bluejackets Engaged in Clash at Ball Park Following Game

One Victim Seriously Hurt Before Armed Officer Subdues Mob

MANILA, March 16. (AP) — Fifty sailors of the United States Navy and a crowd of Filipino civilians engaged in a riot at Kittelle Field here this afternoon after a baseball game. Clubs and blackjacks were wielded, and stones and lead pipes were used as weapons during the melee, in which five of the sailors were injured.

The crowd was subdued by B. K. West, an American police captain, who was armed. When native police arrived they arrested three Filipinos. The most seriously injured of the Americans is E. O. Mecklinburg, a chief machinist's mate on the U.S.S. Parrot, who received four fractured ribs, and is badly bruised on face and body.

CAUSE UNCERTAIN

The influence behind the attack is not clear. One theory is that it was inspired by Communists. Others believe it was an attempt on the part of Manila gangsters to make good a threat made several weeks ago to avenge California race riots.

Police describe the event as a "brawl" and of "no importance." An effort was made to suppress the facts and no news was given to the newspapers.

The navy men, most of them chief petty officers, were drinking beer at the field. While they were drinking, served by Filipino waiters, an agitator leaped on a box and spoke to the waiters in Tagalog, a native dialect. Immediately the waiters stopped serving and demanded more pay.

START OF FRACAS

When more pay was refused, the Americans said, one of the waiters jerked a piece of pipe from his shirt and began beating Mecklinburg, the nearest sailor.

Most of the sailors began a retreat, but five of them bore the brunt of the attack and were being severely handled when Capt. West checked the rioters.

Later two American sailors from the oiler U.S.S. Pecos, engaged in a brawl with Filipinos and were severely beaten by Filipino police, who charged the Americans with attacking two native candy sellers and with resisting arrest. The men are G. Cunningham and P. C. Battese.

American naval authorities warned all sailors to avoid trouble and refrain from gatherings that might lead to race riots.

Arabs Disturb Wailing Jews

JERUSALEM, March 16. (AP)—The correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency reports that Jewish prayers at the Wailing Wall were interrupted yesterday by Arabs, who beat drums and used other noisy instruments to disturb the worshipers.

The Jewish community protested to the government and asked for protection for Jewish worshipers.

AUSTRIA PLANS OPEN SHOP

Antiterror Law Drafted to Break Union's Grip; Vienna Still Socialist Stronghold

VIENNA, March 16. (Exclusive)—That curious and ofttimes comic brand of Socialism which ruled Austria after the overthrow of the Hapsburgs, and which now, although but a minority in the country, still presides over the destinies of the Vienna city government, has suffered another setback with the decision of the majority parties to rush through Parliament a severe antiterror law.

The measure in reality is designed from taking work when it can be to break the closed shops, which make Austrian workmen the best organized in the world and have given their Socialist union great power in dictating the policies of the country's industries. Since Parliament has a clear anti-Marxist majority, the projected law is almost sure to pass.

The projected open-shop law is terse and to the point. It first declares void all closed-shop agreements forced upon the employers.

Second, the law makes it a misdemeanor to hinder any person to get whether he is a member of a union or not.

Third, it is made unlawful for an employee or employer to force a worker either to join or quit a union.

The fourth clause forbids employers to make deductions for union dues from pay envelopes.

The results of the law are bound to prove interesting, for the Socialist unions are really the backbone of the Social Democratic political party, which has been fighting a losing battle with the Con-

CHIEF POWERS DECLARED TO HOLD KEY TO PEACE

Wells Asserts Only Four Dominant Nations Needed for Federation That Could Banish War

This is the second of four articles presenting a plan to end all war.

BY H. G. WELLS

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance in the United States and Canada. Copyright by Daily Herald in Great Britain. Quotations Forbidden.)

LONDON, March 16. (Exclusive)—One fact stares our peacemakers so hard and so persistently in the face that they are quite unable to return its glare.

They rush about patronizing, sentimentalizing, pacting and leaguing and handing each other olive branches, manifestly with a common understanding that this obstrusive, conspicuous fact is to be ignored.

The disregarded challenge is this: that Great Britain, the United States, France, Germany and Japan have all the necessary power, moral, material and financial, to impose peace on the seas, oceans and waterways of the world, and that with the co-operation of Russia the absolute cessation of warfare throughout the world could be decreed now.

To be brutally frank about the matter, two of these nations could be omitted and the thing could still be done. No other power need even be consulted.

ITALY'S HANDICAPS

Italy has neither coal nor steel nor food for its wildly breeding population to carry on a war of secession from such a decision, and no other power counts as far as this question of the forcible imposition of peace goes. All the rest of the world in alliance could not resist the demand for world federation and disarmament these major powers could make.

If these dominating powers—and really there need be only four of them—chose to say:

"We federate; we make a settlement of all our outstanding difficulties; we establish a permanent federal council to which we intrust the preservation of that settlement, the power to decide upon any unanticipated dispute and the conduct of our common foreign policy toward states not federated with us, and we pool our armies and navies and put them under the control of this council, to reduce them to an indicated minimum. They will become the federal navy and army.

"And further we place our protectorates, tropical possessions and so forth under this council; we give it control to interstate trade and instruct it to organise the progressive reduction of the tariff barriers that are strangling the trade of the world . . . "

WAY TO END WAR

If, I say, these dominating powers chose to go boldly into such a federation the age of international war would straightaway be at an end.

And is it such an impossible "if"? Why shouldn't they do that?

Federation of this type was achieved by the thirteen States of the North American Union, at a time when communications were barbarically imperfect. It has been a gigantic success.

It would not be necessary to have any revolutions in any of the countries concerned to bring about such a federation. They can still keep their kings and mikados if they like—for home consumption.

Kant, I admit, thought otherwise, and held that only republics could form a world federation, but then he wrote in the glow of the French revolution. But surely it need not affect the home Constitution of the states concerned to delegate and cede a certain specific part of their independent sovereignty to an over-riding council. Does it go against any innate instinct for complete national sovereignty?

EXAMPLE OF BRIAND

Ask M. Briand, who gained immense popularity in so intensely a patriotic country as France, with a far less workable project, the United States of Europe.

This project merits attention on the part of all who meet such suggestions as I am making with cheap and obvious "impossibles."

The scheme of the United States of Europe ("Europe ma patrie") involves interstate free-trade and a consortium for overseas possessions. The League of Nations, you remark, is in the way of such a federation as I am proposing here. But the League of Nations can get out of the way.

What does it matter if the armament industry brides the representatives of Ruritania, Hippopotamia, Rodeoia, Tundura, Daputa, the Bot States and the Cannibal Islands to outvote the dominant powers and forbid the bans of this great union, provided the great powers disregard them? What do such votes matter?

STATES MADE FOR MAN

States are made for man and not man for states. Country heads are bad enough, but country states are worse. If among all these ineffective peacemakers who pervade our present world we had six lucid, persuasive and determined statesmen, we should all be marching gladly toward such an entirely effective peace federation as I have indicated now.

States are made for man and not man for states; that is the most obvious and mose neglected truth in the world. The politicians ignore it naturally enough because by the very nature of their training they are accustomed to think in terms of the existing state, its offices, its constitution and so forth.

But it is not merely the politicians who ignore the fact that states are temporary conveniences and not sacred entities. We have all been brought up in similar blinkers. The politicians are obliged to pose as patriotic advocates by our limitations.

MATTER OF BOUNDARIES

We know that the urban district of Little Puddletown and the metropolitan police boundaries and the county of Middlesex are for our human convenience, and can contemplate the partial or complete merger of any of these divisions in some larger administration without a qualm. But when it comes to Britannia, Columbia and La France, romantic colorings come in.

Why? Feelings of a religious profundity are touched, feelings that have been instilled since our infancy. From our earliest years these national names have been personified and defined for us. They are, in effect, goddesses.

It seems blasphemy to us for anyone to say that Britannia is a three-headed fiction speaking English, Welsh and Gaelic, that Columbia is a patchwork of forty-eight States, that La France is now actively suppressing local languages and culture in Alsace and Brittany.

Forever now, it seems, these inconvenient political arrangements of the later eighteenth century are to remain, sovereign and inviolate, even at the price of peace. They must not sink even to dominion status, to the status of federated allies.

PRINCE OF PEACE

Christianity makes some pretense about a Prince of Peace, who is Lord of all the World, but no Christian body I know of except the Quakers has ever given sustained evidence of really meaning it. The rest give unto Caesar a great deal more than the things that are Caesar's, and reserve for the church the residue of the things that are God's.

Even in our vast heterogeneous Atlantic States politicians do not dare to speak plainly and boldly of this obvious door to world peace, a federation of the dominant powers, that gapes open before mankind.

The most enlightened of them will not speak it out. They will sign Briand-Kellogg pacts to renounce wars, but they will provide no instrument to prevent and replace it. It has to be replaced, for otherwise there is a gap in the international process.

GESTURES AND SPEECHES

Our peacemakers will make gestures and speeches of quite incredible magnanimity—to the proper audience. Some, in need of journalistic support, will even come along to such irresponsible people as myself.

"Don't talk of Federation yet," they will say. "Don't mention it yet. The world is not ripe for it. We see the door as plainly as you do. We're edging toward it. But we want to back into it, by a sort of accident, and quite informally. So as not to offend our patriots, who may vote against us if we actually turn our faces that way. You see it is so necessary that everybody should vote for us. Or how can we lead them? Do consider our difficulties."

But if they try to back through the open door of this obviously necessary and overdue federation of the dominant powers they will surely trip on the threshold.

The only way to organized world peace lies through such a federation, and the only way to get to that federation is boldly frontwise, in the sight and knowledge of all mankind.

HAIL CLIMAXES RAINY SPELL

ceived heavy falls. Efforts were being made to open the Waterman Canyon road but they had not been successful up to last night. Twenty inches of snow were reported on the ground at Mount Baldy but the road was open to automobiles whose tires were equipped with skid chains.

RIDGE ROUTE OPEN

Telephone communication with Forest Home, Idyllwild and Big Pines Recreation Camp was down, but while the latter point was inaccessible from this side, automobiles equipped with chains were reported as going there from the Cajon Pass side. The road to Seven Oaks was also reported as bad but the telephone lines were up and yesterday morning fifteen inches of snow were reported on the ground with the fall still continuing. Oak Glen reported eighteen inches on the ground yesterday morning, but the fall there had ceased and the weather was apparently clearing.

While it snowed Saturday and yesterday all along the Ridge Route, efforts to keep the road open were successful. Along the roadside the snow lay from four to twelve inches deep. The Southern California Edison Company reported that it was still snowing at Huntington Lake, Florence Lake, Shaver Lake and other points in the high Sierras where it maintains power plants or stations, but inability to maintain communications steadily prevented any report of the depth of yesterday's fall.

Reports to the Bureau of Water and Power from the Owens Valley yesterday afternoon were that no rain had fallen there within the previous twelve hours, but that on Saturday night about three or four inches of snow had fallen in the foothills of the high Sierras above Bishop and Independence. The weather in the valley was reported as partly cloudy, with mild temperatures, but with little expectation of any rainfall last night or today.

ALHAMBRA FALL HEAVY

While yesterday's hailstorm was confined to the downtown section of the city, the precipitation in other sections of the metropolitan area even exceeded that reported for the city. In Alhambra, for instance, .48 of an inch fell yesterday, bringing the total for the storm to 3.58 inches and for the season to 12.36 inches, which exceeds the 11.84 inches reported to the same date last season.

The heaviest fall of the present storm from any near-by point is the 3.88 inches reported from San Pedro, where the season's fall now greatly exceeds that of the same date last year. The season to date is 10.84 inches, while last year it was only 6.48. Van Nuys reported a fall for the storm of 3.87 inches and it has also greatly exceeded last year's record.

The greatest excess over last year's precipitation was recorded at Long Beach, where the 3.10 inches which fell during the present storm is almost as much as the total rainfall in that city last season, which was 4.81 inches. The fall so far this season measures 10.24 inches.

MONTH TOTAL EXCEEDED

Among the many cities and towns in the Southland whose seasonal total was brought above that of last year by the present storm are Bellflower, Corona, Covina, El Monte, El Segundo, Escondido, Fullerton, Girard, Hemet, Hermosa, Huntington Beach, La Habra, Manhattan Beach, Monterey Park, Ojai, Ontario, Placentia, Pasadena, Pomona, Puente, Redlands, Redondo Beach, San Fernando, Upland, Whittier and Yorba Linda.

Threats of a flood were reported from Laguna Beach, where large quantities of mud have been washed down from the hillsides into the town, forming embankments which prevent the easy run-off of the storm waters.

While the rainfall figure for this city has not exceeded that of last year, the precipitation of this particular section of the season is greatly in excess of normal. With March only half gone, the total of the present storm alone exceeds the normal total for the month, which is 2.78 inches.

RAIN DRENCHES SOUTHERN ARIZONA

NOGALES (Ariz.) March 16. (AP) The rainstorm that has drenched Southern California struck this section early today and extended far down the west coast of Mexico.

The downpour was steady here throughout the day, and ranges were drenched thoroughly. Arroyos were flooded, but no damage was done. While the storm is welcomed by cattlemen, it is expected to hamper harvesting of winter vegetables along the Mexican coast.

DE RIVERA DIES ALONE IN ROOM

Former Dictator Victim of Heart Disease Attack

Daughters Discover Body on Return From Church

Remains Will be Sent Back to Spain This Evening

Fernando Primo De Rivera, one of Spain's greatest soldiers.

Throughout the period of power, the dictator displayed notable energy. An untiring worker, he devoted himself to every phase of administrative work and no problem that arose was shelved. The development of industry and commerce, the financial situation, international relations (especially with the trans-Atlantic republics,) labor questions, transports and other means of communication—all were taken up.

Some of his schemes were regarded as rather puerile and aroused sharp criticism, of which he was extremely sensitive, but when he could be convinced of their faults he was ready to change his viewpoint.

TWICE DISMISSED

It was not until 1914 that Gen. De Rivera came strongly to public notice in the political field. In that year he was appointed military governor of the camp of Gibraltar. The result of a speech by him in Seville declaring Spain should seize the Rock of Gibraltar, as it was a national disgrace for Spain that it should be in British hands, was his immediate dismissal from office.

He put forward an unsuccessful candidature as Congressman for Cadiz. Then he was elected Senator by the Conservative party, and in the upper house delivered a speech advocating the abandonment of Morocco. As he was captain-general of Madrid at the time, he was punished by again being dismissed from his position.

At the following general election, he also lost his seat as Senator. He made approaches in 1923 to the Count of Romanones, one of the most powerful Liberal leaders, to obtain for him the nomination as Senator for Cadiz, as the Conservatives declined to support him. But Romanones refused pointblank and Primo de Rivera avenged himself on the politicians the same year by declaring the military dictatorship, the movement originating in Barcelona on September 13.

The absolute military rule of the dictator and his nine associate generals lasted from September 13, 1923, until December 2, 1925. On that day it was announced that a civil government would take its place under the Premiership of Primo de Rivera. The change made little difference, as no member of the new Cabinet had any party affiliations and no elections were held.

EXPENSES REDUCED

Immediately on attaining power Primo de Rivera announced his intention of making a clean sweep of the corruption existing in every department of the central administration, as well as in the provincial and municipal governments. Functionaries of every category who had been enjoying the benefits of the national pay roll without performing any duties were called to account and in many cases dismissed. The measures were intended toward a balanced national budget, which showed a large deficit. Efforts also were made to reduce the expenditure on the military campaign in Morocco.

The labor elements of the country, which for many years had been in sharp conflict with the employers in a struggle for improved conditions, recognized the futility of continuing strikes and consequent disturbances. Labor leaders advised quiet and the consequence was that from the moment of the military advent to power there were no strikes. Cataluna, the hotbed of syndicalism, became quiet for the first time in a generation. Discontent among the workers was confined to low grumblings and the better organizations of their unions.

CONFIDENCE WANES

Among the manufacturing and commercial classes there was at first great rejoicing over the change, but later on, when trade began to decline because the people of Spain possessed a high degree of timorousness as to what might happen, confidence in the benefits of the dictatorial regime waned.

Efforts were made by the dictator and his supporters to form a new national party, which was to include all the healthy elements of the nation, but the members did not appear to have great confidence in their future.

Meanwhile affairs in Morocco, the abandonment of which de Rivera had proposed, again became a center of disturbances. The Moorish Chieftain, Abdel-Krim, renewed his martial activities and de Rivera decided to go to the protectorate where he had previously won much renown for his personal courage, and try to put matters in shape. Various maneuvers and methods were instituted up until the time Abd-el-Krim surrendered to the French. Rivera furthered as much as possible the system of enlisting voluntary troops to operate in Morocco, holding the regular army in reserve mostly in Spain. This system had been attempted before his dictatorship, but with his support it extended until almost half the troops engaged were formed of volunteers.

Primo de Rivera's military career began at 14, as he entered the military academy in 1884. He won numerous promotions and decorations for bravery and meritorious conduct.

MODEST FORTUNE

According to his friends, Primo de Rivera leaves no other fortune than the 4,000,000 pesetas (about $400,000) subscribed by the Union Patriotica, the political organization he founded.

Of this sum he had distributed among his children, three boys and two girls, 250,000 pesetas as an indemnity for their having lost their material inheritance. The rest he kept for himself, using part of it to pay off a mortgage on his estate in Jerez de la Frontera.

A few days ago his son, Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, withdrew from the Bank of Spain the sum of 1,300,000 pesetas on orders from his father.

The statesman owned a small house in Jerez that had been given him by his friends. He leaves no jewels or works of art.

MILITARY FUNERAL WILL BE CONDUCTED

MADRID, March 16. (AP)—Former Premier Primo de Rivera who died in Paris today only seven weeks after resigning the dictatorial powers he had held for nearly seven years, will be buried with the full military honors of a Spanish captain-general who dies while in active command of troops, according to plans formulated tonight.

All Spain was shocked this afternoon to learn of his death. King Alfonso heard of it as he was preparing to go to the race track and immediately canceled his engagements, expressing his sorrow. Premier Damaso Berenguer, the resigned dictator's successor, did the same.

Crowds gathered in front of the headquarters of the Union De Patriotica, the political organization founded by Primo de Rivera, where crepe in sign of mourning was hung up over the doors.

GRAND DUKE FORECASTS RED FAILURE

Alexander Says, However, It May be Some Time Due to "Bandits'" Strength

PORTLAND (Or.) March 16. (AP) Grand Duke Alexander, grandson of Czar Nicholas I, nephew of Alexander II, and cousin and brother-in-law of the late Czar Nicholas II, in an interview here today predicted that Russian Communism will fail, and declared Russia's 150,000,000 population is ruled and fed on by a central group of 1,000,000 "bandits," who have built up "a remarkable exploitation machine."

The Grand Duke, who arrived here from British Columbia en route to San Francisco and Los Angeles, said it is impossible to predict how long the Communist regime in Russia will last because its position is "very strong."

"It controls the government, the railroads, the Red army, and vast resources," he said. "Russia is more than six times as large as the United States and too large for its people to unite against Communism."

Alexander was Chief of Aviation for Russia on all fronts during the World War. His wife, Princess Zenia, sister of the late Czar, now is living in Paris. Three sons are working in the United States. One is a stock broker in New York, a second is with Marshal Field's department store in Chicago, and the third is in a Connecticut airplane factory.

Aviator Faces Air Law Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16. (Exclusive)—Accused of taking a drunken passenger for an airplane ride, Ralph V. Canning, Sacramento aviator, will go on trial tomorrow in Auburn, accused of violating the State air traffic law, it was said by E. E. Mouton, Federal supervising inspector of aviation. Canning was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Reed of Placer county on a charge of taking up an intoxicated young man from Lincoln, Placer county, and zooming the plane close to the ground while the passenger waved a bottle.

This is the fourth like prosecution under the California air traffic law.

WILLIAM GRIFFITH SUED BY HIS WIFE

PITTSBURGH, March 16. (AP)—Brown Mehard, actress of Pittsburgh, has filed suit for divorce against William J. Griffith, Jr., of Detroit, it became known here today. Miss Mehard, who is Mrs. Ida Brown Griffith in private life, charged desertion. They were married in January, 1925, and according to the papers in the suit Griffith deserted his wife in January, 1928.

DAVIS TOSSES HAT INTO RING

Labor Secretary Formally Announces Senate Race

He Has Backing of Vare in Pennsylvania Contest

Three-Way Fight Indicated to Capture Grundy Seat

PITTSBURGH, March 16. (AP)—Secretary of Labor Davis today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as United States Senator from Pennsylvania.

The Secretary will bid for the nomination at the primaries May 20, next, in opposition to Joseph R. Grundy, appointed Senator from Pennsylvania by Gov. Fisher, on the Senate's refusal to seat William S. Vare.

Davis will enter the race aligned with Francis Shunk Brown of Philadelphia, former State Attorney-General, who has the indorsement of Vare, and the backing of the Philadelphia Republican organization. Grundy, long a power in Pennsylvania Republican politics, if he enters the race as fully expected, will be supported by the Mellon-Fisher combination.

THREE-WAY FIGHT

Formal entry of the Brown-Davis ticket into the political field indicates a three-way fight for control of Pennsylvania Republican politics at the coming primary.

Samuel S. Lewis, former State Treasurer, and Gifford Pinchot, former Governor, both have entered the race for the nomination as Governor, but while Lewis is popularly supposed to be coupled with Senator Grundy in the race, Pinchot has no known candidate for the Senatorial nomination in the field with him. The possibility that Charles F. Armstrong, postmaster at Leechburg, a former legislator, and a staunch Pinchot supporter, may appear on the Pinchot ticket as candidate for the nomination as Lieutenant-Governor, has been indicated, however.

ANOTHER ASPIRANT

Judge J. Ambler Williams of Montgomery county also has entered the Republican lists for Governor, further complicating the Republican situation, but what political alignment, if any, is sponsoring him is not apparent.

Mr. Davis in his announcement said: "I feel particularly qualified to represent this great commonwealth, because of the knowledge and experience gained while serving as Secretary of Labor under three Republican Presidents—Harding, Coolidge and Hoover . . . employers and workers alike know that I have always striven to balance their interests with fairness to each, and the maximum of benefits to both."

Husband Shot by Boarder

SAN JOSE, March 16. (AP)—An estranged husband who returned unexpectedly to visit his wife here early this morning was shot and probably fatally wounded by a male boarder in the house.

The husband is Louis Espinosa, 40 years of age, railway section hand. Juan Gonzales, 40, according to deputy sheriffs, who took him in custody, admitted firing the shot. It penetrated Espinosa's abdomen and his condition is described as critical.

WHAT IT CAN DO

The CHIRO-VOX will tell you always and exactly where the pressure is that is causing you trouble.

It will do this without you telling me one single word. When the proper adjustment of your spine is made, it will tell you whether or not the pressure has been relieved.

The CHIRO-VOX absolutely proves that there may be an apparent displacement that is doing untold harm even when such displacement cannot be detected with the X-RAY.

Furthermore, you will know whether or not your case is a Chiropractic Case—something you have never known positively before.

MEAT DIET GETS NEW BODY BLOW

Stefansson's Eskimo Claims Called All Wrong

Kidney Ills Blamed on Too Much Muscle Fiber

Michigan Doctor Announces Results of Tests

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) March 16. (AP)—Healthfulness of the "all-meat" Eskimo diet demonstrated by the Arctic explorer Stefansson is disputed in diet experiments announced tonight at the University of Michigan.

The tests here were conducted by Dr. L. H. Newburg of the university medical department.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the Stefansson test was not of an 'all-meat' diet, since only 20 per cent, according to Dr. C. W. Lieb, another worker in this field, was muscle fiber or lean meat. The rest was animal fat. This Arctic diet had no more lean meat or protein than an ordinary diet, though it did contain an unusual amount of fat.

MEAT DIET AND KIDNEYS

"Since the whole question is whether muscle fiber is ever harmful, Stefansson's experiment cannot have any great significance. Carefully conducted experiments, however, do show that there is an insidious degeneration resulting from overuse of lean meat."

A university laboratory worker, 32 years of age, in apparently normal health, who lived on a 32 per cent lean-meat diet for six months apparently was quite well at the end, like the explorers who made similar diet tests in New York. But it was found here that the meat eater had developed the beginnings of nephritis, a chronic kidney condition that is one avenue to premature death. After stopping the diet he was cured quickly.

"The evidence reported makes it clear," said Dr. Newburg, "that a diet, 32 per cent of whose energy was contained in beef proteins, caused a slowly progressive injury of the kidneys in our human subject.

TWO VIEWS OF QUESTION

"There are in the literature a number of papers purporting to prove that the exclusive meat diet is not harmful to the kidneys. These reports deal with the life of Eskimos and are stated in such general terms that they are without scientific value.

"Recently, however, a writer in the journal of the American Medical Association succeeded in gathering some concrete information regarding 142 middle-aged Eskimos who had always lived on a carnivorous diet. He found that 8.5 per cent had a certain kidney disease, and that 6 per cent had another one. From these figures he draws the surprising conclusion that 'there is no unusual prevalence of vascular or renal disease' among these people, even though a similar incidence in the adult population of the United States would mean that 4,000,000 men and women in this country had this trouble."

GERMANS AROUSED OVER HANGAR ORDER

BERLIN, March 16. (Exclusive)—The Bavarian Press angrily reports tonight that French military authorities have ordered the dismantling of Lachen-Speyerdorf flying field. Not only must the twenty stone hangars be torn down, but even the drain tiling nine feet under the flying field must be dug up by April 15, according to the report. The paper asks why, after twelve years of civilian use, and just after Germany has assented to the Young plan, it must be demolished.

MATADOR GORED BY FRENZIED ANIMAL

Sydney Franklin

AMERICAN INJURED IN BULL FIGHT

Yankee Matador Badly Gored by Savage Animal in Madrid Arena

MADRID, March 16. (AP)—Sydney Franklin, bull fighter of Brooklyn, N. Y., was gored by a bull today at his second appearance of the year in the Madrid arena. Doctors said his condition is serious.

Franklin drew a large crowd to the arena and received a great welcome. The bull was an unusually large and fierce one, but Franklin attempted to play a few fancy tricks with it.

Franklin was not only gored and ripped by the bull's horns, but was tossed high in the air by the big black animal. He was given emergency treatment and was then taken to another hospital where he was put under anaesthetics and underwent an operation. The doctors tonight believe he will live.

Franklin went out jauntily to face the black bull, which was his first that afternoon.

As Franklin was making a whirling pass with his cape in front of the bull, he was caught by the bull's horns from behind, during the fraction of a second that his back was turned to it.

The other matadors and the members of the cuadrilla rushed forward, waving their capes to distract the bull, which was tossing Franklin's limp body on its horns. Finally Franklin was flung loose and fell writhing in agony in the arena.

MISSION TO HAITI SAILS FOR HOME

Will Draft Report to Hoover During Journey; Leave Island Peaceful

PORT - AU - PRINCE (Haiti) March 16. (AP)—The Hoover investigating commission sailed for home aboard the U.S.S. Rochester at 10 o'clock this morning, leaving behind them an outlined plan for solving Haiti's political difficulties and for ultimately ending American occupation of the republic.

The commissioners left behind them an apparent political peace, with no sign anywhere of threatening attempts to void their plan. On board the Rochester, returning to Miami, they will complete their report to President Hoover and make their recommendations.

In general, these are reported to provide for withdrawal of the American marines by 1936, some kind of military mission, consisting of four or five officers, familiar with local conditions, being left behind for a few years after evacuation.

Bandmaster in San Quentin to Stay Ten Years

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—The State Board of Prison Directors today decided that Alfredo Tomasino, Italian bandmaster, must serve ten years in San Quentin for the statutory offense that landed him in the penitentiary. Tomasino was imported from abroad three years ago to conduct the Santa Monica Beach Band. When convicted in September, 1928, he was given an indeterminate sentence of from one year to life.

None of the thirty-nine applications for parole were granted by the board. Nine were denied, twelve set for future dates, six postponed and four set for deportation.

Woman Found Beaten to Death

FORT WORTH (Tex.) March 16. (AP)—Mrs. Pearl Voss, 30 years of age, was beaten to death by what officers believed was a claw hammer in a pasture near here. The body was found today about 200 yards from a road.

Investigators were unable to determine whether she had been taken to the pasture and killed there after a struggle, or had been killed some other place. Police incline to the former theory, as the woman's hat was found near the path through the pasture about 100 yards closer to the highway than where the body lay.

HEART ATTACK KILLS

KETCHIKAN (Alaska) March 16. (AP)—Succumbing to a heart attack, J. C. Black, for many years Alaska and oriental representative of the Blumauer-Frank Drug Company of Portland, Or., died here late Saturday night.

SOVIET CURBS RELIGIOUS WAR

Unauthorized Destruction of Churches Banned

Services at Moscow Draw Large Attendance

Foreign Opinion Results in Modification

MOSCOW, March 16. (AP)—While millions in other lands prayed today for Russia's legions of Christian faithful, the militant atheist society of Russia, the League of the Godless, prepared for a more intensive assault against God and the churches in the approaching Easter period.

The Russian government itself, however, has noticeably moderated its attitude toward religion. It now discountenances the forcible closing of churches or the tearing down of church bells, without the consent of the overwhelming majority of the population and the formal sanction of the central government authorities.

Even so great an atheist as Joseph Stalin, "the strong man of Russia," has issued strict orders that any Communist party worker, or village soviet official found guilty of using violent methods in the party's fight against religion shall be punished severely.

SERVICES THRONGED

All Moscow's churches were well attended at services today, the government having at no time attempted to prevent individuals from freely taking part in their religious rites.

Most Christians here, however, see a dark future for their faith if the government continues to carry out its present plan of forbidding the teaching of a religious faith to those under 18 years of age.

They say that if this is enforced it literally spells the doom of the church in Russia, especially since the Communist party and the government are entirely atheistic. No person may enter the Communist party unless he forswears God and religion.

Since the agitation abroad against the government for its antireligious views has assumed such imposing proportions throughout the world, there has been a perceptible change in the atheists' plan of warfare against the churches.

CONFINE ACTIVITIES

Fearing punishment at the hands of the government authorities if they go too far, they confine their activities to disseminating antireligious propaganda and teaching the peasants that good crops depend not upon God, but upon their own labor, good weather, and proper methods of cultivation.

The Village Godless One, official organ for the dissemination of atheism among the peasantry, declares in a recent number:

"The soviet union is the basis for the atheistic movement throughout the entire world.

"The growth of atheism in soviet Russia creates a ground for the spreading of atheism everywhere else."

ENGLISH CHURCHES PRAY FOR RUSSIAN CHRISTIANS

LONDON, March 16. (AP)—Intercessory services on behalf of Christians in Russia were held in churches and chapels throughout England today in response to a call by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Preaching at St. Matthew's, the Bishop of London, Rt. Rev. A. F. W. Ingram, said, "We do well to pray for those in Russia today."

Recalling that he had received a warm welcome on a visit to Russia before the war, he exclaimed: "To think that all those bishops have been butchered, all those priests murdered!"

"There is nothing political about this. This is one part of the church of Christ praying for succor and sympathy for the other."

Dr. A. Fleming at St. Colomba's Church said, "Of the reality and the terrible character of the persecution to which Christians in Russia are being subjected, there can be no doubt. Persecution and war to the death on religion have been acknowledged and glorified by those who perpetrate them."

A slight disturbance was caused at Islington Parish church when four young men interrupted the special prayers, asserting that they were a form of propaganda against Russia. When asked to leave, they did so quietly.

Condemnation of the persecution of the Jewish religion in Russia was embodied in a resolution adopted by the Jewish Board of Deputies. This stated "The persecution and the suppression of religious teaching in Russia are causing intense spiritual suffering for millions of pious law-abiding Jews, are undermining the foundations of family life, and are threatening Russian Judaism itself with extinction."

PROTEST MEETINGS HELD BY NEW YORK CHURCHES

NEW YORK, March 16. (AP)—Meetings of protest against asserted religious persecution in Russia, with prayers for its cessation, were held today by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religious bodies.

At the same time a crowd of 14,000, including Communists and others, gathered at the Bronx Coliseum to protest against criticism of soviet Russia's antireligious policy.

While special details of police and detectives guarded St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and the Free Synagogue, another detail of more than 200, together with riot and bomb squads and emergency wagons, with tear-gas bombs and submachine guns, stood watch over the Communist gathering.

Dr. William B. Millar, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, representing more than 1100 churches, expressed sympathy for religious sufferers.

At St. Patrick's and 444 other churches in the archdiocese of New York Catholics also conducted prayer services.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, in an address at the Free Synagogue, said that protest should be made, not by the churches, but by the liberals of the land as a duty to minorities.

NEWS OF MIDDLE WEST

MISSOURI

A forest fire which raged in western Howell county and eastern Ozar county took a heavy toll of farm property and for a time threatened to destroy many homes. Virtually all farm fences in a strip fifteen or twenty miles long and about seven miles wide were destroyed. Two farm homes and one large barn also were destroyed.

Dr. George O. Haughey, formerly of Odessa, was deprived permanently of his license because of active use of narcotics and Dr. Otis Orville Ash of Moberly lost his State certificate for a year because of habitual drunkenness at a hearing before the State Board of Health at Kansas City.

Mary Anne, 2-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Anthony B. Day, St. Louis, was strangled to death in an unusual accident when her clothing caught and suspended her as she was playing on a slide in the rear of her home.

Charles A. Kincade, 53 years of age, superintendent of distribution of the Kansas City Public Service Company, died unexpectedly at his home.

OHIO

James Dooley, 22 years of age, former assistant teller in the Second National Bank, Cincinnati, must serve thirteen months in Federal reformatory at Chillicothe after pleading guilty to embezzling $7000 from the bank.

Mrs. Clara May Whitner, 60 years of age, widow of Frank Whitner, former president of the Akron Varnish Company and daughter of the late Prof. Elias Fraunfelter, died at her home there after an illness since Christmas.

Another irregularity in Ohio's new election code, formulated by the 1929 Legislature, has been unearthed at Columbus when it was discovered that no provision is made for registration of voters by mail, as there has been in the old laws.

KENTUCKY

The Greenup County Bar Association has indorsed Judge Simeon S. Willis, now on the bench of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Edward T. Sanford of the Supreme Court of the United States.

An auction sale of saddle horses was conducted at Lexington in which 441 animals were disposed of in four days for more than $100,000 to buyers from seventeen States.

John Keith, 74 years of age, veteran Christian county school teacher, died at his home near Crofton after a brief illness. He had taught schools in Christian county for fifty-two years.

Lieut.-Col. B. F. Wilby, engineer in charge of the Memphis district Mississippi River Commission, has received orders to make a new survey of that part of Hickman subject to high water and to draw plans for its protection.

KANSAS

Official investigation into asserted unlawful acts and conduct of what A. A. Nattier, County Attorney of Wilson county, termed "religious fanatics," disclosed that four families suspected of unlawful practices had left the Middleton community, twelve miles north of Fredonia.

Citizenship was denied to Rev. Francis Davies, a minister of the Friends' Church, in Federal court at Wichita when he would not take that part of the oath which demands defense of country.

ILLINOIS

Mrs. Ethel G. Smith of Evanston won a divorce from her husband, Howard H. Smith, secretary and treasurer of the Dashiell Motor Company on grounds of cruelty. The suit was not contested.

Residents of Galatia, facing financial ruin after failure of the town's two banks in the last three years, are banding together to reorganize the First State Bank of Galatia and again to bring financial stability to the community.

A son, Henry Wellington Britt, was born to President and Mrs. Albert Britt of Knox College.

MICHIGAN

Another Berrien county fire of undetermined origin threatened fifty homes and business houses in Sodus, a farm community near Benton Harbor, and caused several thousand dollars damage.

Following a committee investigation of asserted fee-splitting and other unethical practices, the Ingham County Medical Society voted to disband. The society had been in existence forty years.

Dr. Max Winkler, 68 years of age, professor of German at the University of Michigan and a member of the faculty since 1890, is dead.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Louis Lapier of Huron, member of the State Game and Fish Commission, has submitted his resignation of Gov. Bulow.

Robert B. Tripp of Yankton has filed a nominating petition as candidate for judge of the First Judicial Circuit, comprising six Southeastern South Dakota counties.

NEBRASKA

In two hours State Treasurer Stebbins became a grandfather twice. A nine-pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Stebbins and a nine-pound son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Verge Stebbins, both in Gothenburg.

Detective Sergeant Joe Patach, head of the police morals squad in Omaha, was indefinitely suspended charged with having accepted bribes.

The Central Nebraska Sheep Feeders' Association, meeting in monthly session at Grand Island, was advised that its recent efforts to have lamb and mutton placed on the army and navy menus had met with failure.

MINNESOTA

From the leading citizen of his town to a convict's stripes in twenty-four hours is the meteoric drop of William G. Malchow, 57 years of age, father of five children and bank cashier of Wilder, when he pleaded guilty to embezzlement before Judge Haycraft at Fairmont. His shortages will reach $40,000, officials said. Closing of the Farmers' and Merchants' State Bank at Donnelly, Stevens county, with deposits of $235,000, was announced by the State Commissioner of Banks on account of heavy withdrawals.

Theft of $50,000 worth of insured parcel-post packages, extending over a period of ten years was bared in an express company office in a conspiracy involving a dozen men. Two men are under arrest, Walter W. De Lapp, a brakeman for the Omaha Railroad, and Norman Pratt, a former employee of the American Railway Express Company. Ten others were questioned, but not arrested.

IOWA

James Renwick Guthrie, 72 years of age, one of the best-known medical practitioners in Iowa and president of the Federal Bank and Trust Company, is dead at his home in Dubuque.

Fire which is believed to have started in the furnace-room, destroyed the public school and its contents at McGregor with a loss of $75,000.

John Brown, 96 years of age, oldest person in Keosauqua, is dead at his home there.

Iowa farms have 5 per cent less grain March 1 this year than a year ago, it is announced.

John H. Rozema, for fifteen years a prominent church and lodge worker, pleaded guilty to embezzlement of funds of the Spirit Lake Building and Loan Association and was sentenced to Fort Madison penitentiary at hard labor not to exceed five years.

Turning Our Size to Your Profit

California looks to Pacific States Savings for progressive policies. The most progressive and important forward step we have ever undertaken is our new 7% rate on real estate loans.

This reduction is made possible by our 58 million dollars in resources and the greatest volume of any building and loan association in the West. It brings to property owners a combination of advantages offered, to the best of our knowledge, by no other financial institution making loans in California.

Real Estate LOANS At an actual rate of 7%

In addition to this low interest rate, you enjoy these advantages: (1) loans up to 75% of the sound market value of your property; (2) terms from 5 to 15 years; (3) payments as low as $8.99 per $1000, paying the loan in full; (4) no renewals necessary; (5) no charge for appraisement and preparation of papers unless the loan is consummated.

REFINANCE NOW—we are making loans on improved residential and income property meeting our qualifications in cities served by our offices and selected districts contiguous thereto.

We will be glad to have you call and to give you every cooperation in securing sound, economical and convenient real estate financing. If it is inconvenient to call, a booklet describing our loan plan will be sent you upon request.

HINDENBURG CHIDES CRITICS

Special Explanation Issued Students on Young Plan

Reference to Boy Martyrs of War Stirs President

Police Prepare for Trouble With Nationalists Today

BERLIN, March 16. (Exclusive)—Following the first explanatory message he has ever issued to the German people, in which he explained his signing of the Young plan bill, President Von Hindenburg today deemed it advisable to issue a supplementary statement addressed specially to the students of Germany.

The Federation of Student Associations got under his skin, by writing him a letter in the name of "the Dead of Langemarck," appealing to him not to sign the Young plan bill. The dead of Langemarck were several thousand German students too young to be drafted who volunteered early in the World War. Insufficiently trained and led by inexperienced student officers they rushed headlong into battle at Langemarck, Flanders; charging across no man's land in mass formation they were mowed down by Belgian machine gunners.

The reference to Langemarck stirred the old field marshal's memories of war time when youthful rashness was at a premium, and broke through his post-war political prudence enough to provoke a special reply.

"I hope my manifesto the other day to the German people straightened out some of the misconceptions you hold." President Von Hindenburg paternally said. "But your mention of Langemarck makes me desire to address a special reply to you. However, my feeling is that the very sacrifice made by students at Langemarck ought to suggest that you also make a sacrifice for the Fatherland. The sacrifice Germany now needs is a unified, harmonious effort for its reconstruction."

President Von Hindenburg's tolerant rebuke addressed to the overeager student patriots has a deeper meaning, however. It is a grave refutation of the growing storm of abuse from the Nationalist camp ever since the Young plan bill became a law.

The violent Nationalist protest is expected to reach its peak tomorrow noon when students' mass meetings are scheduled throughout the nation. The police are preparing for trouble.

WITH THIRTEEN HEARTS SHE FAILS TO GET BID

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) March 16. (AP)—Page the bridge experts and then shed a tear for Mrs. Arra Conway, who held thirteen hearts and failed to get the bid.

Mrs. Anna Flemming, the dealer, received a slight shock when she discovered she had dealt herself twelve clubs and one spade. Her excitement was comparable to that of Mrs. E. C. Borden, West, who had twelve diamonds and one club, but nothing like the feeling of Mrs. M. V. Ryan, north, who had twelve spades and one diamond. Mrs. Conway, of course, was experiencing one of those "once-in-a-lifetime" feelings.

Mrs. Conway with all the hearts in the deck bid seven hears, which bid was topped by that of Mrs. Ryan with seven spades. Mrs. Ryan's partner held the odd spade giving them thirteen in the two hands and a grand slam.

ALUMNI ASK HARVARD TO PAY WAGES

Sum of $280 Each Sought for Twenty Scrubwomen Dismissed Last Fall

NEW YORK, March 16. (AP)—Officials of Harvard University are asked by fifty-one Harvard alumni in a letter made public today to pay $280 as back wages to each of twenty Harvard scrubwomen who were dismissed last fall. The women were dismissed after the Massachusetts minimum wage commission complained that the university was paying them less than the minimum wage of 37 cents an hour required by State law.

The letter says the university paid the women 2 cents an hour less than the legal minimum for nine years. Therefore, the alumni contends, the university is under a moral obligation to give the women $280 each.

The letter charges that "the university's attitude throughout the affair has been harsh, stingy, socially insensitive and considerably short of the highest ethical standing of the times."

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) March 16. (AP)—The dismissal of Harvard scrubwomen last fall, protested today in a letter by fifty-one alumni officials of the institution made public at New York, was explained at the time as part of a policy of replacing women employees, and not because of a report by the State Minimum Wage Commission that the university was paying less than the minimum wage of 37 cents an hour required by State law.

TEXAN RAPS G.O.P. CHIEF ON LOBBYING

Unholy Alliance Between Republicans and Power Interests Charged

WASHINGTON, March 16. (AP)—Existence of an "unholy alliance" between the Republican organization and the power interests was charged today by Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, who said Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee "was, and doubtless is, connected with interests seeking to exploit Muscle Shoals for private gain."

"The activities of Huston in connection with the Muscle Shoals lobby, as revealed by the Senate committee investigating lobbying," the Texan said in a formal statement, "clearly discloses the unholy alliance between the Republican organization and those interests seeking special privileges.

"It is evident the selection of Huston to head the Republican organization was acceptable to both President Hoover and those predatory interests that finance the organization. In his present position, Huston will be an important factor in the nomination of the Republican Presidential candidate in 1932.

"With Joe Grundy the dominant figure of the so-called administration forces in the Senate, and Huston at the head of the Republican organization, control of the party by the lobbyists, manufacturers' associations and power interests is complete.

Mr. Garner referred also to the opinion rendered by Solicitor Finney of the Interior Department on the question of Boulder Dam power contracts, saying it "is a clear index to the trend of that department in its relations with the power interests."

CAPONE READY TO QUIT PRISON

"Scarface Al" Plans Quick Exit From Pennsylvania

Bodyguard on Hand to Shield Him From Foes

Miami Trip Scheduled After Return to Chicago

PHILADELPHIA, March 16. (Exclusive)—Twenty pounds lighter and at least $150,000 poorer than when he entered the Pennsylvania Eastern State penitentiary ten months ago, "Scarface Al" Capone prepared today to shake the dust of Philadelphia off his feet—forever, he hopes—tomorrow.

Preparations for the get-away went ahead in spite of reports that a mob of Brooklyn "gorillas," bent on avenging the death of their leader, the notorious Frankie Yale, will be waiting at the prison doors for him, and that picked gunmen of the "Bugs" Moran Chicago gang have vowed he will never leave Philadelphia alive.

GUARDS WAITING

"Scarface" wants out, and he made it plain today that once out he'll take care of himself. That is with the help of the crew of faithful henchmen marshalled for the occasion by his brother, Ralph Capone, who set up headquarters in a local hotel several days ago to make plans for guarding Al from the moment the prison doors clang behind him until he can be bundled into a Chicago-bound train.

The present prospects are that Gov. Fisher, who arrived in New York today from a West Indian cruise, will not reach Harrisburg in time to sign a commutation of Capone's sentence until noon tomorrow and that the paper cannot reach Philadelphia from Harrisburg, the State capital, until late tomorrow afternoon.

TALKS OF FUTURE

Capone sat on the edge of his bunk today and talked of freedom and the future.

"Of course," he said, "I'm going back to old Chicago. Where else would I go? I live there, my business is there and my mother and my family are there. And, after I see them, I'll go down to Miami for a month or two. They can't keep me out of Miami. I am an American citizen. I own property there and I'll go there like any other American citizen.

"Jail's a bad place to be in," he mused, "but say, this talk that I walked into Philadelphia and gave myself up is the bunk. When I retire, I'll choose a home-town jail. And I never heard of any $1,000,000 fund to get me out of here, either. Of course, I tried every writ in the book before I gave up, but that other stuff is the bunk."

Army Flyers to Blot Out State With Chemicals

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 16. (Exclusive)—More than three tons of chemicals will descend over the California landscape, temporarily blotting it out when the army air maneuvers are held on the Pacific Coast in April.

The chemical, known in the Air Corps as "F M" and to chemists as titanium tetrachloride, is a yellowish liquid which combines with moisture in the air to produce a dense, white, slightly acid-smelling and harmless smoke. It is used primarily to blind ground troops to aerial activities when released by fast fighting planes.

The smoke screen demonstrations at Sacramento and Los Angeles will be the largest tactical tests of this nature ever put on by the Air Corps.

The army chemical corps has already shipped the "FM" by fast freight for the California maneuvers.

Blow of Fist Kills Asserted 'Peeping Tom'

SEATTLE, March 16. (AP)—The apprehensive growl of a tiny Pekingese dog sounded the death knell of George Mehovilich, 38-year-old logger and fisherman, discovered watching the windows of the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Taylor from across a narrow court here early today.

Aroused by the dog's signal, Lawrence Mugaas, department-store salesman, who was a guest at the Taylor home, dashed from the apartment in pursuit of the prowler, whom he overtook and felled with a blow of his fist. Mehovilich was held prone on the ground until police arrived, who found him dying. Mugaas's blow had broken the man's neck.

Mugaas and Taylor, who also participated in the pursuit of Mehovilich, were absolved of blame by police.

Woman Election Judge Murdered

CHICAGO, March 16. (Exclusive) The body of Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, 61 years of age, Republican election judge in the Second Ward, was found early this morning in a passageway half a block from her home. Her skull was crushed by heavy blows and her torn clothing and bruised hands gave evidence of a futile struggle.

Robbery was the motive, apparently, for her purse, which had contained a few dollars and the check she received at the City Hall last night for her work on registration day, were missing. A gold band wedding ring, torn from her finger but cast aside by the killer as he fled, was found in a near-by yard.

DIST.-ATTY. PRICE ACQUITTED

MADISON (Wis.) March 16. (AP) Clinton G. Price, suspended District Attorney of Juneau county, was acquitted by a Federal court jury today of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The same celery as it came from the Hydrator the following morning. The magic action of the Hydrator has restored the celery to its original state—fresh, crisp, delicious.

Attend the special demonstration now going on at our showroom. Delicious salads and desserts served. Free recipe books. Open evenings until 10 o'clock

ALL this week we're giving a special demonstration of the Frigidaire Hydrator. We're showing what an amazing difference this new compartment makes in vegetables. We're showing how it revives wilted celery—how it restores lost crispness to lettuce and radishes—how it keeps tomatoes firm and delicious.

And, in addition to the Hydrator, we're demonstrating the latest cabinets in Porcelain-on-steel and the famous "Frigidaire Cold Control." We are showing how the "Cold Control" cuts down freezing time—how it increases the variety of frozen delicacies you can make.

Scores of new salads and desserts

The Hydrator and the "Cold Control" enable you to prepare scores of unusual salads and desserts—delicacies you've probably never enjoyed before. Read about them in the recipe books we're presenting to all our guests. Get your copies now. And by all means taste the salads and desserts now being served in our showroom.

Stop in today. We're open evenings until 10 o'clock during this special demonstration.

THE MAURETANIA...HAVE YOU CROSSED IN HER LATELY?

Do you know her "new" staterooms enlarged by throwing two rooms into one? Living in them is a delight... going down to dinner in the columned restaurant is an event to be looked forward to... and you may find it pleasant, while you are ordering your daily caviar, your pheasant or your partridge, to reflect that food in the big CUNARDERS is entirely à la carte... which means that your imagination (and the season, in the case of certain fruits and game,) is the only limit to your menus... and there'll be no "billets durs" at your journey's latter end!

AMERICANISM EVENT PLANNED

Legionnaires of Pomona to Stage Parade Friday

Schumann-Heink and High Officers Invited

Dinner for Distinguished Guests; Program Follows

POMONA, March 16.—A monster Americanism celebration is being arranged by the local Charles P. Rowe Post, No. 30, American Legion, for Friday evening when a huge parade will be staged in the downtown section with the main program scheduled to take place in the high-school auditorium. Preceding the meeting a reception will be held for distinguished guests at a special dinner to be served at the St. Charles Grill, with the following celebrities and many others expected to be present:

Mme. Schumann-Heink, Department Commander Clarence Kincaid and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Kaeding, the latter president of the State auxiliary; Department Chaplain Francis Lee Albert; Department Sergeant-at-Arms Fred R. Dukes and wife; Department Americanism Chairman "Bud" Gearhart and wife, and National Americanism Commissioner Tom McManus.

GLENN WEIST MARSHAL

Glenn L. Weist has been named marshal of the parade, his aides being Phil Curran, Thomas Lambert, John Todd and Edward Guest. In line will be: Boy Scout Troop of Charles P. Rowe Post, South Pasadena drum and bugle corps, Legionnaires of South Pasadena, Lamanda Park, Temple, Arcadia and Upland; Spanish-American War Veterans' auxiliary drum corps, Alhambra drum and bugle corps, Legionnaires of Alhambra, Azusa, Covina, Glendora, Baldwin Park and Chino; Baldy and San Bernardino Voitures of the 40 and 8, Pasadena Drum and Bugle Corps, Legionnaires of Pasadena, Sierra Madre, El Monte, Puente, Monrovia and Fontana, Ontario Drum and Bugle Corps, Legionnaires of Ontario, Claremont, La Verne and Pomona.

Word was received today that the Fontana American Legion Chorus will be present to assist in the exercises at the high school.

John L. Armour, adjutant of the local Legion post, is in general charge of arrangements.

Work on Road Into Desert Well in Hand

TUJUNGA, March 16.—The first unit of the new road through the Sierra Madres from La Canada Valley to the desert is expected to be completed within the next four or five weeks, it is stated by W. H. Rohl, who has the contract.

The work includes the straightening of the Canada road entrance at Haskell and Mountain streets, where two lots were purchased in order to make a sweeping curve at this point instead of adhering to the narrow jog, as hereafter.

This first unit is two miles in length. The second unit is two and a half miles in length. This contract has been let, and the work will start as soon as Rohl is able to release machinery from the first unit. The Morgan Company of Seattle will do the second-unit job. The company already has leased headquarters preparatory to its start.

VAN NUYS BOULEVARD TO TAKE NEW ROUTE

VAN NUYS, March 16.—Three engineering crews are at work on the Van Nuys Boulevard project and are making good progess. An effort is to be made to obtain funds from the county to assist in opening up a new route of this major traffic artery that runs north and south through San Fernando Valley.

As planned, the highway, which now takes an easterly turn at Sepulveda and goes toward Pacoima, is to be rerouted so it will run past the eastern side of San Fernando Reservoir to a new junction with San Fernando Road at the settlement of Sylmar. The new road will give a direct outlet from the central part of San Fernando Valley into Santa Clara Valley, via Newhall and Saugus.

AGED MAN DROPS DEAD

VAN NUYS, March 16.—David R. James, 82 years of age, dropped dead while walking in the orchard at the home of his son, Glenn James, 6060 Fulton avenue. Death was due to a heart attack. The body has been shipped to Bloomington, Ill., James's old home.

AVIATRIX SAILS ON HAWAIIAN VACATION

Edna Coulter

LONG BEACH, March 16.—Celebrating the completion of her examinations for a transport pilot's license, Edna Coulter, local aviatrix, yesterday sailed for a Hawaiian vacation aboard the Lasco liner Calawaii.

The transport license is the highest pilot's credential issued by the Department of Commerce and few women flyers have achieved that rating. Friends of the local flyer who saw her off yesterday asserted there is little doubt that the check-up of Miss Coulter's examination will reveal that she has proved herself entitled to the coveted document.

George Smith, Architect, Dies at Montecito

SANTA BARBARA, March 16.—George Washington Smith, internationally known architect, died in his home on Middle Road in Montecito yesterday morning, after an illness of nearly a year. He was confined to his bed, however, only for a few weeks, after he returned from a trip to New York.

He was born in East Liberty, Pa., February 23, 1879, the son of Frank and Emily Smith. He studied architecture in the Lawrence Scientific School and Harvard, later going to Paris and other parts of Europe to study art. He received an A.B. in architecture from Harvard in 1899.

Up to 1914, Smith practiced architure in Pennsylvania, coming here in that year. He engaged in a private architectural practice here, inaugurating the Hispanic design in homes. He was particularly noted for his work in simple Andalusian design.

He designed the Lobero Theater, the Daily News Building, the Little Town Club, the Santa Barbara Crematorium, in addition to a score of fine homes here, in Montecito, Hope Ranch Park, Pebble Beach and other parts of the State.

He made the plans for the homes of Peter Cooper Bryce, Milton Wilson, Kirk Johnson, Mrs. Mary Stewart, Dr. Samuel Robinson, Dr. Malcolm Douglas, Philip S. Chancellor, Mrs. Russell Perkins, Mrs. Edward Cunningham, Henry Eichheim, De Witt Parshall, Frank Mulhauser, the Misses Cudahy and P. K. Culley.

He was a member of the American Institute of Architects and the American Art Alliance. His club connections were the National Arts, the Montecito and La Cumbre Golf and Country clubs.

Funeral services will be private, from the home Tuesday morning. Interment will be in the Santa Barbara Cemetery.

He leaves his widow, Mary Greenough Smith, and a sister, Mrs. Harmon Brown Bell of Ruxton, Md.

ENDEAVOR LEADERS CHOSEN

BELL, March 16.—Harold Rowe has been elected president of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Memorial Presbyterian Church. Other officers chosen are: Wendell Goodwin, vice-president; Frances Fouke, secretary; John Shively, treasurer; Douglas Tolin, missionary chairman; Mildred Wooky, social chairman; Kenneth Kowarah, prayer-meeting chairman, and Mary McGraw, lookout chairman.

REDLANDS PROSELLIS IN MAKING

Electrical and Painting Work on Park Structure Nearing Completion

REDLANDS, March 16.—Electrical work for the Proselis was practically completed yesterday by the Redlands Electric Company, except for installation of fixtures in the dressing-rooms and the dimmer board. This part of the equipment has not yet arrived, stated W. E. Nance, who has directed the wiring and installations.

The painting work was nearing completion today under the direction of the Redlands Paint and Wall Paper Company. With the cleaning away of construction material, installation of the electrical board and fixtures and landscaping, the Proselis will very soon be ready for formal presentation to the public.

City crews are busy today planting a large date palm at the end of the east wing to match another on the west end. The palm was removed from the yard of F. K. Arthur at 416 West Olive avenue. The job proved one of the largest yet in the landscaping program. The ball of earth and the tree itself weighs several tons. A large hole was necessary for its reception at the Proselis and a crew of five with derrick and tackle worked most of the day to get it in place. It took two tractors to snake the tree to its position from the street, after hauling it from Olive street.

The space of bare ground at each side of the stage is to be planted to grass, aiding the scheme of natural beautification.

The Proselis is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. White to the people of Redlands, a munificent contribution to the community's love of beauty.

Phone Exchange Merger Secures State Sanction

SANTA ANA, March 16.—Approval by the State Railroad Commission of the merging of the Tustin and Santa Ana telephone exchanges, to become effective on or before August 1, was received here Saturday by the Pacific Telephone Company and Attorneys Head, Wellington and Jacobs, representing the Tustin petitioners for consolidation.

Consolidation of the two areas incidentally includes a strip of intervening territory, which thus finds itself, without effort, getting the benefit of lower telephone rates, since all rates, rules and regulations of the Santa Ana area will apply to the consolidated area, the railroad commission ruling states. The ruling is dated the 12th inst.

While Tustin telephone rates will receive a slight upward revision to level themselves with the Santa Ana base rate, the intervening strip between the Santa Ana and Tustin base rate areas has been paying a slightly higher rate which will thus be reduced, it is said.

A considerable number of telephone users in the intervening area, besides the 300 subscribers using 329 telephone connections in Tustin, are affected by the new ruling, which had been sought by the Tustin area.

The following schedule of rates has been in effect in the two areas (figures are for desk phones, wall phones being 25 cents per month less:)

Residence phone, one party—Santa Ana, $3 per month; Tustin, $2.50. Two-part residence lines—Santa Ana, $2.50; Tustin, $2.25. Four-party residence lines—Santa Ana, $2.25; Tustin, $2. Ten-party residence lines—Santa Ana, $3.25; Tustin, $3.25.

Business phones, one-party—Santa Ana, $4.25; Tustin, $3. Two-party business lines—Santa Ana, $3.75; Tustin, $2.50. Ten-party business lines—Santa Ana, $3.75; Tustin, $3.75.

Valley Lake Full to Brim

CHATSWORTH, March 16.—Water conditions in the western part of San Fernando Valley are most encouraging for this season of the year. The Chatsworth reservoir, from which comes the water supply for this part of the valley, is virtually full again.

Preparations are now going on to enlarge the reservoir to three times its present capacity, all work to be completed by midsummer, it is expected. The project is said to be the largest of the kind ever undertaken in Southern California. Recent heavy rains will probably slow up work for the next week. Operations will resume at the first sign of fair weather.

Chatsworth reservoir is fed both by rains and a part of the flow from the Aqueduct that comes down from Owens Valley.

MAN TRYING TO SEE FILM MAGNATE HELD

SANTA MONICA, March 16.—Arrested because he refused to leave the home of Louis B. Mayer, 625 Palisades Beach Road, this city, last night, when he insisted on seeing the M.-G.-M. executive personally, Joseph Rubell, 2430 Huston street, Los Angeles, was held on suspicion of insanity, according to a police report filed by Detectives Young and Greer. Rubell was said to have admitted sending several special-delivery letters to the M.-G.-M. studios at Culver City, but police declared these communications, received by Mayer, were incoherent, as was Rubell's attempt to explain his purpose in demanding to see the motion-picture magnate last night. When arrested Rubell refused to give his name, but was identified by papers in his possession.

WATER OF CHINO BASIN DEFENDED

Mass Meeting Will be Held Wednesday at Chaffey

Strengthening of Protective Association to Be Aim

Outside Districts Said to Plan Inroads on Supply

ONTARIO, May 16.—The dramatic struggle for water that has taken place between men and communities for years is still unsettled and another phase of this great contest will take place at Chaffey Auditorium Wednesday when waterusers from Chino Basin band themselves together in a stronger union to prevent other communities from drawing on their supply.

Chino Water Protective Association includes residents of the valley who draw their water from Chino Basin, supplying Ontario, Upland, Chino and a portion of Pomona. Other districts have their eyes on the Chino Basin. They need water for their own uses, and want to draw on the Chino Basin supply. The regular users of the basin say "No," there isn't enough to go around, and priority rights must be observed.

TEMPORARY BODY FORMED

The "outsiders," who seek to drink at the Chino Valley "water hole" would purchase property in the valley, and on that property sink wells and pipe the water away to other property out of the basin district.

Such a plan was tried once before in the valley, and a temporary protective association was organized to keep them out, and to protect the water for the ranchers and residents of the valley, who, proponents to the association assert, are the only ones entitled to it.

It has come to the attention of valley water guardians that another effort is to be made to draw on the Chino Basin, and it is to prevent any further inroads on the water supply that the Chino Water Protective Association is to be greatly strengthened Wednesday.

CITRUS GROWERS COMING

Citrus growers from the entire west end of San Bernardino county will attend the meeting to discuss plans for further check dam building in local washes and canyons, to cause flood waters and rain to sink into the ground and replenish the Chino water-basin. Preliminary plans for the water conservation program have been approved by company officials, and final steps are expected to be taken at the Wednesday meeting.

Ralph Shoemaker, engineer, has concluded a study of the water situation in Chino Basin and will make his report at the meeting.

J. H. Pearman of Pasadena Dies at His Residence

PASADENA, March 16.—John H. Pearman, local civic leader and Thirty-second Degree Mason, died today at his residence, 1313 North El Molino avenue, following a long period of ill health. Pearman, a native of Ontario, Can., was 65 years of age and had been a California resident for thirty-five years. In recent months he had been serving as secretary of the Twilight Club and as vestryman of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

For many years, Pearman was secretary of the old Pasadena Board of Trade, and until his health interfered, he served as manager of the University Club of Pasadena. He had been active in all branches of civic life, at one time being a member of the Board of Education.

During the World War, Pearman was secretary of the local chapter of the American Red Cross. Besides the Twilight and University clubs, he held memberships in the Valley Hunt and Overland clubs.

In Canada he was associated with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. He later held responsible positions with the Union Pacific Railway Company for twenty years, and for a time was employed by the Western Pacific Railway in San Francisco.

Pearman leaves a widow, Mrs. Harriet Clough Pearman, three sons, John B. Pearman of this city, G. C. Pearman and Chester E. Pearman, both of Oakland, and one daughter, Mrs. E. P. Hale, who resides here.

Funeral services will be conducted in All Saints' Episcopal Church at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will follow in Mountain View Cemetery.

WORK ON CHURCH STARTS

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—Workmen have started laying the foundations of the new Christian Science Church on Morrison street, west of Lankershim Boulevard. Five large trees had to be removed in order to clear the site.

SKELETON LET OUT OF ONE CLOSET

"It Ain't No Sin to Take Off Your Skin," He Sings

Ballroom Entertainers Make No Bones of Their Companion

VENICE, March 16.—"It ain't no sin to take off your skin and dance 'around in your bones," sings this skeleton, with the Venice Ballroom boys, the Mann Brothers.

From whose closet they took the skeleton, they would not say; but it featured in entertaining Sunday crowds over a wintry week-end.

Dog of Fickle Mind Disrupts Crew's Nerves

SAN DIEGO, March 16.—Even ferry captains have their problems, at least Capt. Jim Rowe of the North Island ferryboat Scout has one in the form of a friendly little dog, a newcomer to the water front, named Bowser.

Other dogs in times past have presented various problems. One insisted on riding in the admiral's barge. A second had no ideas of limitations in chasing seagulls and never could distinguish the line marking the docks end and the water's beginning and forever was being pulled from a watery grave by the scruff of his neck.

Brownie, a third dog, was notorious for boarding shore boats at noontime, and once slipped aboard a warship in midchannel, proceeding at once to the galley for chow.

Tom, woolly white dog belonging to Arthur Ponsford, well-known water-fronter, broke into the news columns several months ago when he tangled with a hive of bees.

Bowser, however, has a different complex. He boards the ferry Scout with every intention of going places. But the vessel no sooner clears the dock than Bowser changes his mind. Over the side he leaps and boat schedules are disrupted and boatmen's nerves frayed until Bowser can be hauled on board and deposited on the dock. There he hides himself and dries off in the sun, meantime patiently waiting the next boat when, if not prevented, he repeats his maneuvers.

THEFT OF SCOOTER LEADS INTO STILL

CORONA, March 16.—When a little boy told Chief of Police Garner that his scooter-car had been stolen and that the boy who took it went toward the east side of town, the Chief assured the boy he would find the scooter or know the reason why. Little did Chief Garner think that the trail would lead to a still, but that is what it did, and, as a result, M. Basolto, 65 years of age, of 24 Quarry street, and Miguel Flores, 32, of Los Angeles, and Azusa, were found on the premises, arrested, and lodged in jail charged with operation of a still. The still was of ten-gallon capacity but was being worked to the limit. Barsolto was evidently specialising in apricot brandy, as a sack of dried apricots and other ingredients were found and confiscated, the chief said.

MAN BIDS FRIENDS TO CHURCH ON BIRTHDAY

REDONDO BEACH, March 16.—I. H. Hawkins, local resident, celebrated his birthday in a unique manner today, issuing invitations to forty-two of his friends to attend church with him this morning. All of the invitations to the "party" were accepted and Hawkins and his guests attended the First Baptist Church, where they were assigned a special section.

Douglas Plant Employees Get Lives Insured

SANTA MONICA, March 16.—An insurance policy for $1,650,000, said to be the largest ever written in the Santa Monica Bay district, was taken out yesterday by the Douglas Aircraft Company, the policy representing group insurance for all the 1140 employees who desire to take advantage of it, according to a report here.

The policy was said to have been written by Melville Rapp in the Aetna Life Insurance Company at Hartford. For a small monthly sum each employee is given a $1000 policy without requirement of physical examination.

It was stated that provision under the group policy had been made to cover additional employees of the plant, at the Clover Field Municipal Airport, who are expected to swell the company's pay roll to 1600 persons during 1930.

Firemen Group to Hold Session

SOUTH GATE, March 16.—The Harbor District Firemen's Association will meet in this city on Wednesday evening, when it is expected there will be more than 100 firemen and city officials in attendance from the various municipalities in this district.

The speak ers of the evening will include John H. Colton of the Board of Underwriters, who will discuss the organization of a fire department; Deputy Chief Dunlap, of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, who will talk on "Fire Prevention," and Capt. W. A. Meyers, president of the California State Association, his subject being in regard to the two-platoon system. The meeting is called for 7:30 p.m.

WATER COMPANY'S ACTION GAINS POINT

SANTA ANA, March 16. — Any act that threatens to cause damage is properly subject to injunctive action, it was successfully argued by Attorney F. C. Drum in supporting the San Juan Water Company's injunction suit against the city of San Clemente's water development project on San Juan Creek, before Superior Judge James L. Allen. Judge Allen overruled the demurrer to the injunction suit, filed by Attorney Charles D. Swanner, for the city of San Clemente, and allowed fifteen days for the filing of an answer. The demurrer had raised the question of whether there was ground for enjoining San Clemente from acquiring water-bearing land in San Juan watershed on the supposition that damage would result.

GALLONS OF LIQUOR GURGLE DOWN SEWER

VAN NUYS, March 16. — More than 1000 gallons of bootleg liquor, consisting of whisky, gin, alcohol and wine, confiscated during the last month by the San Fernando Valley dry squad, was removed from the police station "booze warehouse" and poured into the sewer back of the station yesterday by trustees under the direction of Capt. C. A. Hodson. The liquor had been collected in raids all over the valley area.

COUNTERFEIT MOLDS FOUND ON SUSPECT

BRAWLEY, March 16.—Bert Williams and Grover Eckman were arrested by local police late Saturday night with counterfeit dollar molds, bar nickel and counterfeit money. Williams confessed and said he was recently paroled from San Quentin, where he was serving a deadly-weapon-assault term. Federal authorities at Los Angeles were notified.

Boy Scouts to Make Tujunga Spick and Span

TUJUNGA, March 16.—The Boy Scouts are called on the job again. This time they are going to clean up a town. Tujunga's annual clean-up day is on the 22nd inst. The Boy Scout troop has volunteered to do the work which will include everything from raking off vacant lots, hauling off tin cans and other rubbish, to putting streets and sidewalks in trim.

Workers in the local street department will help, promising to take their orders from the leaders of the Scouts. The boy leaders in the job are Llewellen Richmond, Lee Warner, Winfield Hartranft, Walter Seidel, Keith Wheeling, Bill Warner, Nick Couch, Owen Banks, Dick Gwartney, Willis Sawyer, Joe Ellenbergen, Ray Shain, Bob Hughes and Frank Sutton. "Any kid, Scout or no Scout, found loafing around on clean-up day," will be handed a shovel or rake," young Hartranft said yesterday.

Motorist Runs Down Officer Directing Traffic

HUNTINGTON PARK, March 16. Frank Haddon, member of the local police department, was very seriously injured last night, as he was directing traffic at a pedestrian lane in the business section of Pacific Boulevard, when he was hit by an automobile, driven by Gus Middleton of this city.

The officer was picked up, an ambulance called, and was rushed to the Mission Hospital. An examination showed that both legs were broken at the knees, his shoulder bone broken, and the right side of his head injured. His condition is very serious, it is stated.

Middleton stopped his car after the accident and ran back to the lane. He informed police that he had failed to see the officer, but felt the car strike something and brought it to a stop immediately.

SHIPPEY TO ADDRESS PREP JOURNALISTS

HUNTINGTON PARK, March 16. Plans are being completed by the students of journalism at the Huntington Park Union High School for the entertainment of 400 delegates to the semiannual convention of the Southern California High School Press Association, which will be held at the school here Friday. Lee Shippey, Los Angeles Times columnist, will be the speaker. Awards for the year will also be announced. It is planned to have a banquet in the high school cafeteria in the evening. The visitors will be welcome in the afternoon by K. L. Stockton, principal of the school, and Sherman Gidley, president of the student body. Sectional meetings will occupy the remainder of the afternoon. Special music will be provided by the high school band in the afternoon and by the high school orchestra in the evening.

Foster, also [illegible] ing re-election to the board, is [illegible] of the four candidates who has been indorsed by the Lea [illegible] ance League. The other four [illegible] sured of the backing of the [illegible] zation are N. Lee Lohse, [illegible] Cromas and F. A. Alexander.

Daniel J. Stanton, Jr., and [illegible] Johnson have entered the [illegible] independents. Stanton is [illegible] to fill the short term created by [illegible] expiration of the term of Harry [illegible] Note, who refused to stand [illegible] election. He will be opposed by [illegible] A. Alexander, who is also a [illegible] pirant for the short term.

MAYOR NOT TO RUN

Mayor Allen Wheaton, [illegible] term also expires this spring, [illegible] declined to again run for the [illegible] Theodore Krumm is the only [illegible] ber of the present board who [illegible] hold over without being required [illegible] seek re-election.

Rumors that a number of [illegible] office seekers will enter the [illegible] have thus far not materialized [illegible] cially.

Formation of a Taxpayers' [illegible] League, it is stated, is making [illegible] headway with the circulation of [illegible] titions among citizens. Announcement of candidates advanced by [illegible] supported by the new organization will be made Thursday, according to Theodore Krumm, who is temporary chairman of the [illegible] Plans are being made to hold a public meeting in the near future.

Highway Board Confers Today

SANTA ANA, March 16.—[illegible] of the Ortega Joint Highway [illegible] trics will gather in Riverside tomorrow for a preliminary meeting preparatory to their trip to San Francisco Tuesday to confer with the State Highway Commission, [illegible] B. B. Meek, director of the [illegible] partment of Public Works, [illegible] to plans for the highway from Elsinore to San Juan Capistrano.

Portions of Orange and Riverside counties are included in the proposed highway district, and finances [illegible] has been promised the district by the State, to the extent of one-third of the project's cost.

Supervisor George Jeffrey of Irvine, and Mayor Frank Cleveland of Laguna Beach, two of the five directors of the Ortega district, will go to Riverside Monday, accompanied by County Highway Superintendent Nat H. Neff, to confer with the Riverside County officials.

SNOWBALL ALMOST KILLS

Icy Missile Hurled by Youth on Camp Baldy Road Hits Windshield; Glass Enters Man's Neck

PASADENA, March 16.—An icy snowball hurled at a passing automobile on the Camp Baldy road narrowly missed taking the life of Richard Valentine, 21 years of age, of 9626 Franklin avenue, Hollywood. The snowball smashed the windshield and a jagged glass fragment buried itself in Valentine's neck, missing the parotid artery by a fraction of an inch.

At the time the missile was thrown, Valentine was returning from the snowline near Camp Baldy, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Haman of Hollywood.

After wrapping his neck with handkerchiefs, the victim had his companion race to the Pasadena Emergency Hospital while he attempted to stop the flow of blood. Dr. John Soukalski, who administered first aid, reported Valentine would recover.

The boy whose careless act threatened to take a life, voluntarily accompanied Valentine and Miss Haman to the local police station, where he was released pending Valentine's decision as to filing charges against him. The boy's name was not noted by the police.

TRACTORS DISPLACE BURROS

Last Stronghold of Old West, Pack Trains of United States Forestry Service, Invaded by Caterpillar

SANTA BARBARA, March 16.—The last stronghold of the romantic old west, the pack trains of the United States Forestry Service, has been invaded and the picturesque, scraggy burros will have to make way for the iron horses, the caterpillar tractors, the engines of the machine age, according to United States Forest Supervisor S. A. Nash-Boulden.

During recent weeks, the experiments with the tractors in cutting trails through the forest have proven so successful that practically all of the new ones in this section will be mowed out by the monster tractors. The machines can for the same cost and less time cut a five-foot trail through the forest's densest undergrowth than it takes for men to hew an eighteen-inch path, Nash-Boulden said.

Until recently the primeval forest, the tangled mass of bushes and rugged hillsides were the stumbling blocks barring the advance of the machine into the peaceful seclusion of the "back country."

Only the indomitable, resolute flea-bitten burro and an occasional horse could pack the narrow trails of the forest's interior. But now even that picturesque companion of the forester and miner is to disappear, going the way of the Old West as romance gives way to utility and economy. The tractor and trailer will snort and groan with the packs, the necessities of men, in the forest in a few years, as the gasoline monsters tear their new paths through the virgin timber.

JEW PROVES IN-JEW-DICIOUS

Hebrew Motorist in Hurry Asks for Traffic-Violation Ticket in Santa Barbara Court and Finds Justice is Scotchman! Fine-Refund Denied, of Course

SANTA BARBARA, March 16. Melville Brume, Los Angeles, was in a hurry this morning on the Coast highway, near Santa Maria. He was in such a hurry that after being cited for speeding, he wanted the ticket made out for a Santa Barbara Justice of the Peace, so he would not have to go back to Santa Maria. State Traffic Officer C. E. Loomis booked him in Justice of the Peace Thomas Poole's court.

Justice of the Peace Poole is a Scotchman, and is not ashamed of it. Brume is a Hebrew, and he is proud, too. The canny justice showed the Los Angeles motorist his book of fines for speeding. The fines read $100, $50 and $25.

Brume was undaunted. "I guess I'll have to plead guilty," he remarked. "No guessing here," said Poole.

"Well, I'm guilty," the Los Angeles man sighed.

"Ten dollars," chirped the Scotch justice of the peace.

"Ten dollars?" echoed Brume, hardly believing his ears.

"Yes," replied the justice, who explained his fines are assessed according to the seriousness of the violation.

Brume was overjoyed. He laughed, and not to be outdone by the justice's joke, declared:

"All I can ask now is that you refund the fine, to make this story end right."

"No," said Justice Poole, "you never heard a story yet where a Jew got anything back from a Scotchman."

Entire Complexion of Navy Conference Changed

[illegible] work is going on, and [illegible] there is nothing else I can say. That is my declaration and the declaration of the French delegation."

RESULTS REVIEWED

It appeared tonight that the first phase of the talk at Chequers was devoted to a review of the work the conference has whipped into shape since Premier Tardieu was called to return to Paris by the French political crisis a month ago. These questions, upon which as M. Tardieu put it agreement "is either certain or easy," fall under four headings:

(1.) Complete American, British and Japanese agreement regarding naval ratios and limitation.

(2.) A five-power battleship holiday for five years, or until a general disarmament conference is called at Geneva in 1935-36.

(3.) Humanization of submarine warfare.

(4.) Settlement on a permanent basis of important technical problems such as the compromise between global and category tonnage limits.

DIFFICULT PROBLEMS

Then Mr. MacDonald and M. Tardieu turned to those questions that offered greater difficulties. These were principally two:

(1.) France's desire for a separate guarantee in the Mediterranean.

(2.) The French fleet tonnages [illegible] of 724,000 tons, and the [illegible] question of ratios, particularly with reference to Italy's claim to parity with France.

[illegible] Tardieu's statement tonight indicated that methods were provided for attacking these problems, and it is on this work that will be launched early tomorrow before the French Premier leaves for home.

JAPANESE DIVIDED ON PROVISIONAL PACT

TOKIO, March 16. (AP)—Differences between the naval and civilian elements of the Japanese government, it became known today, must be reconciled before Tokio can approve the provisional Japanese-American agreement, which it is now authoritatively known, the delegates at the London conference have submitted to their governments.

The Japanese naval element is known to hold strong misgivings concerning the large cruiser and submarine sections of the tentative formula, but the Associated Press has reason to believe that civilian opinion favors acceptance of the agreement.

The view prevails in authoritative quarters here that this week will witness a definite Japanese-American agreement, which, with British adhesion, insures at least a tripartite London naval pact which would make the conference a success as far as Japan is concerned, since she is but little interested in the French and Italian navies.

The Associated Press obtained an authoritative outline of the provisional agreement as submitted to Tokio. In the eight-inch-gun cruiser class it provides 180,000 tons for America and 108,400 for Japan, or 60 per cent of the American tonnage.

CRUISER TONNAGES

In the smaller cruiser category the United States would be allowed [illegible] tons and Japan 101,500 tons, or her requested 70 per cent. Japan also would receive 70 per cent in the destroyer division, the tonnages being America, 150,000, Japan, 105,000. The two nations would have parity in submarines in which each could build 52,000 tons. The tentative schedule would give the United States a total tonnage of [illegible],000 and Japan 346,800, or 60.8 per cent of the American total.

Supplementing this schedule America would undertake to complete only fifteen large cruisers before 1936. The remaining three would be laid down, one annually, beginning in 1933.

Japan, on the other hand, would not be permitted to lay down any more large cruisers before 1936. Japan would retain her present strength composed of four 10,000-ton cruisers, the Nachi, Myoko, Haguro and Ashigara, already completed, and the four 7100-ton vessels, the Furutaka, Kako and Kinugasa, which are also completed. The four 10,000-ton ships which are now being built, the Takao, Atago, Chokai and the Maya, of which the last probably will be completed by the end of 1932, would also be retained.

Board Confers in Car Pay Row

PORTLAND (Or.) March 16. (AP)—A board of arbitration, composed of one member appointed by the Pacific Northwest Public Service Company, another appointed by the Street Car Men's Union, and third selected by the company and union, continued discussions today in an effort to settle the pay-increase row between the utility and car men.

Rejection of the wage relief plan offered by the utility, formerly the Portland Electric Power Company, was voted early today by 1400 members of the Street Car Men's Union, one of the largest meetings held by the union in several years.

CHILD'S ARROW REPELS LYNX

Boy Defends Himself and His Sister from Animal's Vicious Attack

REGINA (Sask.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Defending themselves with only a bow and arrow, Robert A. Martenson, 8 years of age, and his 5-year-old sister drove off a vicious attack of a lynx at their farm home at Warmley, near here.

The little girl was badly injured by bites and scratches of the animal.

The two children had gone out into the bush to play "Indian." The lynx sprang on the girl, clawing and biting her. Her brother kicked it and then drew his bow. The arrow hit the animal and it disappeared in the brush.

WAR'S DEAD PAID HONOR BY GERMANY

Von Hindenburg and Other High Officials Present at Services

BERLIN, March 16. (AP) — The German Memorial Day mourning services in the Reichstag for the war dead were attended today by President Von Hindenburg, members of the Mueller Cabinet, Reichstag Deputies, army and navy officers and many other prominent persons.

The great hall of the Reichstag was draped entirely in black. Two enormous laurel wreaths, entwined with the republican colors, adorned the speaker's desk, behind which the color bearers of the Reichswehr were drawn up. To left and to right, completely encircling the hall, stood the deputations from the students' fraternities in historical costumes.

Dr. Wilhelm Kahl, populist member of the Reichstag, read the memorial address. He pointed out that of 2,000,000 German war dead, the bodies of only 200,000 rest in German soil. The others are in thirty-eight different countries and at the bottom of the sea.

The services were concluded with a roll of drums and the dipping of flags, after which the entire assembly sang "Deutschland Lied." President Von Hindenburg then reviewed a company of the Reichswehr in the square in front of the hall.

Similar memorial services were conducted in other parts of Germany.

AUSTRIA PLANS OPEN-SHOP LAW

servative Christian Socialists, since the abortive revolution in 1927.

But, although they have been driven from the government of the state, the Socialists are still firmly entrenched in Vienna and there is little probability that they will be driven out for many years. Indeed the municipality of Vienna stands as the chief stronghold of social democracy in Europe today. It is curiously paradoxical. Its finances are controlled by one of the best financial brains of Central Europe, Hugo Breitner, who, although working for the Marxists, uses the methods he learned in private banking.

It has accumulated much of its great reserve capital by purely capitalistic methods, and is one of the largest buyers of foreign currencies at a time when the banks are selling the krone and are forcing it down.

All of the capitalistic enterprises which thrive here pay heavy tribute to it in the form of the highest taxes in Europe. And it has gone into business for itself on a large scale.

Its co-operative stores are among the largest institutions of their kind in Europe. It maintains a savings bank, restaurants, bakeries, book shops, libraries, public baths and schools. It supports the Teetotallers' League, for the Austrian Socialists believe in partial prohibition; the Free Thinkers' League and numerous athletic and sporting clubs.

MONOPOLY IN HOUSING

But it is in housing where the city has gone into business on the largest scale. It enjoys practically a monopoly in the building trade. No private enterprise wants to sink a penny in such a business as long as the ridiculously low rents are maintained by law.

Already the municipality has constructed 25,000 dwellings and intends to build that many more within the next few years.

For $4 or $5 a month a worker can get a clean, airy apartment, with plumbing marvels which even old Franz Josef never enjoyed, for the old Emperor held out until the end against such modern American contrivances as bathrooms.

Luxury here, as might be expected in Marxist Utopia, foots the bill. You are allowed one servant per home, but if you need two, that is a luxury and you are taxed accordingly. The municipality decrees how many rooms your family may live in. If the apartment contains more than the city believes you need, that is a luxury, too, and you pay dearly for the spare rooms or else vacate them and make room for somebody else to occupy them.

AUTO ALSO LUXURY

Automobiles too are a luxury and only the very rich can afford them. An American car costing $1000 sells for two times that here. Hence, there are no traffic problems in Vienna, because only a few taxis and street cars ply the streets.

As in France, a good hotel constitutes a "luxury" and a fourth of the price of your own room goes directly into the city's coffers to be used to finance new dwellings for the workers.

Restaurants and cafes are graded according to the "prices charged, the class of customers, the appointments, and the degree of comfort offered the customers," as the city law puts it.

POLICE TO LOSE BUMPERS

They Can Have Three Meals by Halving Them; Hundreds on Chicago Force Affected

CHICAGO, March 16. (Exclusive)—The boys with the big belts in the police department were groaning in earnest today when they received the prescribed diet with which to reduce their girth and weight to the necessary dimensions recently ordered.

For breakfast everything is done in halves; a slice of toast half an inch thick, one-half cup of cereal and one-half cup of milk. And egg will never be plural again for a copper. The order says: "One egg and cooked without fat." And also fruit—a medium-size orange—or one small slice of honeydew melon.

The daily diets are in the hands of 383 policemen selected for weight reduction by an advisory staff, consisting of Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, commissioner of health; Dr. Elmer W. Mosley, chief police surgeon, and Dr. Joseph A. Luhan of the health department.

The men selected are only those who are physically fit except for being more than 20 per cent overweight and who are not more than 55 years of age. It was pointed out that the diet is not for use by unselected obese individuals, because in certain cases the diet might prove harmful.

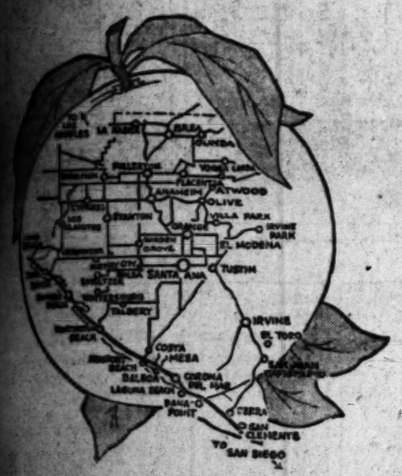
Orange County

The Richest County Per Cultivated Acre in the World



That Is a Big Claim To Make Isn't It---But It Is Not So Hard To Explain

You see Orange County is not large . . . only 780 square miles in extent. Its cultivated area could almost be placed within the city limits of Los Angeles, 400 square miles.

This cultivated acreage is in large part put to the very highest money bringing products. Oranges, lemons, walnuts, grapefruit, truck crops and beans.

LEMONS	$ 3,626,724
WALNUTS	$ 2,558,230

And this does not include nearly $50,000,000 oil and gasoline production.

This Is Why Orange County Lands Are Always a Safe Investment

The amount you pay per acre is not what makes a good or bad buy. IT IS WHAT THAT ACRE PRODUCES YEAR IN AND YEAR OUT.

MORE CRUISERS URGED FOR NAVY

Guantanamo Bay Maneuvers Show Greatest Need

Magruder and Nulton Repeat Former Contentions

"Battle of Navassa" Drives More Lessons Home

BY JOHN A. PARK

GUANTANAMO BAY, March 16. (AP)—Cruisers and more cruisers—those fleet scouting greyhounds of the sea—are the present need of the American Navy, even as they have been in years past.

This is the consensus of flag and other high-ranking officers of the United States fleet in Guantanamo Bay, fresh today from experiences gained and lessons learned in the "Battle of Navassa," theoretically fought to a finish in the Caribbean Friday after almost a week of maneuvering and scouting involving intricate problems and in which ships of every type played their part.

Since the days of the Washington disarmament conference, which throttled all serious naval construction, cruisers have been at the forefront of international news.

MAGRUDER'S STATEMENTS

The recent maneuvers and the working out of fleet problems have not changed the opinion of high-ranking naval men that fast scouts in the form of light cruisers are still of so high an importance that without them a fleet staggers about in its battle strategy as a blind man.

Rear-Admiral T. P. Magruder, who acted as umpire in the war game just completed, is emphatic that from the lessons which came out of the tactical problem, it is absolutely necessary to have a large fleet of fast cruisers, modern from stem to stern, if a mobile fleet is to be formidable in action.

A lack of sufficient light forces, including destroyers and cruisers, Admiral Magruder believes, considerably hampered officers in command of both the "black" and the "blue" fleets in the "battle" just completed, cutting down their visibility and range of intelligence operation.

NULTON VIEWS GIVEN

Rear-Admiral Magruder also is of the opinion that the United States should proceed with the building of 135,000 tons of aircraft carriers allowed by the Washington conference. Also, he believes, the new carriers should be smaller than the Saratoga and the Lexington, to permit greater numbers of this type of ship.

The present maneuvers have shown, it is pointed out, that it is almost as easy to disable a giant like the Saratoga as to incapacitate a smaller carrier and that when it is gone the fleet is powerless and a great extent of visibility goes with it. The total tonnage of aircraft carriers now in commission is 90,000 tons.

Admiral L. M. Nulton, who commanded the "Blue Fleet" in the exercises, emphasized the need of an offensive fleet for a large force of cruisers, not only for screen work, but for scouting far ahead of the great ships of the line. The "Blue Fleet" cruised about the Caribbean for days in vain search for the mythical invader.

Another important lesson that has come out of the exercises is that aircraft, no matter how great the number of planes, cannot always be depended upon to furnish the fleet with its eyes. It was pointed out that the airplane must often bow to weather conditions and that aircraft carriers, even of the latest types and high speeds, are highly vulnerable to attack not only from submarines but from bombing planes.

"BLUE FLEET" WINS, ENDING SHAM NAVAL WAR

BY LIEUT. C. E. CHAPEL U.S.M.C.

AT SEA WITH U.S.S. CALIFORNIA, March 14. (Via United States Naval Radio to San Pedro)—War maneuvers which it was believed would last a week or more ended abruptly today when the battle fleet scored a decisive theoretical victory over the scouting fleet in a flashing counter-attack during the problem propounded in the waters of Windward Passage, here in the Caribbean Sea, between Haiti and Navassa Island.

Moving in at close range, after having been strafed by airplanes from the carrier Lexington, the battleships of the "Blue Fleet," by which the battle fleet under command of Admiral Louis Nulton is known, shelled the light forces of the "Black Fleet" with such telling effect that at 9 a.m. Rear-Admiral T. P. Magruder, acting as umpire, declared a halt to the "hostilities."

The "Black Fleet" is commanded by Vice-Admiral W. C. Cole.

The problem was declared under way for solution last Monday when the "Blue Fleet" steamed out of the canal and made for its secretly agreed source of attack. On Thursday submarines and cruisers returned to the "Blue Fleet" and reported the presence of enemy subs and scouts. The "Blue Fleet" prepared at once for an attack.

At daylight today the attack came, with bewildering surprise. A fleet of airplanes, loosed by the Lexington, swooped out of the sky with almost demoralizing suddenness and strafed the Blue battleships. Hovering overhead and diving and darting like a horde of pestiferous hornets they peppered the decks until sunup and then zoomed away to their mother ship.

Early this morning the "Blue Fleet" retaliated by moving in at close range, prepared to strike, only to be met by a torpedo attack from the light forces, the cruisers and destroyers of the "Black Fleet." The Black repulse movement, however, was unenduring; repeated salvos from the battleships outpointing the cruisers and destroyers and turning the tide of battle in favor of the Blue.

Both fleets now are en route to Guantanamo Bay, Cuban naval base, where all fleets are scheduled to concentrate preliminary to future maneuvers.

GOLD FINDERS PROFIT NONE

Virginians Rush to Range of Discovery After Eating Feathered Prospectors

KEYSER (W. Va.) March 16. (Exclusive)—A "gold rush" in the South Branch Valley is a probability within the next twenty-four hours as the result of $130 worth of gold dust being found in the craws of seventeen turkeys.

The turkeys were owned by James L. Marshall of Grant county, who resides near Greenland Gap. The birds were sent to the meat market at Burton. When they were dressed and cleaned a small quantity of shiny metal was found in the crop of each. This metal was taken to the assayer and proved to be gold.

NEW DEPARTURE ON CITIZENSHIP

Italy Prepares to Establish Two Classifications

"Minor" Type to Be Exempt From Army Service

Legislation on Subject Now Before Rome Senate

ROME, March 16. (Exclusive)—Legislation has been presented to the Italian Senate this week by the Ministry of Justice to modify the existing regulations of Italian citizenship and establish a special new kind of citizenship.

Under the new law there will be the ordinary variety of Italian citizens, and another kind who will have what is to be called minor citizenship. The minor citizens will be considered Italians, but they will be exempt from the obligation of military service, and at the same time will not have the usual political rights.

The bill is expected to cover these cases of emigrated Italians who have given up their Italian citizenship, but who still keep their Italian sentiments and cultural attachments.

This law will have an important bearing on the members of Italian colonies in other countries, and is expected by the government to keep alive the attachment to the mother country among emigrated Italians without bringing them into conflict with the government of their adopted country.

Such conflicts have arisen in the past through the Italian government's point of view that children of Italian parents born abroad are Italians, whereas in the case of some countries, like the United States, they are considered American if they are born on American soil.

Seller of Maria Theresa's Necklace Neglects Bill

She and Townsend Reported on Ship Europe-Bound

Things They Borrowed From Friend Held by Hotel

NEW YORK, March 16. (Exclusive)—Col. C. F. Townsend and the "Princess" Gerve Baront, not content with selling the $400,000 diamond necklace of the Archduchess Maria Theresa for $60,000 and assertedly escaping with most of the money, also managed to leave a bit of grief behind among some of their friends in this city, it was charged today.

Mrs. May Mott-Smith, a travel writer who had befriended the Townsends and once sought to aid them in the sale of the Napoleonic necklace, declared today she had lent the couple some of her own pictures and hangings to decorate their rooms at the Montclair Hotel, where they were seeking a purchaser for the necklace. The management of the hotel now is holding these articles, together with some of the Townsend baggage, in lieu of unpaid rent during the ten days that hotel held the rooms, under the impression that the two were to return.

The pictures Mrs. Mott-Smith described as trifles, similar to the ones which decorated her own room at the Montclair. The hangings she had purchased during her travels in India are valued more highly.

Col. Townsend, accompanied by the "Princess" was reported to have been on the Atlantic, Europe-bound, when last heard from. The "Princess" is traveling on Col. Townsend's passport, having none of her own, it is said.

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Lieutenant Albert Werper, after six months of loneliness in the Belgian Congo, was in a dangerous mood. Because he had dishonored his family name, the young man had been banished from the gay life of Brussels. Now, in this isolated section of Africa, he brooded over his monotonous existence until his hatred toward his superior officers had become a form of mania.

Tonight, he sat upon the veranda of their common quarters, glaring in silent rage at his captain, the one supreme object of his dislike. The captain was a silent man and Werper interpreted this silence as a studied attempt to ignore him. Werper imagined that his superior held him in contempt, and so he fumed inwardly until now his madness became suddenly homicidal.

Nervously fingering his revolver, Lieutenant Werper's eyes narrowed and his brows contracted. At last he spoke: "You've insulted me for the last time." He sprang to his feet as did the captain, upon whose face was an expression of surprise as he turned toward his junior, though he had often seen men with this jungle madness upon them, the madness of solitude and brooding.

He extended his hand to lay it soothingly on Werper's shoulder, seeking to calm him. Quiet words of counsel were upon his lips, but they were never spoken. Even before he could defend himself, the enraged lieutenant pulled the trigger. Without a moan, the captain sank to the floor, and, as he fell, the mists that had clouded Werper's brain lifted. He realized he was a murderer.

POINT FIRMIN, March 16.—A [illegible]-about-face by the old weath[illegible]man changed the complexion of the national midwinter yachting championships here today. The Californians were held scoreless while the Pampas riders counted goal after goal until the final whistle found their total 10.

Juan Reynal, playing at No. 2, scored three goals in the closing minutes of the fourth chukker and late in the eighth sank another.

Capt. Manuel Andrada played a great defensive game in addition to scoring goals in the fourth and seventh chukkers.

The other Argentine goals were distributed between Alfredo Harrington and Jose Reynal, each scoring in the sixth and eight chukkers.

HELENE MADISON SHINES

Seattle Swimming Star Cracks Third World Record in as Many Days, Featuring Miami Beach Events

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) March 16. (AP)—Helene Madison of the Crystal Swimming Club, Seattle, hung up her third world's record in as many days when she cut 15 3-5 seconds from the former mark for the 500-yard free-style swim here today.

Her accomplishment together with a world's record in the 100-yard back stroke, set by Eleanor Holm, Women's Swimming Association, New York, featured the fourth day's program of the National A. A. U. women's indoor championships.

The 16-year-old Seattle star was leading the field by more than thirty yards when she concluded her record-breaking swim in the 500-yard event. Her time was 6m. 16 2-5s. The former record was made by Martha Norelius, New York, in 1927, and was 6m. 32s.

Josephine McKim, star of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, placed second and Lisa Lindstrom, Women's Swimming Association, New York, third. Miss McKim's time of 6m. and 29s. was three seconds better than the former world's record.

Miss Holm, swimming in easy fashion, nosed out the field in the 100-yard backstroke to clip three-fifths of a second from the former record. Her time was 1m. 12s., against the former 1m. 12 3-5s., established by Joan McSheehey, Whitinsville Athletic Club, Boston, a year ago.

Miss McSheehey placed second in the event today and was followed by Adelaide Lambert, Women's Swimming Association of New York, in third place.

Team standings, with their points, at the end of the fourth day's events follow:

Women's Swimming Association, New York, 23½.
Crystal Swimming Club, Seattle, 15.
Illinois Women's Athletic Club, Chicago, 13.
Los Angeles Athletic Club, 12.

SISKIN FUTURITY VICTOR

Son of Epinard Romps Home First in Classic at Agua Caliente; Shasta Broom Second

AGUA CALIENTE (Mex.) March 16.—Siskin, the first son of the famous French horse, Epinard, to come to the races in the West, stamped himself as a real colt this afternoon, when he dashed to an easy victory in the first running of the Agua Caliente futurity.

Siskin taking the track when the field reached the stretch drew away to win off by himself six lengths in the van of his nearest rival, Shasta Broom. Flying Ace got the show.

A field of 17 2-year-olds, the pick of the young thoroughbreds at the plant, went to the post but one, Princess Diablo, declining the issue of the overnight field.

The victory of the Epinard Ruddy, light colt, was worth $10,980 to George W. Wingfield, master of the Nevada stock farm stable. The stake was for $7500 added money at five furlongs.

The track was heavy for the running of the stake, but despite this handicap Siskin ran the five panels in 1:01 4-5.

Behind the three leaders came in

RANCHO VICTOR IN TEAM EVENT

Defeats Bakersfield Golfers by 6-to-1 Score

Beckwith, LaSarge Lose Only Match on 21st Hole

Local Stars Hold 12-to-2 Edge Over Stockdale

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Rancho's fourteen-man golf team, which defeated the Stockdale Country Club of Bakersfield, 6 to 1, in a match played over the local course last Sunday, paid a visit to the northern course yesterday and won again by the same margin.

George (Jix) Von Elm and Harry Atwater of Rancho, who barely nosed out a victory over Johnny De Paolo and Tom McQuire, 1 up in twenty-one holes last week, won handily yesterday, 4 and 3.

W. W. Beckwith and Art La Sarge were the only Rancho players defeated in a hotly contested match with Roland Voorheis and C. W. Hardy. The match went twenty-one holes.

Rancho won the remaining five matches as follows:

Leon Keller and George Lance (R.) defeated Lloyd A. Stroud and Fay Rogers (B.), 4 and 3.
Gibson Dunlap and Cliff Turner (R.) defeated Harry Bloomer and Charles Webster (B.), 3 and 2.
Phil Carter and E. Turner (R.) defeated M. J. Stack and Frank Easton (B.), 2 and 1.
Lee Pendergrass and Paul R. Jones (R.) defeated Don Cardiff and L. H. Dodd (B.), 2 and 1.
Norman Allen and Dr. C. K. Manhart (R.) defeated W. Mortenson and Robert Leidy (B.), 5 and 4.

That gives Rancho a 12-to-2 edge in the home and home series.

Rancho will muster its full strength on Sunday for a first-round play-off match with the Victoria Country Club of Riverside in the Southern California interclub team match championship. The match is scheduled to be played at Midwick.

MONTEBELLO TOURNEY EXTENDED ONE WEEK

Willis I. Hunter, professional of the Montebello Park golf course, announced yesterday that first-round matches in the first annual Montebello championship will be extended a week due to rain, and may be played on any day through Sunday, the 23rd inst. First-round matches were scheduled to be completed yesterday.

Tilden Wins Three Titles in Nice Play

NICE (France) March 16. (AP)—Three championships in the Southern France tennis tournament today fell into the hands of Big Bill Tilden, veteran Philadelphia player. Tilden won the singles title by defeating Lyttleton Rogers, Irish Davis Cup player, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. He then paired with Wilbur F. Coen of Kansas City to capture the doubles championship, beating the Japanese, Satoo and Takeichi Harada, in a hard-fought five-set match, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-9, 6-1. The mixed doubles title went to Tilden and his German partner, Cecilie Aussem, through a 6-4, 6-0 victory over Elizabeth Ryan, former American now living in England, and Charles Kindsley of England. The women's title went to Mme. Simone Mathieu of France, who defeated Miss Ryan, 6-4, 7-5.

CUBS AND SHEIKS TO MIX TODAY

Oscar Vitt Makes Out Batting Order for Club in Two Games

SAN DIEGO, March 16.—Having been rained out yesterday and Saturday, Bill Lane's Hollywood Stars will engage the Chicago Cubs second team tomorrow and Tuesday. Manager Oscar Vitt hopes that the showers of today will have cleared sufficiently to allow the teams to play tomorrow.

Vitt's batting order, which has not yet officially gone into action, will feature Dud Lee, shortstop, in the lead-off position. Lee has been Hollywood's capable lead-off artist for some seasons and Vitt has great confidence in "Muscles," as Dud is nicknamed.

Mike Gazella, Hollywood's new third-sacker, will follow Lee to the platter, after which Cleo Carlyle, center-fielder, Bill Rumler, right-fielder, and Mickey Heath, first baseman, will level their heavy artillery on the opposition. Either Frank Wetzel or McNeely, San Diego State

COPS CROWN IN STRAIGHT SETS

Edith Cross Vanquished at Huntington, 6-1, 6-3

Finals of Invitation Play Marred by Downpour

Miss Cruickshank Defeats Miss Greef in Upset

Playing between the raindrops, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, America's tennis queen, yesterday won the women's singles championship in the Hotel Huntington invitation tournament with a straight-set win over Miss Edith Cross, 6-1, 6-3.

Mrs. Moody also appeared in a doubles exhibition paired with Gerald Stratford against Miss Ethel Burkhart and Phil Neer. Rain halted the match, however, with Mrs. Moody and Stratford leading, five games to four.

Miss Josephine Cruickshank furnished the biggest upset of the day when she defeated Miss Mary Greef, 6-2, 6-3, in the first round of the women's singles. Miss Cruickshank is ranked tenth nationally, while Miss Greef is sixth.

Miss Cross won her first-round match with Carolyn Babcock, 6-2, 6-3.

In second-round matches, Miss Cross won a hotly contested match from Miss Cruickshank, 8-6, 3-6, 6-2. Miss Wills advanced to the finals with a win over Miss Ethel Burkhart, 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Cross was not at her best against Mrs. Moody, as she played her three matches consecutively with only a five-minute rest period between her matches with Miss Cruickshank and Mrs. Moody.

Sidney Wood and Lester Stoefen of the Los Angeles Athletic Club scored a smashing victory over Nell Brown and Bobby Sellars, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Sellars and Brown, it will be remembered, defeated Van Ryn and Allison in the finals of the Pacific Southwest tennis championships last fall.

Ben Gorchakoff and Art Kussman won their doubles match from Gerald Stratford and Phil Neer, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

The finals were postponed due to rain, and will not be played.

STEPHENSON IS SLUGGING STAR

Hits Homer, Double, Single in Five Chances

Green is Victim of Bruin Batting Rallies

Baecht, Moss Display Good Form on Mound

BY RALPH HUSTON

A slim crowd of regular customers braved a threatened rain to watch the Cubs down the Angels, 10 to 5, at Wrigley Field yesterday afternoon, and even the annual spring training series at two-all. Heavy hitting by Riggs Stephenson, and a lack of the same by Hack Wilson distinguished the contest.

Stephenson gathered a homer, a double and a single in five chances, while in the same number of opportunities Wilson twice fanned, popped to Dittmar once, and went out on easy infield rollers the two other times.

Three-run barrages in the fourth and sixth innings, in which Bob Green was the victim on each occasion, brought the Cubs their victory. Big Ed Baecht and Charley Meneriet also twirled three innings each for Jack Lelivelt's home crew. The Angels pecked away at Ray Moss, Percy Malone and Guy Bush with only occasional success.

Baecht started for the Cherubs, and was immediately scored upon when "Rajah" Hornsby's double sent Woody English across the plate. Baecht held the Bruins runless and hitless in the next two frames, only six men facing him.

HORNSBY FUMBLES

Moss should have had a shut-out three innings for the Cubs, but in the third, with Dittmar on third and Haney on second, Hornsby fumbled Schulmerich's slow roller, and both runners scored. Incidentally, Haney was slightly spiked by Hornsby in stealing second, and Parker replaced him at third.

Green took up the hurling duties for the Seraphs in the fourth frame, and mixed four good hits for three markers. Hornsby opened with a single to right, and Wilson popped up. Cuyler singled to right, and Stephenson followed with a blow to the same spot that scored Hornsby. Lester Bell smashed one at Parker that was labeled "too hot to handle" and Cuyler tallied from third. With the infield pulled in close, Stephenson and Bell worked a double steal, moving up to third and second. Hartnett grounded to Sigafoos, Stephenson scoring on the play.

Malone was setting down the Seraphs in almost regular order, although he hit a couple of bats-

Old Heavyweight Trial Horse to be Sent Against Giant Italian in St. Louis Main Event Tomorrow Night; Kid Chocolate Tackles Ridgeway

NEW YORK, March 16. (AP)—Primo Carnera's tenth American appearance and the return to the ring of Kid Chocolate, crack Cuban featherweight, furnish the outstanding features of this week's national fistic schedule.

Carnera clashes with the old heavyweight trial horse, Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis, in the main ten-round bout at St. Louis tomorrow night. Chocolate, back in the United States after a long vacation in Cuba, takes on Al Ridgeway, slugging featherweight from New Jersey, in a ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night. In the semifinal of the Garden card, Black Bill of Cuba and Midget Wolgast of New York, finalists in the recent fly-weight tournament here, clash over the fifteen-round championship route.

Philadelphia's weekly show tomorrow night is headed by a ten-rounder between Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight title-holder, and Jack Renault of Canada, once regarded as a leading contender for the heavyweight championship.

MAGYARS AND SCOTS IN TIE SOCCER GAME, 3-3

A muddy field and a driving hailstorm at the finish of the game failed to prevent the Magyar and Scot soccer football clubs from fighting themselves to a standstill in their local cup-tie contest at Loyola Field yesterday. Both teams, always dangerous cup contenders, were driving for their opponent's goal when officials decided to call things off, due to a hailstorm. The game ended in a 3--to-3 draw with fifteen minutes of the usual twenty-minute overtime period still to be played.

INDOOR MEET TOMORROW

Eastern Season Ends With National A.A.U. Track and Field Championships; Brix Entered

NEW YORK, March 16. (AP)—The eastern indoor track season will come to an end Tuesday night with the running of the National A.A.U. championships at Madison Square Garden, annually one of the finest meets on the program.

Track-and-field stars from every section of the country are entered in one or more of the fourteen championships which will be up for decision. The events to be contested include the 60-yard dash, 300-yard, 600-yard, 1000-yard and two-mile runs; one-mile walk; two-mile steeplechase; one and seven-eighths miles relay; 70-yard high hurdles; pole vault, shot put, running and standing high jump, and standing broad jump.

The 1000 yards championship will mark a renewal of the feud between Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. star, and Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland, who finished inches behind Conger in the Columbian mile of the K. of C. meet here last week. The field also will include H. R. White and R. D. Orlevich of the University of Illinois, co-holders of the western conference half-mile title.

A big field headed by Phil Edwards, defending champion, will compete in the 600; Monty Wells and Sol Furth, among others, will be seen in the hurdle event; Fred Sturdy, Barney Berlinger and Tommy Warne in the pole vault; Herman Brix and Herb Schwarze in the shot put, and Bob King, Charley Major, Hal Osborn, Leo Sexton and George Spitz in the high jump.

MOANA CAPTURES RACE AT CABRILLO BEACH

Racing over the six-mile triangular course inside the breakwater at Cabrillo Beach, Myron Leighman's skipjack, Moana, took first place in one of the special events for small boats not in the regular classes of the March regatta, staged yesterday under the direction of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department.

In the mixed small-boat class held at the same place, Charles Pearson's skimmer, Wolf, breezed in first. The Vamos, a tiny sailing dory skippered by 11-year-old Joe Bullock, surprised by winning third in this event. Races for "D" class model yachts, postponed from Saturday, were also run off yesterday at Cabrillo.

Results of the Cabrillo events:

Six-mile skipjack race—Myron Leighman's Moana, first; Jack Richards's Dolphin, second; Leo Benzini's Aloha, third; Walter Kirchner's Miss Betty, fourth. Time, 1h. 24m. 58s.

Six-mile mixed class race—Charles Pearson's Wolf, first; Robert Walker's Tula II, second; Joe Bullock's Vamos, third; Lee Green's Theo, fourth. Time, 1h. 50s.

Class "D" model yachts—W. Mast's Veo, first; K. Harper III's Blackjack, second; K. R. Harper Jr.'s West Wind, third; R. O. Pailling's Vanguard, fourth. Distance, one mile. Time 30m. 30s.

Colima Favored to Win Fistic Battle from Feldman Tomorrow

BATTLERS READY FOR OLYMPIC GO

Jewish Boxer Returns from Soper's Ranch Today

Bert May Get DeVos if He Wins Bout

Al Gordon Favored Over Palacios in Wind-up

Willie Feldman returns today from Soper's ranch, where he has trained for tomorrow night's fight with Bert Colima at the Olympic. The Soper - trained fighters have had a remarkable run of success recently.

However, Colima will rule a favorite over the New York Jewish middleweight, probably 10-8 or stronger. The strong Mexican following Colima has keeps him in the running.

Al Gordon is choice over Teddy Palacios in the semi-wind-up although the real caliber of Gordon hasn't been tested here. Nobody wants to fight a southpaw and Gordon happens to be that kind.

Colima has one of his many chances to step into big money days again. The Whittier idol defeated Jose Peregrina last January, proving he is still the greatest Mexican middleweight.

Rene DeVos, who boxed in Chicago last week, wants to come on to the Coast. The Belgian paired with a winning Colima, would pack Jack Doyle's arena.

Talk has been revived of another Colima-Ace Hudkins clash since the two met in an impromptu bout at the Main-street gymnasium and boxed two rounds. This has always been more or less of an indoor natural.

Dutch Meyers has conditioned Colima carefully for this fight. The Mexican spent some time at De Sienna Hot Springs near San Bernardino and acts several years younger in the gymnasium.

The Olympic has not yet booked a match for the 25th inst., but will probably do so today. One of the possibilities is a Goldie Hess-Johnny Lamar bout which would be a great club battle. Another possibility is a Frankie Campbell-Ray Spiker tilt.

On April 1 the long-awaited Armando Santiago-Billy Townsend rematch takes place. The Cuban is at Soper's getting into top shape again and hopes to reverse the knockout he suffered in the first battle royal. Townsend is on his way south from Vancouver.

BRUINS EVEN ANGEL SERIES

men, and the visitors got to Green for three more in the sixth. Cuyler was safe on Sigafoos's error, and trotted to third on Stephenson's long double against the left center-field fence. Bell sent a long sacrifice fly to Statz, Cuyler scoring after the coach. Hartnett smashed a long hit, to almost the same spot that Stephenson's landed, and he got a triple while Statz was chasing the ball around in centerfield, sending Stephenson across. Malone fanned, but English cracked out a double to center to put Hartnett over. Grimm walked, but was forced at second by Hornsby to end the inning.

The Seraphs got a pair in their half on four hits. After Sigafoos had gone out, Harper singled into right. Jacobs smashed a hot liner straight through the box that was good for a single, and Harper went to second. Statz singled to center to score Harper, and Jacobs went to third. Dittmar dragged an infield hit that scored Jacobs, and Moore hit into a double play to end the score.

Moncrief went in for the Angels and got by the seventh without difficulty. In the eighth, however, Bell walked, and went to third on Hartnett's clean single to center. Guy Bush got a freak single past Jacobs that scored Bell, and put Hartnett on second. English bunted safely, filling the bases, and Hartnett scored when Grimm hit into a double play, Dittmar to Sigafoos to Jacobs. Hornsby grounded to Moncrief to end the frame.

ANOTHER MARKER

Statz's double, followed by Dittmar's single gave the Cherubs another marker in the eighth, which Stephenson equalled by dropping the only homer of the game into the right-centerfield bleachers in the ninth.

Both Baecht and Moss looked good in their three frames. Harper, in right, displayed a snappy arm in throwing both to second and third. Sigafoos at second, and Dittmar at short, worked well, the latter making one error in ten chances.

The Portland Ducks travel here from Fresno to engage the Cubs Thursday and Friday, while the Seraphs, taking a two-day rest, will swing back into action against the Bruins Saturday and Sunday. Yesterday's box score:

RABBIT PUNCHES

By Paul Lowry

OPPOSITION FOR CARNERA

DON'T count the Black Shadow of Leiperville out of the heavyweight picture in a battle with Primo Carnera, the Italian whale, in the Philadelphia ball park next summer.

The Philly boys already are talking it up since the Shadow—George Godfrey—stopped Jack Gross in five rounds last week. And they talk in terms of a $500,000 gate.

Gross is the Salem baker boy of 211 pounds heft that Boo Boo Hoff was easing into the pachyderm circles.

He was pretty well thought of in Philadelphia—so well, as a matter of fact, that the match packed the Philly arena with 10,000 persons and drew a "gate" of $20,000 at prices lowered by the Philadelphia commission, which has it in for Godfrey.

Mr. Jim Dougherty, manager of the Shadow, sent some newspaper clippings by air mail, and a letter describing the event. The missive is typical of the gentleman:

"Dear friend Paul: I am inclosing you some clippings, showing what is going on around here. Godfrey drew a record-breaking house here Monday night. The fire marshal turned thousands away. I consider Godfrey as champion of Europe as well as America. As he holds a ten-round decision over Paulino and a three-round knockout over Perry Charles, who are considered Europe's best.

"Sincerely yours,

"JIM DOUGHERTY."

RAIN BREWS FIGHT IDEAS

THE rain quieted down local discussion about baseball, track and tennis temporarily, but souped up the fistic brethren.

The latest is a proposed double main event between Johnny Lamar and Goldie Hess on the one hand and Frankie Campbell and Lee Spiker, a big ex-Marine whose biggest purse to date is said to be $21 and a horse blanket.

Mr. Hayden Wadhams, the portly matchmaker of the Olympic, spent some time working on this line-up for March 25 during the Saturday downpour, but finished with nothing on the dotted line except the names of the Messrs. Campbell and Spiker.

Spiker is a big, tough guy and fears nobody—not even Campbell and his dreaded knockout. Campbell likes 'em big, and as long as their reputations are none too resplendent his managers are quick on the trigger with pen and ink.

The item holding up the arrangement is a yen on the part of Lamar's manager for more dough.

Hess was beaten by Cecil Payne, and Lamar defeated Payne. And there's the rub.

UZCUDUN YEARNS FOR L. A.

PAULINO UZCUDUN still wants to come to Los Angeles but he insists upon fighting in the ball park.

He hasn't forgotten the $40,000 he grabbed off for the bout with George Godfrey two years ago, and a $10,000 guarantee for a bout inside the Olympic doesn't interest him.

There are two factors which preclude the fulfillment of Paulino's ambition at this time.

One is Paulino's own fall from grace. He isn't the fighter he was when black Godfrey beat him in a ten-round bout that still holds the western record for attendance.

Secondly, there is no local idol with a reputation for him to fight.

Naturally, the Frankie Campbell entourage will tell you differently.

But the sad truth of the matter is that Campbell has fought nobody entitling him to ball-park consideration.

He can't be built into a big shot until he faces other than soft ones.

The boy has a terrific sock, but he must demonstrate it against other than the "klucks" to rate big-time consideration.

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

RITCHIE KING has a great chance to bound into the limelight when he faces Cecil Payne at Hollywood next Friday.

Payne beat Goldie Hess, the Ocean Park idol, once and drew with him in a rematch.

Johnny Lamar then upset the dope by beating Payne at the Legion stadium, and King can make matters in the division all the more complicated by crowning Payne.

A SPORTING GESTURE

MR. FRANK CHURCHILL, the shrewd manager of Armand Santiago, the disappearing Filipino, has been making a concerted drive on the Olympic to force up the price of the rematch between Santiago and Billy Townsend.

Offhand, this match—one of the most sensational ever seen at the Olympic—should draw a capacity house at most any price when repeated.

But again Mr. Wadhams, the matchmaker, steps into the picture.

"Times are not so prosperous," says Mr. Wadhams, "and I don't think a $5 top at this time would be propitious.

"We'll keep it at $3 and help the game along."

LA DOUX TO MEET MARSHALL

French-Canadian Agrees to Face Mat Sensation; Date Not Announced

Promoter Lou Daro announced yesterday he had signed "Gorilla" Gene La Doux, the wild French-Canadian grappler, to meet Everett Marshall, Glendale wrestling sensation, in a finish match to be held here in the near future. The exact date was not made public.

La Doux is scheduled to meet Ed (Strangler) Lewis at the Olympic Wednesday night in one of the two finish mat battles scheduled by the promoter.

Lewis, it developed yesterday, ran out of a match with La Doux in Montreal last year during a big tournament. Lewis was scheduled to meet La Doux in the finals, but he cancelled the bout and returned to the Coast.

The French-Canadian won ten straight bouts in Montreal before earning the match with Lewis. His last opponent was Stanislaus Zbyszko, whom he defeated after a hard, fast match.

Although Lewis will probably rate a favorite to beat La Doux when they step into the ring, the French-Canadian has many followers here who believe he will hand the former champion his first defeat of the year. Ira Dern of Salt Lake City and Bob (Bibber) McCoy of Boston have both held Lewis to draw battles in the past month.

La Doux, according to the mat experts, is in better condition than he was for his recent mat battle with Nick Lutze, and set to redeem himself in the eyes of the local fans.

Lutze will clash with Dr. Karl Sarpolis in the other finish match that night. This bout has developed into a grudge battle. Dr. Sarpolis held Lutze to draws in their only two previous meetings and since then he has claimed these matches on points.

Jim Reynolds, veteran light-heavyweight, who is helping La Doux prepare for this match, will clash with Steve Strelich, the "Terrible Swede," in the opener.

great game for the Highlanders at center forward, opened yesterday's scoring when he lifted the ball out of the mud and into the net. Monsterrat equalized for the Hungarian Scots soon after, and then the Highlanders opened their big attack. Goals in this drive were scored by George Summers, inside right, and Alexander, a newcomer, who played inside left. The half-time ended with the Scots still enjoying their 3-to-1 lead.

The Magyars, always a strong second-half team, were out battling in the second half and Liggett, the youngster at inside left, brought the count up to 3 to 2. Espinosa, the flashy center forward for Paul Dosa's crew, equalized with a goal twenty minutes before game time.

The Hollywood Sheiks, still smarting from the 3-to-0 defeat handed them by the Sons of St. George last Sunday, turned in a 9-to-1 victory over the Spanish-Americans. Ernie Copeland, center forward, scored five goals for the Sheiks to lead the scoring parade. The Spaniards were handicapped, due to the absence of several stars, and the substitute goalie was at a loss to stop Copeland's accurate shooting.

CASANOVA TO FACE SHEA ON SATURDAY

Sandy Garrison Casanova, reigning favorite among Mexican fight fans, and Mickey Shea, Canadian 165-pounder, have been signed for next Saturday night's main event at the Main Street Athletic Club.

Leo Hernandez lost on a sixth-round foul to Harry Burrows, rugged San Bernardino welterweight, last Saturday night after a hard-fought battle. Jimmy Alvarado knocked out Clark Anderson, negro featherweight, in the first round of the semi-wind-up, while Frank Olata outsocked Cecil Myart, negro 220-pounder, in the special event. Dave Young and Joe Cordoza drew; Jimmy Alvera kayoed Johnn Villafior in the second round, and Nino Perez won from June Lagers.

JUNIOR OLYMPIC GAMES Training Tips

BY BOYD COMSTOCK
Director of Junior Olympic Games for Southern California

(This is the second of a series of articles by Mr. Comstock on Junior Olympic events and how to prepare for them. Other articles will appear from time to time.—Ed. Note.)

II. THE BASEBALL THROW

(5.) THE ARM ACTION: The stiff round-house throw, as it is sometimes called, is not the thing, nor is the short elbow action "peg" throw of the type used by baseball catchers to be recommended when distance is required. The direct overhand throw, in which the hand passes over or close to the line of the head is not good nor is the sidearm throw. The exact course that should be taken by the hand cannot be laid down, but, approximately, the halfway position is desired. The event resembles the javelin action very much in that the arm should be drawn backward to full extension to the rear and then brought forward in an easy, natural, relaxed position. As the hand comes forward the elbow starts to bend—taking a somewhat V-shaped position at the approximate halfway point. From this position the upper half of the arm gets into action and the "whip" is developed by causing the throw to speed up. This "whip" is essential to all forms as this adds speed and is tacked on when the body is in position to get leverage. The boy should practice this phase of the throw by using the "whip" alone with correct body position and then adding the arm swing to it and noting the added distance that is gained and by using the full arm swing first and adding the "whip" to it.

(6.) THE GRIP: Generally speaking, the two-finger grip is the best, but the boy should experiment on this phase and use the best natural grip.

(7.) ELEVATION. Those having a natural "whip" usually lack elevation and these using the full arm swing generally have too much elevation. Generally speaking, it is better to have a trifle more elevation than a lack of it, as an elevation too low must cut down the length of the throw. Distance comes from speed or elevation and by common-sense reasoning needs a combination.

(8.) GENERAL SUGGESTIONS: In practicing the boy should not throw for distance but for form. This will enable him to perfect his style without "throwing out" or hurting arm muscles. Most arm injuries come from throwing for distance without warming up and every boy is warned against this effort. The easy follow-through of the body and the easy, flexible action of the arm will eliminate any chance of injury. It is recommended that the boys experiment themselves, under supervision, so that they themselves will get the theory of the event fixed in their minds. That is to say, show them that elevation is necessary and that the follow-through is essential and so forth by pointing out the distance that comes with attention to form. It is also recommended that the boys work in small groups and that they be told to check on the points that have been mentioned. As soon as they get the difference between the sidearm, the full-arm, the "whip" and the follow-through they will watch their own form as well as the form of their playmates and this coaching practice will be of great general assistance.

Stauber Wins Trap Honors

A fierce, raw, dark, windy day greeted the small bunch of shooters at the Los Angeles Gun Club yesterday, which made the targets hard to connect with. Stauber, with his 95x100 was in good form and was closely followed by Goodrich and Valleen with 94 each. In the handicap event Mrs. Adams was high with 22x25.

Next Sunday will be A. J. Baum day. Mr. Baum is the leading light in the Milwaukee Gun Club. Six wonderful sterling silver trophies will be up for the competition in the century shoot at 16 yards, class shooting. Scores:

A. J. Stauber	95x100	Thurston	57x100

her way through the briny in the outer harbor to take the lead before the first marker had been reached and from that time she was never headed despite a desperate challenge on the last leg made by the Angelita.

In justice to the Angelita skippered by Ted Conant, the man who sent the Babe to her King of Spain trophy triumph last March, it might be stated right here that he ran into a tough situation at the windward buoy when the Thorobred, sailed by Matt Walsh, caused her to come about and thereby lose several minutes on the Marin which was in the lead.

Walsh's boat was in another class, the forty-five-foot sailing division. Despite this she made the Angelita give way at the windward buoy and come about. Many of the old seadogs on the committee boat claimed that this cost the Angelita the race. Others stated that Walsh was within his rights but that he could have given the Angelita room without sacrificing his own time.

Owen Churchill, handling the stick on his sloop Babe, now flying the burgee of the Catalina Island Yacht Club, finished third with the Monidah skippered by Claire Neuner, taking fourth place. The Monidah represents San Francisco.

BOATS ARE TIED

The result of today's race makes the Marin and the Angelita tied for first place in that class. The same boats will race again tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The R class provided a real surprise. The Robin of the Larchmont Yacht Club of New York which did not start yesterday because of trouble with its sails and the weather conditions romped home an easy winner. The east coast also scored in this event when the Alert IV took second honors. Owen Churchill's Friendship was third with Nick Potter at the helm. Nick took things easy at that. He looked more like a fellow dressed for an afternoon with a girl friend than a skipper.

Nick had a slouch hat, a stiff collar and a nice-looking suit that would pass in any of the tea-rooms hereabouts as a costume. He seemed to be enjoying life in general when he passed the committee boat.

MAYBE SCORES AGAIN

Arthur Rousseau, that gay seadog from San Francisco, almost cinched the six-meter class by winning that event. He won that yesterday which means that all of the six-meter boys will have to travel fast to take the laurels away from him. Tommy Lee in the Caprice took second place. His crew accidently set his Genoa jib upside down and that caused Tommy to lose quite some distance. San Francisco again brok into the picture into this event when Charles Langlais copped third position with his Ayayay, the boat that won this event last year. George C. Thomas Third was fourth beating the Clio sailed by Owen Dresden.

The Westward won the special sloop class and the series in that division. She was sailed by Ed Salisbury. Tom Smith and Hugh Angleman's Ocean Waif made a runaway race of the forty-five-foot class series.

Austin Upsets Jean Borotra

PARIS, March 16. (AP)—H. W. (Bunny) Austin of England sprang a sensational upset when he conquered Jean Borotra of France 2-6, 6-3, 11-9, 6-2, in the London-Paris intercity tennis matches today. It was the first time in many years that the bounding Basque had met defeat on wood courts.

Earlier in the tournament, Austin had eliminated Christian Boussus, French youngster, in four sets.

VALGER LOSES IN MILAN

MILAN (Italy) March 16. (AP)—The Italian lightweight Turiello, outpointed Benny Valger of New York in a ten-round bout here tonight.

Bruin Nine Meets Bears

The U.C.L.A. Bruins and the California Golden Bears will meet this afternoon on the Westwood baseball diamond in the first of a two-game horseride series, providing the weather is not in element. The second game is slated for Tuesday afternoon, both being scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

The Berkeley nine had a two-game series scheduled with the University of Southern California team last Friday and Saturday at Bovard Field, but both contests were rained out. The Bears are now leading the California Intercollegiate Baseball League with one victory and no defeats for a percentage of 1.000, having been rained out of four of five games already this season. The Westwood nine split a two-game series with Santa Clara two weeks ago in its only starts this season.

TRAINING CAMP GOSSIP

WEST PALM BEACH (Fla.) March 16. (AP)—A rainy day was not a gloomy day in the St. Louis Browns camp today, despite the fact that the team was thus deprived of playing Milwaukee in a scheduled exhibition game and was kept idle because of a soggy field. Word that Ralph (Red) Kress, flashy Brownie shortstop, who has been a stubborn holdout this spring, had given in and started for camp from the Pacific Coast, spread cheer in the training quarters. Only Manush and Blankenship now are holdouts and club officials believe they soon will come into the fold.

CARDS WIN FROM PHILLIES

WINTER HAVEN (Fla.) March 16. (AP) The St. Louis Cardinals bunched hits in the ninth inning today and scored four runs against the Phillies, winning the Sunday exhibition game, 10 to 9. Spence was in the box for the Phils when the Cardinals rounded out the winning runs. The Phillies flared up in the eighth, and scored two runs off Sherdel and tied the score. The Cards came back with four in the ninth and held the Shotton men scoreless in their half.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis (N.)	7	17	0
Philadelphia (N.)	3	9	1

Batteries—Halshan, Johnson, Sherdel and Wilson; Koupal, Willoughby, Spence and Davis, McCurdy.

PIRATES BOW TO SEALS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16. (AP)—Pittsburgh's Pirates made but four hits off Davis and McDougall, pitchers for the San Francisco Seals today, and dropped their first game of the exhibition season, 4 to 1.

Pie Traynor, Pirate third baseman, was out of the line-up, suffering with a soreness in one eye. Stuart Clarke, a rookie, took his place. Coleman hit a home run for San Francisco, sharing batting honors with Finelli, a team-mate, who had three hits.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
San Francisco	4	11	0
Pittsburgh	1	4	0

Batteries—Davis, McDougall and Gaston; Kremer, Brame, Stoner and Bool. Hargreaves.

OAKS CLEAN UP ON SENATORS

FRESNO, March 16. (AP)—Kept idle yesterday by rain, the Oaks today trounced the Sacramento Senators, 7 to 6, in their first exhibition game of the season, nicking Pitchers Gould, Thomas and Keating for five hits, while Tressel and Dasilla held the visitors to half a dozen.

The game, which was the first minor league appearance of Aaron Ward, former Yankee star, and new Holding down the second sack for the Senators, in eleven years saw Manager Carl Zamloch use both his first and second string teams. A total of eighteen players figured in the Oaks line-up, while fifteen appeared in the Sacramento box score.

Neither of the Oaks' hold-outs, Catcher Lombardi or Infielder Fenton, have yet reported in camp and both are still reported unsigned and unable to reach any agreement.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Sacramento	6	11	1
Oakland	7	10	3

Batteries—Gould, Thomas and Keating; Koehler and Wirtz; Crashead and Daglia, Ricci and Read.

REDS CAPTURE SLUGGING-BEE

TAMPA (Fla.) March 16. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers collected six home runs off Cincinnati Red pitchers here today, but the Reds included four circuit blows among their twenty hits and won an exhibition game, 15 to 9.

The National Leaguers came from behind three times, making Charlie Sullivan, recruit Tiger pitcher, victim of three and five-run rallies in the last two innings.

Dale Alexander hit two homers, while Johnson, Stone, McManus and Akers also got four-base hits for the Tigers. George Kelly equaled Alexander's mark and Scripp and Webb were other Cincinnatians to get around the bases. Kelly collected four hits in five trips to the plate.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati (N.)	15	20	0
Detroit (A.)	9	10	4

Gudat, Ash, Eckers and Gooch, Sukeforth, Whitehill, Carroll, Sullivan and Rensa, Hargrave.

BRAVES TRIM YANKEE HORDE

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) March 16. (AP) The Boston Braves trimmed the New York Yankees 4 to 1 in an exhibition game here today, Moore's home run with one on base in the first inning was the feature.

Score:	R.	H.	E.

COLONELS BOW TO WASHINGTON

BILOXI (Miss.) March 16. (AP)—The Washington Americans, behind the steady hurling of Thomas, Burke and Liska, turned in a 3-to-2 victory over the Louisville Colonels of the American Association here today. Ad Liska, young underhand pitcher, worked the last three innings in the box for Washington and did not allow a hit.

Score:	R.	H.	E.

Washington (A.)	3	10	3

RAIN HALTS CLEVELANDERS

NEW ORLEANS, March 16. (AP)—Rain again keeping the Cleveland Indians from playing their first exhibition game with the New Orleans Pelicans, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, between showers at the Indians' training quarters today, put his pitchers through arm-loosening exercise today.

MIAMI (Fla.) March 16.—Rain forced postponement of the exhibition game between the Brooklyn Robins and the Philadelphia Athletics today.

At San Antonio: New York Giants vs. Chicago White Sox postponed, rain.

At West Palm Beach: St. Louis Browns vs. Milwaukee (A.A.) postponed, rain.

SISKIN VICTOR IN TURF EVENT

order Justice, Martha Mae, Sun Dot, My Shot, Miss Baggage, Bright Hopes, Red Chill, Warlight, Judge Austin, Oaten, Don Alvaro, Sun Thorn, Miss Noah and College Inn.

Siskin ran a smashing race to take the 2-year-old stake. He was off with the rear guard fifteenth in the field of seventeen. But under the guidance of Jockey Morrison the colt dashed through the horses ahead of him as the field headed down the back-stretch. At the quarter pole he overtook Flying Ace and Sun Dot and headed for the stretch turn in the lead. By the time he was straightened away in the run home the colt was four lengths in front.

Flying Ace away on top took the lead in the early stages of the race with Sundot forcing the pace. Martha Mae and Don Alvaro were next in line, but when Siskin came along it was all over.

The crowd held down by threatening weather, greeted the winner with a big cheer when he returned to the judges' circle. Miss Dorothy Klous, Coronado society girl, crowned the winner.

Victorian one of the outstanding candidates for the first running of the Agua Caliente Handicap of $100,000 added money next Sunday, showed he is ready this afternoon, when he won the St. Patrick's Handicap at one mile and an eighth, in handy style. The warm stable hope won by two lengths and one-half in 1:53, with My Dandy getting the place and Alexander Pantages the show. Seth's Hope, Jim Dandy, Trieze, Calf Roper, Wirt G. Bowman and Wizardry followed. Hatrick and Nabhapur declined the issue in the race.

My Dandy cut out the pace for the field holding sway to the stretch. There Victorian took command to draw away. Alexander Pantages ran an even race to be third. Results:

First race, 3-year-olds and up, claiming, $600 purse, one mile—Vagabond, 102 (Bertcher,) won; Flying Torch, 112 (Richardson,) second; Noodles, 107 (Moran,) third. Time, 1:42 2-5. Clyde C., Nationwide, Perrona, Seth, Miss Sourire and Parisette also ran.

Second race, 3-year-olds and up, claiming, $900 purse, one mile—Rolling Star, 117 (Marr,) won; Bolodora, 105 (Schutte,) second; Ella May, 110 (Depesco,) third. Time, 1:43 4-5. Ritter, Anna Dan, Nama, Fourteen Sixty, Capt. Guard, Elston Whittier and Ravoca S. also ran.

Third race, 4-year-olds and up, claiming, $600 purse, one mile—Vagabond, 102 (Bertcher,) won; Flying Torch, 112 (Richardson,) second; Noodles, 107 (Moran,) third. Time, 1:42 2-5. Clyde C., Nationwide, Perrona, Seth, Miss Sourire and Parisette also ran.

Fourth race, handicap for 3-year-olds and up, $1200 purse, six furlongs—Morgan, 106 (Moran,) won; Lisio, 112 (Schutte,) second; Brown Wisdom, 112 (Allen,) third. Time, 1:13 2-5. Eskimo and Zacawesta also ran.

Fifth race, the Eleventh running, Agua Caliente futurity (formerly the Tia Juana Futurity,) $7500 added, 2-year-olds, foaled in 1928, five furlongs—Siskin, 118 (Morrison,) won; Shasta Broom, 118 (Maiben,) second; Flying Ace, 118 (Luther,) third. Time, 1:01 4-5. Sun Dot, Martha Mae, Don Alvarado, Bright Hopes, Judge Austin, College Inn, Oaten, Miss Noah, War Light, Red Chill, My Shot, Justice, Miss Baggage and Sun Thorn also ran.

Sixth race, the St. Patrick's handicap, purse $12500, 3-year-olds and up, one mile and an eighth—Victorian, 122 (Ellis,) won; xMy Dandy, 112 (Allen,) second; Alexander Pantages, 111 (Jones,) third. Time, 1:52 2-5. Wirt G. Bowman, xWizardry, Seth's Hope, Jim Dandy, Calf Roper and Trieze also ran. xCoupled.

Seventh race, 4-year-olds and up, claiming, purse $1000, one and one-fourth miles—Little Captain, 106 (Schutte,) won; Fair Girl, 94 (Depesco,) second; Will Bank, 105 (Moran,) third. Time, 2:09. Elizabeth, Gallardo and Jetted Healy also ran.

Eighth race, 3-year-olds and up, claiming, purse $800, one mile—Deep River, 110 (Schutte,) won; Flying Express, 93 (Depesco,) second; Brookale, 93 (Moran,) third. Time, 1:42 1-5. Baby Blue, Paul Hirtenstein, Star Mistress, Torch, Wind Jammer, Buckeye Belle and Broomoney also ran.

AMATEUR PUCKS TO TANGLE UP TONIGHT

Ice hockey fans are declaring tonight's championship game between the Arrowhead Valley Club and the Shell Oilers at the Palais De Glace rink a toss-up, as far as picking the winner is concerned. Each sextet has taken one game so far and both of these battles were so hotly contested and ended in such close scores that the dopesters can see little to choose between the teams.

The battle for the Senior League title, which will be decided by four out of seven games, has simmered down to an interesting duel between the leaders of the respective clubs. Both Ernie Miller, manager and defense star of the Shells, and Dave Patrick, who holds the same position on the Arrowheads, have been doing the heavy shooting lately. Miller scored two goals to give his Oilers the victory Thursday night while Patrick tallied three of the four markers made by his aggregation in the same contest.

Navy Slated to Take Control of "Distress Traffic"

Regulations for Both Coasts Part of Program

Two Consuls to Be Tendered Farewell Banquet

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

The handling of "distress traffic" at sea will be directed by the American Navy radio stations on both coasts, if proposals reaching Federal departments are adopted by a conference of interdepartmental officials, soon to be called in Washington.

At present there is no fixed procedure for handling messages from vessels in distress and shutting down other transmitters within the range of the signals. Custom generally has met the situation, but occasionally a ship will break in on the air, confusing radio communication vital to the distressed vessel and potential rescuers.

On the Pacific Coast foreign operators not understanding English have continued to send on several occasions, in the face of S.O.S. warnings, the most recent of which was the sinking of the San Juan last fall. An international agreement is required to obviate that.

Looking to that end, a conference will be called between Navy and Commerce departments, the Shipping Board and radio and shipping concerns to evolve an orderly procedure for submission before maritime nations.

In New York the Navy already has initiated command of adjacent air in such emergencies, and determines whether broadcasting or other transmitting stations shall operate. It has been found highly expedient, and will serve as a basis for national practice.

Incidentally the Department of Commerce now is seeking a site on Fort MacArthur upper reservation for establishment of a detector, to act as a policeman over the broadcasting stations in this area.

Godfrey A. Fisher, British Consul at Los Angeles for several years, and Consul Fernando Valdes of Chile, will be the guests of honor at a farewell banquet to be given by the Foreign Exchange Club in Hollywood next Thursday.

Fisher has been transferred to Naples, Italy, where he will become British Consul-General, while Valdes will go home to a higher post at Santiago, Chile. Two hundred will attend.

Ralph Chandler, vice-president of the Los Angeles Steamship Company, and William Groundwater, head of the marine department of Union Oil Company, are mentioned as possible appointees by Gov. Young to the board of governors for the State's newly created School of Navigation. Northern California members of the board were appointed two months ago. The Shipping Board has allocated the Henry County to the State as a training ship, and Representative Free of San Jose introduced a House bill last week asking $125,000 for refitting the ship. Original plans for the school provided that the school ship be shared by the different California ports.

Utility of low waves for distant radio communication yesterday was emphasized again, when Mackay's local marine station, KOK, "talked" with three ships on the other side of the Pacific. One was the North German Lloyd globe-girdling liner Columbus at Manila, and due here April 23, next. Another was Gibson Fahnstock's sailing yacht Kalmilos, 800 miles from Hongkong, and the third, the Dollar globe-girdler President Fillmore, docking yesterday morning in Singapore.

Fred A. Hooper, district manager here for the American Hawaiian Steamship Company, returned home yesterday after a tour of Gulf and Atlantic ports. He made a study of cargo handling and office practices in the company's different terminals.

Holland America Line's new motor liner Delftdyk is due on her second voyage today from Liverpool, London and Rotterdam. She has a dozen passengers and 1200 tons of coke, tubes, seed and cheese for discharge here.

J. F. Altstaetter, inspector at the port for the State plant quarantine service, has been ordered transferred April 1, next, to the California border at San Ysidro. The post there is expected ultimately to be taken over by the Federal government.

MEETING OF OIL GROUP ON TAPIS

Production Division to Hold Spring Conference

First of Two-Day Sessions to Open Thursday

Program Will Take Place in Shrine Auditorium

Representatives of the American Petroleum Institute in the California district have arranged to hold their two-day spring meeting of the Production Division in Shrine Auditorium, the 20th and 21st inst. The program has been announced as follows:

"Results of Model Drilling," by Frank F. Hill, manager of field operations for the Union Oil Company. This paper will present the results of the model drilling rig operated by Union, and will give an analytical picture of the effects of various types of formation and various methods of drilling, as shown by the miniature models which have been used.

"Subsurface Conditions in Kettleman Hills," by Stanley Herold, presenting the subsurface conditions with particular regard to the sands and the occurrence of oil and gas in the reservoir.

"Drilling and Producing Operations in Kettleman Hills," by R. L. Brown, this being a discussion of the drilling and producing operations in that field, with regard to equipment.

"Counterbalancing Pumping Wells," by W. S. Corey and J. H. Wallace. This paper will present an analytical study of the results of a large number of experiments on pumping well counter balances.

"Wharf Construction," by John Sweeney; a paper describing various types of wharf construction used in side-land drilling at Seacliff, Elwood and other points.

"Progress in Straight Hole Drilling," by Alexander Anderson. This paper will be a resume of straight-hole drilling during the past two years, in which it will be shown that by reason of the fact that straight-hole drilling has been brought before the operators they are making better and faster holes.

"The Effect of Curtailment," speaker to be announced later. This paper will be a resume of the effects of the production curtailment campaign in California, with particular reference to Santa Fe Springs.

KINGMAN MEETING HELD AID

Gathering of Miners in City Draws Attention to Northwest Arizona

KINGMAN (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—There is local belief that the recent meeting here of southwestern mining men has had a strong influence in calling attention to the diversified mining resources of Northwestern Arizona. Mohave county miners gathered in force in Kingman, to serve as a reception committee, and were hosts later to many parties that inspected the several mining districts.

In the sessions, the geology and history of this section were covered in addresses by Anson H. Smith, Smillie S. Jones and E. Ross Housholder; President P. G. Spilsbury of the Arizona Industrial Congress spoke on industrial features of the mining industry and important addresses were made by T. H. O'Brien, manager of the Inspiration Copper Company; E. P. Matheweon, president of the Arizona section of the American Institute and Metallurgical Engineers; Robert E. Heineman, geologist of the Bureau of Mines in the university at Tucson; E. D. Gardner, supervising engineer of the Southwest Experiment Station of the Bureau of Mines at Tucson; Tom C. Foster, State Mine Inspector; C. O. Glasier, ventilating engineer of the United Verde Copper Company at Jerome, and a number of others.

There was a demonstration of mine rescue work by employees of the United States Bureau of Mines, the squad and a truck brought here from Berkeley.

Two Projects Completed in Kern District

BAKERSFIELD, March 16. (Exclusive)—Two completions in Kern county oil fields during the past week added 745 barrels to the daily production from this area.

The Texas Company brought in its Alta Vedder well on Sec. 4, 27-23, of the Paso Creek field for 570 barrels, which was cut down to 430 barrels to meet curtailment requirements. The well was completed at 1662 feet.

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company brought in its No. 86 well on Sec. 8, 32-23, near Taft for 315 barrels a day, from a depth of 2954 feet. The sixteen-inch casing was set at 1050 feet and the eleven and three-fourths inch was cemented at 2250 feet.

San Emidio Hole Starts Shortly

SAN EMIDIO, March 16. (Exclusive)—H. A. Bardeen is installing drilling equipment in the new rig erected at the site of its Ramsey No. 1 project on Sec. 10, 10-23 in this field, following the wrecking of the old rig in a windstorm.

Bardeen's Klipstein No. 1 on Sec. 18, 10-23 is being drilled ahead at below 800 feet.

OIL EXHAUSTION FORECAST

Survey Shows Steady Drop in Reserves of California Fields With Fewer Wells Than in 1925

That the steady increase in demand for petroleum production has steadily been making great inroads upon the oil reserves of the country, regardless of the present overproduction problem, is indicated by statistics which have just been released by the California Oil and Gas Association, through its department of public information.

In response to inquiries as to the longevity of oil wells in this State the association points out that despite the town-lot drilling which has taken place during the past few years there are fewer oil wells in California today than there were five years ago. California's oil wells are noted for their longevity, some of them having already been on production for thirty-five years, but steady pumping has pulled many of them down to the point where it takes several hundred of them, in some instances, to put out as much oil in one day as a single gusher will produce.

WELLS FEWER

Within the last five years 5792 oil wells have been drilled in this State, yet today there are only 10,515 active producers, compared with 11,069 producing wells five years ago. The ratio of producers compared with dry holes is likewise shifting. Last year 36,000 oil wells were drilled in the United States, and only 4000 of them became producers.

Ten years ago, according to E. B. Reeser, head of the American Petroleum Institute, 30½ per cent of all the oil wells drilled were dry holes. During 1924 the number of dry holes increased to 23 per cent, while in 1929 the dry-hole ratio had increased to 30 per cent. It is interesting to note that California operators were more fortunate in drilling, last year, than was the country as a whole, because their ratio of dry holes was only 26 per cent against 30 per cent for the United States. This was, it was believed, traceable to the fact that the oil operators worked rather extensively in such fields as Santa Fe Springs, Signal Hill and Ventura, where there was somewhat greater certainty of success than in such districts as Western Texas and Wyoming, where production limits of the fields were perhaps not so well defined by prior activity.

DRY HOLES GAIN

However, the ratio of dry holes, in the drilling campaigns of recent years, is taken by the association as an indication that oil is not likely to be found so easily in the future as it has been heretofore. The presumption of outstanding figures in the industry is that town-lot drilling will probably be less of a disturbing factor in oil production when Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill declined sharply from their present high levels, because the industry is slowly but surely working out more orderly systems of field development.

The unit system of field work where several operating companies pool their interests and share the returns from wells drilled by an organization in which they all have equal representation, is being established in Texas, and is receiving serious consideration in California. Meanwhile California oil operators are curtailing the production of their wells in practically every field, to conserve the natural gas which will be needed in the future to lift the oil from great depths to the pipe lines at the surface.

New Ore Body in Rawgold Mine Widening Out

WINNEMUCCA (Nev.) March 16. (Exclusive)—The ore body recently encountered by the Lillie lease on the Rawgold property at Ten Mile, near Winnemucca, has widened to twelve feet, with shoots of shipping ore reported in sight. The Black Butte Mining Company has been formed to take over an option on the claims from the Rawgold Company. The strike was made at a depth of thirty-five feet and is said to be one of the most promising in recent years in this State.

Scores of claims have been located in the district and work started on numerous locations. Several strong corporations are reported negotiating for property. The field has long been noted for small deposits and seams of bonanza, but the present strike marks the first development of a substantial ledge. Practically all open ground has been staked.

New Maricopa Well on Docket

MARICOPA, March 16. (Exclusive)—Barnadall Oil Company is rigging up its Hazelton No. 3 on Sec. 17, 11-23 at Maricopa Flats and will spud in shortly. This is Barnadayy's third drilling job on the Flat and follows the completion of two of that district's best producers.

One was brought in several days ago for approximately 3500 barrels daily and the company's first project was brought in for more than 2400 barrels a day.

MEXICO OIL PRODUCTION TOTAL HIGH

Petroleum Bureau Sets Figure at 1,563,605,595 Barrels Since Start

MONTERREY (Mex.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Total production of oil in Mexico from the time the first commercial well was brought in to January 1, 1930, was 1,563,605,595 barrels, valued at 2,828,988,314 pesos, equivalent to approximately $1,414,494,157, according to a statement just issued by the Petroleum Bureau of the Mexican government.

During the year 1929, Mexico produced a total of 44,687,879 barrels, valued at 92,025,441 pesos. Of the last year's production, Mexico exported 26,601,775 barrels, while there were also exported, in addition to this, 437,847 barrels of oil imported from abroad and refined in this country.

In regard to work this year, the bureau states that it granted seventeen drilling permits in January and four in the first ten days of last month. During that same period, from the first of January until February 10, twelve wells were brought in with a combined initial daily output of 9057 barrels, two being brought in Ebano, three in Cacalilao, one in Panuco, one in each of Paso Real and San Isidro and four in Tonala, on the Isthmus. No fluctuations in the price either of crude oil or gasoline have been reported, these remaining on the average the same as in previous months.

ENSENADA OIL QUEST IN OFFING

Canada Group Planning to Drill on Upper End of Peninsula

Considerable interest is taken by California oil operators in this assembling of oil-well drilling equipment by Canadian interests, at a point six miles south of Ensenada, for the purpose of giving the upper end of the Lower California peninsula a test for petroleum production. The equipment was shipped from Los Angeles harbor to Ensenada last week.

The parties who are backing this test obtained a 200-acre lease recently from Carlos Alarcon, at San Diego. Senor Alarcon holds a concession from the Mexican government which gives him the right to exploit for petroleum and gas more than 2,000,000 acres in Mexico. Considerable of this land already has been assigned to California and Texas oil producers who plan to drill tests there this year, it is asserted.

Senor Alarcon reports that the Canadian interests who have agreed to drill the well near Ensenada became interested in the district after it was learned that an Englishman residing near Ensenada struck gas and some light oil in a water well a few weeks ago.

Wildcat Hole in Gould Hills Field Reaming

TAFT, March 16. (Exclusive)—Bomke & Ball is reaming hole at its Larson No. 1 site on Sec. 12, 29-20 in the Gould Hills unproven district. Drilling ceased when the bit reached 2615 feet and while the hard brown shale formation was being cored. The well has casing set at 2590 feet.

There is only one other drilling job in this field. The Casa Mira Oil Company is active in a project on Sec. 28-20.

Honolulu Oil in Texas Field

The Honolulu Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company, which operates out of San Francisco, has opened offices in Midland, Tex., with P. E. Brown in charge.

The parent company has long operated in California fields, particularly in the San Joaquin Valley, and more recently along the coast at Elwood.

LONGER OIL CUT PERIODS URGED

Continental Head Advocates Extending Terms

Says Greater Stability for Industry Needed

Company Willing to Go Limit on Curtailment

PONCA CITY (Okla.) March 17. (Exclusive)—D. J. Moran, president of the Continental Oil Company, favors longer proration periods for greater stability in the production end of the oil business.

"The oil industry is only outranked in size by agriculture," Mr. Moran says. "Fairly recent figures have shown that the investment in oil since the time of the Drake discovery has been $10,500,000,000, and, for the same period, approximately 10,500,000,000 barrels of crude oil has been produced. One and one-half million adults are partially or totally dependent upon oil for a livelihood.

FEW SHOULDER BLAME

"The success of the industry, through its tremendous growth, is in the hands of 100,000 individuals, partnership or corporations. Each classification in its respective sphere of activities exercises, in some degree, the force of its principles, ideas and management upon the industry as a whole. In utter disregard of this fact, blame for present-day conditions is allocated to everyone else than those complaining. In other words, with identical aims, markets and products of similar nature, it is difficult to find more than a few of this group of 100,000 administrators who have identical policies, each unit assuming itself a thing apart and blameless.

"Every phase of the petroleum industry is saturated beyond economic demands—too many filling stations, too much refining capacity and too much production. The latter is, naturally, at the root of all our troubles. By co-operative restrictions, by States, the most effective good can be accomplished.

CONTINENTAL'S POSITION

"The Continental Oil Company is willing and anxious to have adopted a longer period of proration than is now in vogue in Oklahoma. This company will go so far as to state that, if a period of six months is generally accepted, it will agree to an additional six months, if statistics, as prepared by the Bureau of Mines, indicate that the law of supply and demand is still not in balance.

"We will bind ourselves for a period of one year in the interest of conservation, proration and stabilization.

"Relative to the unit - drilling plan, we are for this method to the limits of practicability, and, as evidence of our position, we have actually consummated a number of utilization agreements which are now in full force and effect and it is our intention because of the success so far achieved in the exploitation by us of unitization, to make every endeavor to use this facility wherever possible."

VALUES IN GOLD BELT MINE HIGH

BARSTOW, March 16. (Exclusive) Among the mining properties being worked on the Mojave at this time is the gold property recently sold by Bob Campbell of Daggett to the Gold Belt Mining Company. This property is about eleven miles from Stoddard Wells near McCinnis Springs.

A shaft has been put down 230 feet in which ore assays run from $24 to $80 values. Down the side of the hill a tunnel 580 feet has been worked back into the mountain to connect with the shaft.

Twenty-five men are employed on this property. The cement foundation for the mill was put in this week. The bunk house is being enlarged.

A spring supplies the water for domestic use and a well has been developed near by for use at the mill. Water is piped to the camp.

Several high-grade barium mines near Barstow and Daggett have been discovered during the past month. They are believed to be sufficient to supply the markets of Los Angeles and other Coast cities. Smith & Parks so far registered high grade.

Efforts will be made to establish a mill at Barstow to grind the product.

It is reported that the Anaconda Copper Company has an option on the Kramer Hills gold properties, and has sent 100 tons to Randsburg to be tested. The ore is expected to go over $3 per ton. Water facilities have been secured. Over 1000 assays have been made to justify the deal.

John Roth states that many years ago he and his brother George, made extensive tests on the Kramer bores that yielded about $4 per ton.

UNIVERSITY OIL INCOME GROWS

Ector County Texas Pool to Swell Treasury

Block of 6080 Acres Now on Development Way

Total Royalties Since 1923 $13,737,946.68

AUSTIN (Tex.) March 17. (Exclusive)—Upon a block of 6080 acres of land in Ector county owned by the University of Texas, the Cosden Oil Company has brought in two wells at a depth of approximately 3600 feet. One of these is producing at the rate of 2400 barrels a day and the other at 1100 barrels a day. The Landreth Petroleum Company has completed a well upon the same block which is producing an average of 900 barrels a day.

Eight other wells are being drilled upon the land. With the development of this new pool, there are now four producing fields upon land owned by the university. Upon the block of 194,560 acres of land in Reagan county owned by the university, an oil pool which was discovered in 1923 and which has produced enormous quantities of petroleum since then has been only partly developed.

HOLDINGS LARGE

It is upon the Reagan county land that the world's deepest producing oil wells are situated, the deepest of these being 8540 feet. Upon the university's 63,680 acres in Crane county, large oil production is also being obtained. Within the last several months, a large oil pool has been opened upon a block of 184,960 acres in Pecos county, owned by the university.

Within one mile of the southern boundary of a block of 294,440 acres of university land in Andrews county, oil production was recently obtained in a wildcat well. Small production has been obtained in two wells drilled upon a block of 356,480 acres of land owned by the university in Crockett county.

NEW PROVEN AREA

That institution also owns 53,100 acres near the Hendrick field in Winkler county, 77,440 acres near proved production in Upton county, 80,640 acres near the new oil pool in Ward county and 22,400 acres in Loving county, where oil production has been obtained.

Total royalties paid to the University of Texas during the month of February from oil production from its lands in the Reagan, Crane and Pecos county fields was $178,212.23, making a grand total of $13,737,946.68, which the university has received from that source since the first discovery well was brought in on April 17, 1923. All of this money has been invested in United States Liberty Bonds.

SIX WELLS STARTED IN KERN FIELD

New Wildcat Project in Antelope Valley Area Among Number

BAKERSFIELD, March 16. (Exclusive)—Six new oil wells were spudded in during the past week in Kern county fields.

Two of the new wells are in the Midway field, they being the Union Oil Company's No. 1 on Sec. 27, 32-23, and Standard Oil Company's No. 76, on Sec. 1, 32-23; at McKittrick the Welport Oil Company spudded in its No. 7 on Sec. 26, 29-21; at Buttonwillow the General Petroleum Corporation started Morris No. 1 on Sec. 6, 28-23; at Poso Creek the Petroleum Securities Company spudded in Gardner No. 3 on Sec. 26, 27-28, and in Antelope Valley Moran & De Camp commenced drilling Marsh No. 1, on Sec. 26, 10-14, a wildcat.

Tests for water shut-off were as follows: California Western Oil Company No. 3, on Sec. 17, 11-23, Maricopa Flat; Union Oil Company No. 8, on Sec. 4, 27-28, Poso Creek; Shell Oil Company No. 7, on Sec. 20, 28-29, Round Mountain and Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company No. 32 on Sec. 23, 28-27, Kern River.

Deepening jobs were: Dougherty & Co. No. 5, on Sec. 36, 28-27, Kern River and Anchor Oil Company No. 14, on Sec. 2, 11-24, Sunset.

Superior Oil to Start New Fruitvale Hole

FRUITVALE, March 16. (Exclusive)—The Superior Oil Company has completed preparations for spudding in its Sheel No. 1 well on Sec. 28, 29-27 in the Fruitvale field.

Superior first planned on drilling its first well on the Van Sant property and built a rig there, but later decision brought about removal of equipment to the Sheel site.

Rich Free Gold in Pilgrim Mine

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Very rich free-gold samples are being brought in from the Pilgrim property, near this camp, from a winze that now is nearly fifty feet of depth below the 350-foot level.

The ledge is reported to average $40 in gold, with a much richer showing in two feet along the footwall. This richer ore is being left in place by Supt. M. C. Richardson. Manager M. B. Dudley has been absent in New York.

SWANSEA MINE MILL RISING

BOUSE (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Machinery is being delivered for a new 250-ton flotation mill for the Swansea property, north of this point, with the necessary buildings completed. It is said that the ore mainly is to come from a new body, sampling well in copper, discovered by Manager E. C. Lane, while he had a lease on the property last year. The mine now is being operated by the American Smelting and Refining Company which has southwestern headquarters in Tucson, under Julius Kruttschnitt, Jr.

The mine at Swansea originally was opened by the Julia Mining Company, under the management of the Mitchell Brothers of Los Angeles, who equipped it with a large blast furnace that had a very short initial run. Thereafter was a material output of ore, smelted at Humboldt, where also were handled concentrates from a mill that was in operation for several years.

A new vein has been opened on the Lion Hill mine, north of Parker, operated by John Ewing and W. W. Sloan & Sons. The ore runs around 20 per cent copper and has good values in gold as well. High-grade gold ore continues to be shipped from the older workings to the Selby and Magma smelters, with some concentration on tables. It is planned to install a mill for the lower-grade material.

Adjoining the Lion Hill is the Rio Vista property, recently taken over by Los Angeles capitalists, who are to install machinery to speed production. Ore similar to that of the neighboring mine is reported to have been developed through a 520-foot tunnel.

Much activity is noted in the old mining districts north of Parker along the Colorado River, especially in the North Side, owned by E. S. Osborne and J. E. Ranaford, the Apache, owned by J. V. Allison and associates, and in the Yuma Chief and Noarile groups.

OIL COURSE OFFERED AT UNIVERSITY

Extension Department Announces Classes to Open the 24th Inst.

The University of Southern California announced yesterday that practical evening college classes dealing with storage and transportation of oil will be given in the 1930 spring quarter of university college in the Transportation Building, beginning the 24th inst.

John F. Dodge, professor of engineering, will have charge of a Tuesday and Thursday course in storage and transportation of oil. Mr. Dodge had ten years' experience as revaluation engineer and petroleum production engineer with the Pacific and Standard Oil companies. He will conduct lectures and demonstrations in flow of oils in pipe lines; design, construction, and operation of light and heavy oil-pumping systems. Sessions will be devoted to oil heaters, methods of gauging, as well as design of tanks and pipe lines, prevention of storage losses, fire hazards and fire protection.

Arthur J. Tieje, head of the department of geology at the University of Southern California, is to have charge of a Wednesday night class in type oil fields of the world at university college this spring. This course will deal with an intensive study of conditions in type oil fields; the influence of structure, porosity of sands, compaction under load and other factors; nature of oil produced; and world stratigraphy. This class will meet from 7 to 9:20 a.m. on Wednesday nights for twelve weeks, at the college of engineering of the University of Southern California, Bridge Hall.

MARICOPA ACTIVITY REPORTED

Drilling Continues to Hold Up With Several Wells Near Finish

MARICOPA, March 16. (Exclusive)—Development activity continues in the Maricopa Flat area with several wells nearing completion.

North American Consolidated Oil Company has partially completed its Kerckhoff No. 6 well on Sec. 8, 11-23, and under test produced 1750 barrels daily. Bottom of the well is 3823 feet. The company has two other projects on the same section. Kerckhoff No. 4 is undergoing a water shut-off job. Kerckhoff No 1 is running liner to the bottom which is 4175 feet.

Blanck & Heasley are preparing for a production test on Sec. 8, 11-23, at 2250 feet.

The Lake View Oil Company has spudded in its second Maricopa Flat project and is drilling ahead at about 700 feet. The well is on Sec. 4, 11-23. The company recently completed its first well.

The Hancock Oil Company is recementing its Wallace No. 4 well on Sec. 8, 11-23, for the fourth time. The bottom is at 3031 feet and the cement job is at 2981 feet.

ODD SITUATION IN OIL SECTION

Hobbs, New Hobbs and All Hobbs, New Mexico, Bid for Place on Map

MIDLAND, March 16. (Exclusive)—One of the queerest town-building situations ever known in the Permian basin is that in the big Lea county oil field.

There are three towns all in a group—Hobbs, New Hobbs and All Hobbs. With a combined population of about 2000, the three towns have two newspapers, two chambers of commerce, and two postoffices.

Hobbs, the original townsite, has obtained the new Texas and New Mexico Railway depot, and is the largest town. New Hobbs is a progressive place and has grown fast. All Hobbs was started as a kind of compromise. Though all are competitors all citizens of the three towns are boosters.

BRISK OIL ACTIVITY FORECAST

Ramsey Brothers Get Large Land Lease in Oklahoma Panhandle

It is expected that a lively drilling campaign in the Boise district of the Oklahoma Panhandle will be carried on this spring and summer by the Ramsey Brothers, formerly Los Angeles Basin oil operators, and the Magnolia Petroleum Company. The Ramseys have just obtained from the State of Oklahoma a 20,000-acre lease in that area, and are drilling a test jointly with Magnolia. Work is expected to start within a month or six weeks.

Several years ago Ramsey Brothers drilled a test well on Sec. 27, 6-5, in that area, to a depth of 4140 feet. This well was reported to have a commercial capacity of 400 barrels daily, but no definite information was given out and the derrick finally was destroyed by fire.

Recently the Magnolia organization drilled a well near that location and abandoned the hole with the report of a broken bit and a hopeless fishing job. The original leases having but a short time to run, they were surrendered to the State and the new leases obtained. This places the two companies in control of the territory, as they have leased all the lands available.

GIANT MILL AT MORENCI PROJECTED

Phelps-Dodge Reported Planning for Plant of 20,000 Tons Daily

MORENCI (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Plans are being made for treatment of as much as 20,000 tons a day of ore from the Phelps Dodge properties in this district, in a giant mill, of which the first section is being drafted. It is stated that prospecting already has developed the presence here of at least 200,000,000 tons of ore on the company's property which sampled an average in excess of 1 per cent copper.

The mine areas will be opened at the same time as the mill construction, with probability of completion within five years. Thereafter, at a very low production cost per pound, is expected an output of as much as 200,000,000 pounds per annum. President Walter Douglas states that the outlay of capital necessarily must be very large, but that it will be provided by the corporation under its conservative dividend policy. The corporation now is producing much excess electric power in its Clifton smelter and has asked authority from the State authorities for lowering its commercial rates, that the power may be distributed throughout the district.

Mexico Viewed as Ready to Join in Silver Parley

MEXICO CITY (Mex.) March 16. (Exclusive)—As the leading silver-producing country in the world Mexico is disposed to look with favor upon any proposition for an international conference regarding the present distressing silver situation, according to reports published by the Excelsior.

Its reports followed New York dispatches to the effect that the United States is considering the advisability of calling such a conference. Under present conditions the value of Mexican silver money is about cut in half. The collapse of the silver market is said to be due to the fact that two of the principal markets, China and India, having been buying but little Mexican silver during the past year.

Hole at Oildale Nearing Finish

OILDALE, March 16. (Exclusive) The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company is nearing production in its No. 32 well on Sec. 23, 28-27, on the Kern front. At present the crew is making a water test on the casing. Bottom of the hole is at 1936 feet.

The company is building rig for its Fee No. 33 well on the same section, which will be spudded in as soon as No. 32 has been placed on production.

NEW MEXICO OIL FIELD REVIVING

Operations in Southeastern Part Take Upturn

Hobbs Area and Eastern Lea Center of Interest

Much Activity at Early Date Expected in Former

ARTESIA (N. M.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Oil activity in Southeastern New Mexico registered a slight increase during the week. Chief attention is centered in Eastern Lea county and the Hobbs district. The latter is expected to be the scene of much activity during the next sixty days.

Local operators have been following developments in the Gulf No. 1 of the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil Company on Sec. 2, 20-36, which was recently completed for an initial production of 1000 barrels at 3718 feet. This hole will not be drilled deeper because it showed 4 per cent water when permitted to produce on a twenty-four-hour test. The well has been connected with the pipe line and its daily output reduced to 200 barrels daily.

Another interesting test, which may open up a new producing section, is the Closson No. 1 of the Empire Gas and Fuel Company on Sec. 6, 22-34. It encountered a lime break at 3773 feet, after swinging off 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas at 3730 feet. Approximately 20 feet of gas developed but when where the casing was landed and has furnished pressure for an occasional light head of oil.

The Closson No. 1 is approximately eight miles southwest from the town of Eunice and about four miles south of the Anna Moyer No. 1 of the Continental Oil Company in Sec. 17, 21-36. Drilling operations have been suspended while workmen are erecting storage tanks on the lease. The Closson will be given a production test before it is determined whether or not the well will be drilled deeper.

Four new locations—three for Lea county and one for Eddy county—have been a stimulating factor. The deep tests include the State No. 1-G of the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil Company, which was made several months ago, but later abandoned on Sec. 24, 12-37 in Lea county; the State No. 1 of the Gulf Petroleum Company on Sec. 2, 18-38, which is digging under to start drilling operations. The Gulf No. 4 of the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil Company on Sec. 21, 20-34, an offset to the State No. 1 of the same company, is the third in county location. The Eddy county location is in the Getty area and is known as the Dooley No. 4 on Sec. 23, 20-29.

It has been announced unofficially that the Midwest Oil and Refining Company plans to drill three tests in the Hobbs district. Locations are said to have been made on Sec. 9, 19-38, as an offset to the State No. 1 of the same company, on Sec. 5, 19-38, and on Sec. 9, 19-38, the latter being an offset to the Midwest Oil and Refining Company's Capps No. 1.

ARIZONA MINES AID COTTON PEST FIGHT

PHOENIX, March 16. (Exclusive) Interest in the agricultural industry of the State has been manifested by leading Arizona mining corporations, which have contributed $216,000 toward a quarantine fund demanded by the Federal government from Arizona, for payment of a half of the expenditure in suppression of the boll-worm infestation of southwestern cotton fields.

OIL ACTIVITY AT VENICE GAINING

Barnsdall Acquisition Gives Fresh Impetus

Property Directly Adjoins Discovery Well

New Project on Tract Due to Start Shortly

The acquisition of a twenty-acre strip by the Barnsdall Oil Company southeast of Venice has increased interest in the campaign to develop oil production near the Ohio Oil Company's Recreation Gun Club No. 1.

Barnsdall's property is a direct offset to the discovery well, and work has been started on a road to the property. Equipment for the construction of a small pier and a standard derrick will probably be moved in within the next few days.

The twenty-acre strip originally belonged to Rohde & McAdams and the Cypress Petroleum Company. Cypress held two-thirds and Rohde & McAdams had one-third. Unofficial reports state that Barnsdall paid $100,000 for the lease and will operate for Cypress under a drilling agreement.

Since the discovery of oil southeast of Venice, more than a score of drilling permits have been granted by the Los Angeles City Council to property owners. The Ohio Oil Company is the most active there. It is preparing to drill for several individuals and indications are that when the next producer is brought in the campaign will quickly broaden.

The Union Oil Company has completed rigging up Del Rey No. 1, a direct offset to Ohio's discovery well, and Ohio has started work on an offset to the Del Rey No. 1. The same operator is drilling ahead in Rowland No. 1, is building derrick for Dickinson No. 1 and has resumed drilling in Recreation Gun Club No. 2, which already has penetrated shallow showings.

There is some discussion of a proposed absorption plant to handle gas from wells at Venice. Just what company will shoulder this responsibility has not been decided. Several months ago when the field was first discovered, it was rumored that the Texas Company planned to build a plant, but a definite step in this direction is not expected until the field is proven as an important producing area.

OIL ACTIVITY AT VENICE GAINING

Barnsdall Acquisition Gives Fresh Impetus

Property Directly Adjoins Discovery Well

Test Project on Tract Due to Start Shortly

The acquisition of a twenty-acre site by the Barnsdall Oil Company southeast of Venice has increased interest in the campaign of drilling oil production near the Ohio Oil Company's Recreation Gun Club No. 1.

Barnsdall's property is a direct offset to the discovery well, and work has been started on a road to the property. Equipment for the construction of a small pier and a standard derrick will probably be moved in within the next few days.

The twenty-acre strip originally leased to Rohde & McAdams and to Cypress Petroleum Company, former hold two-thirds and Rohde & McAdams had one-third. Unofficial reports state that Barnsdall paid $100,000 for the lease and will operate for Cypress under a drilling agreement.

Since the discovery of oil southeast of Venice, more than a score of drilling permits have been issued by the Los Angeles City Council to property owners. The Ohio Oil Company is the most active there. It is preparing to drill several individuals and indications are that when the next project is brought in the campaign will quickly broaden.

The Union Oil Company has completed rigging up Del Rey No. 1, a direct offset to Ohio's discovery well, and Ohio has started work on an offset to the Del Rey No. 1. The new operator is drilling ahead in Ballard No. 1, is building derrick for Dickinson No. 1 and has resumed drilling in Recreation Gun Club No. 2, which already has penetrated shallow showings.

There is some discussion of a proposed absorption plant to handle gas from wells at Venice. Just which company will shoulder this responsibility has not been decided. Several months ago when the field was first discovered, it was rumored that the Texas Company planned to build a plant, but a definite step in this direction is not expected till the field is proven as an important producing area.

MABEL SILVER TO REOPEN

TONOPAH (Nev.) March 16. (Exclusive)—The West End Consolidated Company plans early resumption of operations on its Mabel mine near Mina and in the West End group in the Tonopah field, according to H. D. Dudelman, general manager. The Mabel for several years has been noted for its yield of rich gold-silver ores, with the gold content running high. Activities at the West End will be largely restricted to development of new territory and selective mining until silver prices become more attractive.

Conditions in the Silver Peak district continue to improve. The Black Mammoth Company is reported to be earning $4500 per month from treatment of custom ores from the Mary mine, controlled by the Indian Mines Company. Both the Black Mammoth and Indian mines are mining excellent gold ore, with strong ledges reported exposed.

The Oromonte Mines Company is operating its new mill steadily and treating seventy-five tons of profitable ore daily. Operations are steady at the Nivloc group, with W. H. Colvin, Chicago millionaire and owner, understood to be planning early building of a modern mill.

With two furnaces in commission the enlarged plant of the B. & B. Quicksilver Company is treating 130 tons of ore daily. Production of quicksilver is increasing, with the ore mined by the glory-hole method. Thirty men are employed steadily.

The Gold Zone Divide Company has purchased the promising Surprise gold property, adjoining the Gold Hill mine north of Round Mountain, and has arranged for vigorous developments. Considerable preliminary prospecting has been done and promising deposits are indicated.

The Gold Hill group is operated by the Gold Hill Development Company, composed of leading stockholders of the Tonopah Belmont and Tonopah Mining corporations. This company is planning the addition of a powerful pump to its equipment.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Hydrous Mineral

RANDSBURG, Feb. 25.—Question: Please give qualitative analysis of material I am sending you under separate cover. Does it contain aluminum or magnesium? X.

A.: Free gold and copper absent. The sample carries some crystallized lime carbonate (calcite,) with clay, iron oxides, and a low percentage of zinc. Microscopical pyrite traces, and for other gold—silver values please consult assayers.

Floatstone

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—Q.: Would appreciate an analization of the incloseed substance. Could you tell me whether or not it has aluminum paint base? This deposit is located in the foothills northwest of Auburn, Placer county, Cal. X.

A.: The sample carries but little alumina, and it seems to be chiefly a fine-grain silica. It floats on water.

Cummingtonite

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Q.: Will you kindly analyze and classify the incloseed sample, taken from an eight-foot vein in the Santa Monica Mountains. I wish to thank you at this time for past favors, through In the Earth department of The Times, it surely is appreciated. T.

A.: The shaly sample reacts for iron and magnesium silicates, and is a variety of amphibole (hornblende.)

Botryoidal Limonite

SANTA ANA, Feb. 26.—Q.: Please classify this crystallized mineral. Found near Capistrano, Orange county, Cal. B.

A.: Chemically, the specimen is hydrous iron peroxide.

Free Gold Trace

MOJAVE, Feb. 26.—Q.: Will you tell me if this rock carries any values? It occurs near Mojave, and there is a small ledge of it. J. R. H.

A.: The sample is altered feldspathic rock carrying limonite (hydrous iron peroxide.)

Altered Rock

PUENTE, Feb. 27.—Q.: Please give me an assay on this rock from the Gold Bug mining district, Arizona. B.

A.: No fire assays made for gold and silver. The sample is altered hornblende schist, in part. It carries some lime carbonate, iron oxides, and microscopic altered pyrite traces.

"Iron Shale"

BANNING, Feb. 27.—Q.: I am sending you some ore taken near the top of the ground. Are there any values therein? Please advise and oblige. N.

A.: The samples—not numbered—carry iron oxides, a little manganese and traces of zinc. The red matter in one of the samples is hematite and cinnabar is absent. The samples mixed together and analyzed react in low percentage for arsenic. Rather doubtful ores.

Cinnabar Absent

BARSTOW, Feb. 28. Q.: I am sending you today some rock which I should like to have tested for gold, silver and mercury. The package may be identified by this on the cover: "J. Barstow," which may be used to designate the rock in your report. X.

A.: The quartz samples carry a little manganese and the red color comes from hemitite (iron peroxide.) Free gold not present and for other gold and silver values please consult assayers.

Five Samples

EL SEGUNDO, Feb. 28.—Q.: Under separate cover find five rock samples to be tested for anything they may contain. Thanking you for past favors. X.

A.: Sample No. 1 shows three chips of reddish flint mixed with traces of chalcedony. No. 2 is part of a small boulder—a mixture, if you please—containing a little hepatic dolomite, traces of microscopic garnet; more or less lime carbonate and silicon. No. 3 is probably altered low-grade jasper. No. 4 is quartz, some garnetyte and traces of microscopic pyrite. No. 5 is a close-grained part of boulder carrying iron silicate, microscopic hornblende, traces of pyrite, hematite and lime carbonate.

Three Samples

KING CITY, March 1.—Q.: I am sending three samples of mineral for analyses and classification. I believe No. 1 is Venetian red; No. 2 ochre and No. 3 mica. B.

A.: Sample No. 1 is an earthy, silicious hematite. When washed and treated it might answer for metallic paint, but it would not be a paying proposition." No. 2 is a silicious and ochreous lime carbonate. No. 3 is not mica; it is impure, crystallized gypsum known as selenite.

Impure Calcite

LOS ANGELES, March 1. Q.:—Please analyze sample for gold, silver and copper. Found near Big Jim mine in San Bernardino county. Thanking you in advance for favor. R. T.

A.: Free gold and copper absent. The sample carries some crystallized lime carbonate (calcite,) with clay, iron oxides, and a low percentage of zinc. Microscopical pyrite traces, and for other gold—silver values please consult assayers.

Hematite

ONTARIO, March 1.—Q.: I am sending you sample of ore in box marked from H. S. Newton, Ontario, Cal. Will you please tell me In the Earth column what this is and its probable value. I am a reader of The Times. N.

A.: The sample is that variety of hematite known as micaceous iron. It is of somewhat unusual flakes for this hematite. It is a good iron ore, but in the absence of smelters near, is of problematical value.

Quartz and Limonite

TEMESCAL, March 2.—Q.: I am sending you several samples of clay that are obtained on this place—sec. 125, E. and S. W. It covers a dome of reddish hue. On west it occurs of much darker color also and the surface carries a lot of small pieces of black, shiny rock, and pieces of petrified wood are found in this locality. The clay covers some sixty acres, and some say shell (fossiliferous) limestone; also gypsum. The entire deposit is approximately over seventy acres. We have had a number of people who wanted to buy, but as oil people consider it a good oil prospect we prefer to lease same. X.

A.: From the many minerals set forth in your communication it would appear that you have a chance of finding oil on the acreage named. As a matter of fact, however, it would require a reliable and competent petroleum authority to report on this dome and be guided by his findings.

Your samples can be referred to as sandy limonite, but (replying to a question propounded by you) do not "burn."

MINE TAX FIGHT ON IN ARIZONA

JEROME (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—For many years there has been dispute between the United Verde Extension Mining Company and the State and county authorities over the valuation for tax purposes that should be placed upon the company's property here.

The county now is making a survey of the mine, having employed for the purpose Robert J. Coles and Dr. F. E. Calkins, Los Angeles mining engineers. Official valuation of the property has been set at $14,000,000, with claim by the company that only $8,000,000 should be assessed. The findings are to be used in a suit to be heard here the 24th inst.

President J. S. Douglas of the Extension for several years has been looking elsewhere for another mine for development by the corporation, which has about $4,000,000 ready cash and securities. Work prosecuted near Bisbee and in Northeastern Canada failed to give satisfactory returns.

Some satisfaction was secured in an investment in copper lands in Western Africa, though most of the U.V.X. holdings there have been turned over to the Newmont interests. Now, from another flyer, has come a good report. In an optioned Idaho mine, the Golden Arch group, has been cut a three-foot vein that is reported sampling around $30 in gold.

Stockholders of the Calumet and Jerome Copper Company, many of them resident in Los Angeles, have petitioned the Yavapai County Superior Court for the appointment of a receiver for the local property. The action is directed against G. W. Avery and other directors, who are charged with having failed to defend an action instituted by Avery, who secured judgment by default of the corporation. The property is valued by the stockholders at $150,000 and by Avery at $25,000.

Wildcat Ready for Second Test at Early Date

McKITTRICK, March 16. (Exclusive)—Another production test is soon to be made at the H. L. Whiston wildcat well on Sec. 30, 30-22, in this McKittrick field. Liner is now being run and the well will be cleaned out at once as a result of it being bridged at 3900 feet.

The well came in some days ago with 1000 barrels of production daily and then dropped down to twenty-five barrels daily. This was later increased to 125 barrels. The gravity is 35 deg. and the wet gas is estimated at 500,000 cubic feet daily. Bottom of the well is at [illegible] feet.

NEW OIL FIELD AGENDA TODAY

Fact Finders Will Announce Output Schedule

Report to Cover Production in All Sections

Program Operative from 15th to 31st of Month

New oil production potentials will be set today when the fact-finding committee of which W. E. Dunlap is chairman, meets at the offices of the California Oil and Gas Association. Its report will cover every oil field in the State for the period from the 15th to 31st inst., inclusive.

At the recent meeting of the General Committee on Oil Curtailment, it was announced that the program already is within 3.2 per cent of the quota of 609,000 barrels a day.

One reason for the success of the curtailment program is seen in the co-operation of the operators throughout the San Joaquin Valley and the coastal producing fields under the supervision of Umpire H. Paul Grimm.

Despite the slow decline of flow from the lower Clarke sand at Santa Fe Springs that field's daily average has so far been in advance of its quota by at least 10,000 barrels. For the new period that field's potential is expected to be approximately 231,000 barrels daily. The fact that Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill have not reached their quotas has led operators to suggest to the fact-finding committee that the new daily allowables be placed a little higher. If this is done, it will mean the allocation of more curtailment, perhaps, to the fields of the San Joaquin Valley and in the coastal producing fields.

For the period just ending, Umpire Grimm reports that the daily average combined overproduction for the San Joaquin Valley, coastal producing fields and a number of the Los Angeles basin fields has been slightly in excess of 13,000 barrels of oil.

MINE NEWS OF ARIZONA FIELD TOLD

Inspiration Output Cut; Miami Plans Campaign of Diamond Drilling

MIAMI (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—A diamond drilling campaign of exploration is to be started at once on the land of the Miami Copper Company by the Sullivan Machinery Company, which recently finished similar work on the Pinto Valley property, ten miles west of this city. It is proposed to outline the limits of the Miami ore bodies.

Inspiration, with greater milling capabilities than any other Arizona mine, has settled down to a monthly copper production of about 5,500,000 pounds, compared with twice that quantity in the top month of 1929. Last year's output was about 107,000,000 pounds.

Arizona Commercial has started the year with about 350,000 pounds monthly production. Last year's production was 3,800,000 pounds.

Iron Cap is centering activity on the Cilla River property of the Christmas Copper Company, wherein has been erected the Iron Cap shaft equipment, as well as much of its milling machinery.

In the Dripping Springs section, the Bywater-Canadian property is being worked by the United Vanadium Corporation, which is erecting a dry mill, to be connected with the mine by tramway. The same organization, with Los Angeles headquarters, has a vanadium mine and mill near Wickenburg.

Mine Activity in New Mexico Area Reported

LORDSBURG (N. M.) March 16. (Exclusive)—In Steeplerock district, ten miles east of Duncan, R. J. Whittaker of El Paso has taken over a working bond on a property owned by Ed Lunt of Duncan. It is stated that an eight-foot body gives assays of 26 per cent copper, in addition to gold and silver values.

The United States Copper Company, with property at Hanover and Pinos Altos, has alloted $150,000 for additional development work. The corporation is a Milwaukee one, represented at the mines by J. T. Janes.

Selective flotation milling is to be utilized after further development of the property of the Mogul Grande Mining Company at Pinos Altos. Over 1000 feet of drifting and crosscutting already has been done.

Pending Texas Pipe Line Bill to Stir Fight

AUSTIN (Tex.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Enactment by the Legislature of a law which places oil pipeline carriers and storage facilities strictly on a public-utility basis and which seeks to force pipe-line companies to bear the burden of expense and facilities in taking care of any or all oil that is produced by independent operators, will result in the constitutionality of the act being tested in the courts, it is authoritatively stated.

The measure was sponsored by the Texas Independent Petroleum Association. It was asserted by representatives of major companies which own pipe lines and storage tanks that the effect of the law, should it become effective, will be to stimulate production on the part of independent operators and to bring about a chaotic condition in the industry in Texas.

ARIZONA SILVER MINE ORES RICH

Assays from Cintas De Plata Show $600 a Ton

Values in Cinnabar, Copper Gold Also Shown

Find Believed Continuation of Benton Ledge

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Samples assaying $600 a ton in silver have been brought to Tucson from the Cintas de Plata property, thirty-eight miles northwest of Tucson and twelve miles north of Marana station in the Owl Head district. Values of material sort also are shown in copper and gold, with some quicksilver present, as well.

The mine is owned by C. B. Trout of this city and Ramon G. Jiminez, who are preparing a carload shipment of the ore. It is a new strike on what is believed a continuation of the ledge of the old Jesrie Benton property.

Some remarkable gold samples, assaying up to $50,000 a ton, have been brought to Tucson from the old Yellow Jacket property, near Arivaca, close to the international line. It is now being operated by Charles Farra and associates.

A contract for diamond drilling and other exploration of its property has been awarded by the Helmet Peak Mining and Milling Company to the Fritz-Hamilton Mines Development Company of Tucson.

In the Montizona copper property near Casa Grande, developed to 1100 feet of shaft depth, together with a 1200-foot tunnel, a diamond-drilling campaign is to be started soon. The company is a New York one, locally represented by E. A. Pike. In the same section is the Manhattan property, which also is to be diamond drilled. Backing is by local and New Mexico capital, with inclusion of former Gov. M. A. Otero.

J. S. Graham of Los Angeles, one of the owners of the property, states that the Silver Bell mine, above Florence, has been well financed and that the underground workings are to be extended and that new surface equipment is to be installed.

Cananea Mining Joins Drive to Cut Production

CANANEA (Son.) March 16. (Exclusive)—Cananea Consolidated has started on curtailment of production, following the lead of other large southwestern properties. Manager C. E. Weed is utilizing the slack period in reconditioning the surface equipment and in remodeling the flotation mill.

About twenty-five miles southeast of this camp, the Compania Minera Silver Plume is shipping three carloads of concentrates a month to the Phelps Dodge smelter at Douglas. The ore, carrying copper, silver and lead, mainly is from the Spar vein, on which development is being pushed below the 400-foot level. The capacity of the mill is to be increased to 150 tons a day. Harry L. Seares of Los Angeles is consulting engineer for the corporation.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROF. R. GUERRERO

Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

"¿Sabes, Baby?", dice Celia a su hermanito, "Voy a tener vacaciones y ya no tendré que volver al colegio hasta el año que viene." Observe el lector que la voz "vacación" se usa casi invariablemente en plural en la conversación castellana. No puede decirse que sea disparate usarla en singular; pero el hecho es que nadie la usa en España, y que suena muy extraño oír a la gente que habla español en California, expresiones como éstas: "Me dieron una vacación"; "Está pasando su vacación en San Francisco". Para traducir frases como, "He is on a vacation"; "He went to San Francisco on a vacation"; "He was given a vacation", dígase en español, "Está en vacaciones", "Fue de (a) vacaciones a San Francisco", "Le dieron vacaciones".

Para información del lector, transcribo lo siguiente de la Enciclopedia de Espasa: VACACION.—Utilízase el plural de esta palabra para referirse al período de tiempo durante el cual se suspenden los trabajos de la enseñanza en los centros docentes, ya por haber terminado el curso académico, ya para conceder un descanso a profesores y alumnos durante varios días del mismo; y también para designar la suspensión de determinados trabajos y actuaciones en los tribunales de justicia y centros oficiales, que es la acepción forense del vocablo.

Todavía dentro de ella debe distinguirse la significación genérica de vacaciones, referida a los días que está mandado que vaquen los tribunales por ser inhábiles para el despacho de determinados negocios, y la aplicada especialmente al período de tiempo en que algunos funcionarios judiciales disfrutan de descanso en su trabajo, que es el llamado período de vacaciones, desde el 15 de Junio al 15 de Septiembre, o sean los tres últimos meses del año judicial.

Más adelante, y hablando siempre del bebé, nos dice Celia: "Después se quiso poner en pie y le ayudé, porque es muy torpe". La traducción española del verbo inglés "to stand up" es "ponerse de pie" o "ponerse en pie". En América se usa el verbo "parar", "pararse" (to stop, halt) para denotar la misma idea. En España, dadas las acepciones propias del verbo "parar", únicas conocidas y usadas allá, sonarían muy mal y se reputarían absurdas estas frases, que se oyen a cada momento en América: "Párese y camine", como le dice el policía a un borrachín que se le ha echado al suelo, o "Ya lo encontré parado y andando", como dice una persona que fue a visitar a un enfermo y lo halló ya fuera de la cama. Un español habría dicho: "Póngase de pie (levántese) y camine"; "Ya lo encontré en pie levantado y andando".

Cuando el bebé se suelta riendo de la garrulería de Celia y agita encantado las manecitas, exclama nuestra incorregible charlatana: "¡Pues no te pones tú poco contento, hijo!" Igual pudo haber dicho, acentuando, de paso, la intención de la frase: "No te pones tú nada contento, hijo!", echando mano de esa figura retórica, a veces tan expresiva, que se llama ironía, y de que tan frecuente uso se hace en la conversación castellana. Esa figura, que un escritor definió muy acertadamente diciendo que consiste en la traslación de la significación propia a la opuesta, y por la cual atribuímos a una persona o cosa cualidades o acciones contrarias a las que posee o ejecuta, es la que utilizamos en antifrasis como las siguientes: "Menuda paliza le dieron al chico" (por decir que fue soberana); "¡Pero hombre, da usted regalada su mercancía!" (por decirle que extorsiona en el precio); "¡Olé la gracia, el garbo y la zandunga!" (dicho a persona sosa y desgarbada); "¡Niña, que va usted barriendo el polvo con esa falda!" (por decirle que la lleva arriba de las corvas), etc. Un ejemplo típico de antifrasis es la que usan en esta tierra de lengua inglesa, refiriéndose a persona vanidosa y que está siempre jactándose de virtudes y proezas: "How he (she) hates himself (herself)!"

Cuando se cae el bebé de la cuna y Celia explica a su madre cómo ocurrió la cosa, la señora le dice: "¡Siempre habrás tenido tú la culpa!" (Anyhow, it must have been your fault). En frases como ésa, "siempre" tiene el valor de "en todo caso" o "cuando menos": "Quizá no logre mi objeto; pero siempre me quedará la satisfacción de haber hecho lo que debía"; "Siempre tendrá cinco mil duros de renta". Debo poner en guardia al estudiante contra el uso incorrecto que hacen de "siempre" en Méjico en frases como éstas: "¿Qué sucede; vas siempre (no vas siempre) al teatro? — Sí, siempre voy (no, siempre no voy)". En la citada pregunta, debe usarse la locución "por fin" en vez de "siempre"; y en la respuesta, podemos decir: "Sí, he resuelto ir"; "No, he resuelto no ir"; o "Después de todo, sí, voy", "Pensándolo bien, no voy".

ALLOYS RESIST ACID

NEW YORK, March 16. (AP)—One of the important uses of alloys is to resist acid corrosion in chemical manufacture. The most notable example of success, says a report by Burnham E. Field to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, is alloy of chromium with iron or nickel to resist nitric acid.

Belridge Well Adds to Output After Cleaning

BELRIDGE, March 16. (Exclusive) Increasing its production from a daily average of twenty-five barrels to forty-five barrels for an eight-hour run, the Elmer Oil Company has just completed a pumping test of its No. 1 well on Sec. 2, 29-20 in the Belridge field.

The project was brought in from 3975 feet, but the yield was not satisfactory. The hole was cleaned out after dragging the liner from the well. The new production is the result of the cleaning process.

FRANKFORT GUIDES MUST BE LICENSED

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, March 16. (Exclusive)—Under a police decree just issued, all persons acting as guides for strangers in Frankfort must be licensed. Permits will be granted only after the applicant has taken a prescribed course of instruction, and proof of good moral character is required. This will eliminate the "fly-by-night" guides who were free to charge what they wished and were responsible to nobody.

"QUESTION MARK" AIR CHIEF SAN DIEGO GUEST

SACRAMENTO, March 16. (AP)—Maj. Carl Spatz, commanding officer of the Seventh Bombardment Squadron, San Diego, and commanding officer of the Question Mark during its endurance flight, visited Mather Field here today to inspect preparations for the annual exercises of the Army Air Corps next month. Spatz, who returned to San Diego this afternoon, said he will return in ten days with his squadron of twenty bombardment planes and an accompaniment of motor transports and enlisted men.

Do You Want to Lose Money?

Your answer is the same as that given by the thousands of people who are buying this book, written to keep them from losing their money in Wall Street. The millionaire Wall Street operator, who wrote this book, learned how to beat a hard game. Human, intimate, thoroughly sound, this book is the sum total of the knowledge he wrested from twenty years of successful manipulating in the Street.

This book is an investment—not a speculation—in your future investments or speculations in stocks and bonds.

Homers Scarce in Old Days

Only two National League players scored twenty home runs in a single season during the first twenty years of the present century. Frank Schulte of the Chicago Cubs had twenty-one homers in 1911 and Clifford Cravath of the Phillies banged out twenty-four home runs in 1915.

During the past nine years there have been thirty-eight instances of National League players hitting twenty or more home runs in a single season. Last season was a banner one for the home-run hitters. Eleven players collected twenty or more homers.

National League players credited with making twenty home runs in one season since the beginning of the present century:

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Boulevard, Washington at Vermont—"Anna Christie." Greta Garbo and Clarence Brown do a fine job with O'Neil's masterpiece of the sea.

Carthay Circle, Carthay Center—"Happy Days." Fox Grandeur film amazes the public and shows the great possibilities of the future. The subject matter is a minstrel show by the stars.

Criterion, 642 South Grand—"Men Without Women." John Ford's direction and a splendidly enacted story make this one of the year's best pictures. A sunken submarine provides the plot.

Figueroa, Fig. at Santa Barbara—"Seven Days' Leave." Barrie writes whimsically of war. Gary Cooper and Beryl Mercer ably portray his ideas.

Filmarte, 1228 Vine.—"The New Babylon." A chaos of war and social destruction in the Paris of 1870 makes rather confused drama from Russia.

Forum, Pico at Norton—"Dark Streets." A rather good crook play, featuring Jack Mulhall in a dual role.

Grauman's Chinese, 6925 Hollywood Blvd.—"Rogue Song." Lawrence Tibbett makes a powerful impression on screen fans in a vagabond romance of nearly great quality.

Grauman's Egyptian, 6708 Hollywood Blvd.—"The Love Parade." An operetta, delightful with Lubitsch farce and Maurice Chevalier's fun.

Loew's State, Broadway at Seventh—"Such Men are Dangerous." Elinor Glyn's romance imagined from Loewenstein's disappearance. A picture with appeal to women.

Million Dollar, Broadway at Third—"The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." George Sidney and Charlie Murray set in and out of tight places in Scotland.

Palace, Broadway between Sixth and Seventh—"New York Nights." Norma Talmadge speaks and is the atmosphere of Tin Pan Alley. Should be entertaining to the majority.

Paramount, Hill at Sixth—"The Vagabond King." Excellent in many ways, this Paramount film deserves to be seen at least once. Dennis King and Jeanette MacDonald easy leading roles.

Rita, 3200 Wilshire—"New York Nights." See above.

R.K.O., Hill at Eighth—"Playing Around." Amusing comedy full of the old moral, "home is the best place after all." With Alice White and Chester Morris.

R.K.O. Orpheum, Broadway at Ninth—"Rio Rita." Bebe Daniels emerges from silence a singer in this Ziegfeld operetta.

Tower, Bdwy. at 8th.—"Show of Shows." Warner Brother stars get together in song and dance and could be better.

Uptown, Western at Tenth—"Sunnyside Up." Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell talk and sing, and it's all like Cinderella.

United Artists, Bdwy. nr. 9th.—"Puttin' on the Ritz." Nice music by Irving Berlin, prettily plugged by Harry Richman.

Warners' Downtown, Hill at 7th.—"Song of the West." The old horse opera is recast in music, sung now and then by John Boles and Vivienne Segal.

Warner's Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Wide Open." Edward Everett Horton in a comedy full of his own brand of humor. Light and amusing.

Westlake, 628 Alvarado — "Sunnyside Up." See above.

STAGE

El Capitan, Hollyw'd Blvd. nr. Highland

"Let Us Be Gay." A sophisticated bit of entertainment, presenting Violet Heming, the New York star.

Belasco, 111 at 11th.—"East of Suez." Opens tonight.

Hollywood Playhouse, 1133 Vine.—"Helena's Boys." Reviewed in today's Times.

Majestic, Bdwy. at 9th.—"New Moon." The popular operetta is well put on, featuring the song hit, "Lover Come Back to Me." Perry Askam and Josephine Houston.

Mission Play, San Gabriel—The beautiful annual pageant of the settling of California, up to its usual standard. With R. D. MacLean.

Music Box, 6126 Hollywood Blvd.—"Romantic Young Lady." A light, almost whimsical mood, is reached in this play by Martinez-Sierra. Two old ladies give charming portrayals.

President, Bdwy. at 8th.—"Your Uncle Dudley." Taylor Holmes plays a small-town character and indulges in some of his popular humor.

Vine-street, 1615 Vine.—"Rope's End." A study of the perfect crime; excellently portrayed by Noel Madison and Dwight Frye.

VARIETIES

Burbank, 8th and Main—Burlesque.

Follies, 4th and Main—Burlesque.

Ruth Annexes First Honors

Eleven American League players have been credited with batting out twenty home runs in a single season. Babe Ruth first turned the trick in 1919. He has passed the twenty home-run mark eleven straight seasons. Jimmy Foxx and Dale Alexander were the two players to join the twenty home run class in 1929. The complete list follows:

METALS HAVE SICK SPELLS

Tin Feels All Out of Sorts When Temperature Drops

MADISON (Wis.) March 16. (AP)—Even metals get sick, says Villiers W. Meloche, assistant professor of chemistry at the University of Wisconsin.

To illustrate, he refers to tin. At 18 deg. or warmer, the element is stable as a shiny metal, while below that temperature a gray powder is its stable form. This, Prof. Meloche says, is known as "tin plague."

Sickness in metals comes through pressure, heat and other forces, he says.

MEXICO CITY FIVE BACK FROM TOUR OF STATES

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—Although the Fal basketball team of Mexico City, champion five of Mexico, lost more games than it won on its extensive tour of the United States, Coach Leoncio Ochoa is highly pleased with the results of the trip. The Fal team has just returned.

"We accomplished our purpose," said Coach Ochoa. "We perfected a better style of play, and I believe that my team made a good impression in the United States, which will help to cement international sport between Mexico and the United States. Like the Mexico football team, which inaugurated international sport last fall, our basketball team has met with defeats, but we now have a start. We plan to make another tour in 1931."

The Mexican basketeers played thirty-four games in fourteen Middle Western and Southwestern States, Texas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Kansas, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Eleven of these thirty-four contests were victories for the Mexicans. One of the victories was with a college five, Southeastern Teachers' College of Durant, Okla. The Fals held the strong University of Kansas team to a 30-to-39 score, and gave Notre Dame a 23-to-29 scare.

In the opinion of Coach Ochoa, the best brand of basketball in the part the Mexicans visited is played in Kansas. New basketball rules abolishing the tip-off that have been proposed by Dr. James Naismith of the University of Kansas, inventor of basketball, were tried for the first time in the Kansas-Mexico game. This style of play appealed to Coach Ochoa, who is of the opinion that the size of the center shouldn't win so many basketball games. Coach Ochoa also liked the delayed offense style of play introduced this season by Coach "Phog" Allen of Kansas, but he is unable to use the system in Mexico, since the courts are too small here.

The largest crowds witnessed the Mexicans play at the University of Kansas, at Notre Dame, and at Stivers High School in Dayton, O. The Mexicans received courteous treatment throughout their trip, and dinners were given for them in dozens of cities.

Miguel Ciriza, manager of the Fal team and interpreter on the American tour, plans to attend the University of Kansas summer school in 1931. Ciriza is active in Boy Scout and Y.M.C.A. work in Mexico.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to do this: you must keep your liver and bowels clean; if you are having a sallow complexion, dark circles under your eyes, pimples, that tired look in your face, and you do not feel full of sparkle. Your doctor will tell you that 95 per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are purely vegetable in their action yet always get results. They help bring about that normal healthy energy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c. [Advertisement]

THREE NURSES HURT BY AUTO

Struck Down in Safety Zone; Young Driver Held

Hit-Run and Drunk-Driving Charged by Police

Prince's Car Plays Part in Traffic Crash

Three nurses of the California Hospital were struck down in a safety zone at Grand avenue and Fourteenth street last night by a car police charge was driven by William H. Bowman, 19 years of age, 534 Connecticut avenue, Hawthorne. Bowman was booked on hit-and-run and drunk driving charges when he was caught by Officers Henry and Slazer at Seventeenth and Alameda streets. Ailee E. White, 30, 937 Compton avenue, Bowman's companion was booked as a material witness.

The three nurses are Cora Lewis, 930 C[illegible] avenue, Huntington Park, brain concussion; Miss E. Hogan, 629 South Bonnie Brae street, broken left leg and serious shock; Mrs. Leah Barns, 6314 South Hope avenue, Bell, cuts and bruises. Al Reed and Lon Reed, brothers, 4 West Forty-first Place, aided police officers in heading off Bowman's car after they reported it careened through the safety zone, scattering pedestrians right and left.

PRINCE'S CAR BUMPS

Prince David M'Divani, husband of Miss Murray, bumped into another motorist and Police Commissioner Thorpe personally joined in a chase for a hit-and-run driver who led him to a hectic week-end in police traffic circles.

The Prince is a modest chap and a student of the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital did not suspect his identity, nor did the victims, Miss Belle Karrie, 18 years of age, 871 South Wilton Place, and Miss Bertha Reed, 16, who was riding in Miss Karrie's sedan. Not until the screen of [illegible] house had called at the police station to report the accident did [illegible] become aware that royalty was at the wheel of the offending car. Reporters unearthed his address, 6300 Main Street, Venice, as that of Gae Murray and the Prince took a taxi.

PRINCE CAUTIONED

The accident, as such, amounted to little. Police reported that Miss Karrie had applied her brakes to make a traffic stop at Ninth and Spring streets and her intention was not entirely clear to Prince M'Divani, whose car was following. The result was a bumper-to-bumper collision which caromed Miss Karrie's machine against another car a few feet ahead with considerable violence.

Both Miss Karrie and Miss Reed were treated at the Receiving Hospital for severe neck sprains and shock. The Prince was not booked, although he was said to him that the necessity for extreme caution when one is driving in traffic.

Police Commissioner Thorpe was going with Officer Farnum when they saw a negro trying frantically to escape from a pair of irate victims whose car he had hit several blocks back. They joined in the chase and overtook the fugitive at Main and Beacon streets, where they held him until Officer Gorman arrived. The negro gave his name as Gregory Landon, 33 years of age, of 1402 East Twenty-second street, and his [illegible] victims are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard D. Gardner, 1510 Rondo Rondo street. Mendes was booked on charges of suspicion of drunk driving and hit-and-run. His car was impounded.

An unidentified man fled from the [illegible] sedan registered to A. B. Curtis, 1331 Stockton street, San Francisco, after it crashed into another driven by H. J. Glauser, 3271½ East Twelfth street, at Twelfth and Los Angeles streets. The impact turned Glauser's car on its side, [illegible] Joe Cota, 3, a passenger, through the windshield. The baby was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital seriously cut and the

CLAIMANT TO GABY DESLYS RICHES FOUND HERE

Pasadena Woman Fights to Prove She's Dancer's Daughter

She Carries Strange Mark Placed on Secret Babe

CLEWS that will unravel the tery of the lost identity of a Pasadena woman, which if solved my connect her past with sensational European intrigue and make her heiress to the $2,000,000 fortune left by Gaby Deslys, noted French dancer, are being sought by Judge A. W. McGovney, of Gardena.

The woman is Mrs. Edna C. Stiles of 992 Emerson avenue, Pasadena. Her story reads stranger than fiction and only upon the question of the actual age of Gaby Deslys when she died two years ago hinges her claim to relationship to the dancer, whose own origin is doubtful and is now the matter of a sensational court trial in Paris. Claims of Mrs. Stiles to a part in the fortune of the famous dancer have been forwarded to the French courts by Judge McGovney.

Upon the word of a French lawyer with whom Judge McGovney corresponded, will depend whether Mrs. Stiles will go to Paris in the near future personally to lay her claim to the fortune. Belief that she is the daughter of the dancer is based principally on a vivid scar, in the shape of a cross, on the little finger of her left hand. This scar was caused by a deliberate mutilation of her finger by some one who placed Mrs. Stiles in a foundling home in Peoria, Ill., when she was 5 days of age. This was in 1888.

MYSTERY OF SCAR

The mystery of the scar and its purpose has been a matter of wonder to Mrs. Stiles and those who knew about it, until recently dispatches from Paris told some of the details of the court battle over the fortune of Gaby Deslys. One of the witnesses was an aged French nurse who testified that the dancer had secretly given birth to a baby many years ago.

According to the dispatches the nurse testified that when the baby was born she cut a cross into the flesh of the little finger of the left hand for purposes of future identification. As there are many claimants appearing daily in the Paris courts asserting they are either "brothers," "sisters," "fathers," "cousins" and "mothers" of the dancer their claims are made subject of denials by the aged nurse who insists the daughter of Gaby Deslys will have a cross scarred on the little finger of her left hand.

Mrs. Stiles's attention to the trial came about in a mysterious manner. She had given no thought to being kin of the dancer until her foster mother, Mrs. Edna L. Miltner, 992 Emerson avenue, received a clipping from a San Francisco newspaper, inclosed in a brown envelope of the Southern Pacific Railroad, which had been mailed aboard

SOUND FILM CAPTURING EUROPEANS

Vicomte Says Old World Turning More and More to American Entertainment

Europe, with its traditional love of the opera and theater, has turned enthusiastically to the American talking picture, and in the opinion of Vicomte Alain de Leche, who arrived in Los Angeles yesterday for a three weeks' visit, will always look to America and particularly to Hollywood for a large share of its entertainment.

"The talking motion picture has given good entertainment to a vast number of people," he declared yesterday, "and although for years the cinema has held the position of the poor sister of the real theater, the talking picture has brought a tremendous change."

Vicomte de Leche believes that eventually the European nations will develope their own motion-picture industry, but that day is very far off, for with all its faults the American product has taken the universal fancy of the people abroad.

"Even the English," he said, "who so often protest the American accent have come to enjoy the American slang and really appreciate the humor of a Hollywood picture.

The Vicomte, a poet and author, is in Hollywood to negotiate for the filming of a number of his writings. His latest story in English, "Mr. Goldberg's Party," is a humorous description of the delights and difficulties of the diary of a foreign visitor to the United States.

Tommy Milton Fined for Speed

Picking La Brea avenue instead of a speedway as the spot to "step on the gas" on February 15, last, cost Tommy Milton, former racing driver, a $10 fine in Municipal Judge Valentine's traffic court.

Milton was traveling, the police report showed, at a rate of forty miles an hour in a twenty-mile zone. He pleaded guilty and paid the fine.

NINTH PLANET 'NOT SO MUCH'

Discovery Regarded by Astronomer Less Important Than Work of Mt. Wilson Observatory

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

ALTADENA, March 16.—While the recent discovery of a ninth planet by Lowell Observatory astronomers is a notable achievement, assertions that it dwarfs all other astronomical discoveries in the last 100 years are highly exaggerated in view of research at the Mt. Wilson Observatory, which has proved that the solar system is not a single universe, but one of thousands of "island universes."

This is the declaration today of Edward H. Morse, nationally known amateur astronomer who is completing construction of a fifteen-inch reflecting telescope to be installed in an observatory located in the rear of his residence, 2401 Mar Vista avenue. For more than fourteen years Morse has labored on a hobby that requires infinite patience in the face of unforeseen setbacks. With his own hands he has constructed practically every metal part of the mounting. At present he is completing the work of polishing the fifteen-inch reflecting mirror in his machine shop, and it now appears that his arduous task will be completed within six months.

OLD IDEA DISPROVED

"Astronomers, as a group, are lacking in jealousy and more than willing to give the other fellow his due credit, but in view of published statements regarding the discovery of a new planet, it appears that the unsurpassed research at Mt. Wilson has not been stressed," asserted Morse.

"If it hadn't been for the 100-inch telescope at Mt. Wilson, the idea of one universe—this old earth we are most familiar with—surrounded by a lot of planets and stars—would have prevailed probably for many years. In other words, the discovery of a new planet is a great advance, but the discovery at Mt. Wilson of entire new universes is of such importance that it beggars description."

SITE PROBLEMS

Mr. Morse, on a smaller scale, faced the same problem regarding the selection of a site for his observatory as that now being worked out by those in charge of selecting a site for the 200-inch California Institute of Technology telescope. Because of the glare from artificial lights, he moved to this community

DATES FOR CITY CAMP SEASON SET

Managers Also Named by Playground Commission for Mountain Resorts

Opening and closing dates for the Playground and Recreation Department's camps in the high Sierras and San Bernardino ranges have been selected and camp managers named by the Playground and Recreation Commission.

Camp Seeley will open June 8, next, and close September 14; Camp Radford opens June 15 and closes September 7; Camp High Sierra opens June 22 and closes September 6. Miss Jean McCulloch has been selected as manager of Camp High Sierra; Ernest Hale, Camp Radford, and William C. Morrison, Camp Seeley.

A change in the rates for seven and thirteen-day outing trips, slightly higher than in former years, recommended by Supt. Hoyt, is being studied by the commission before taking final action.

TRAFFIC CHANGE ASKED

The Lorena Heights Improvement Association has asked the City Council to designate men other than police officers to direct traffic for children in school-zone crossings. It was referred to the Police Commission and the Traffic and Lighting Committee.

BRIGHT CHILD TO HAVE INNINGS

Experimental Teaching of Supernormal Youths Shows Need of Special School to Train Brilliant Minds; Laguna Beach Chosen for Test

Superior intelligence in a child may be either a blessing or an abomination, depending to great extent upon the quality of the direction it receives. In any event it is not a thing to be dismissed with smug satisfaction on the part of parents and teachers with the idea that they can settle back and let nature take its course.

In fact, so convinced is one of the teachers of our city schools that there is an overwhelming need for special guidance for children with superior mental endowment that she is making concrete plans to prove her theory with a school at Laguna Beach, which she hopes eventually will have a curriculum from the elementary grades through the university.

This is Miss Elba Julie Johnson, teacher of English at Hollywood High School. Already she has conducted one experiment in this field when she directed La Escuela del Mar (the School by the Sea) last summer at Laguna Beach, and it is the result of this first experiment which has encouraged her to more ambitious plans for the future.

"The problem of the subnormal child has been recognized," said Miss Johnson, "and all manner of things have been done for that type, but as yet nothing has been done for the supernormal child, who frequently is as bad a misfit in his surroundings as the child of subnormal intelligence.

"Most people do not realize that the exceptional child really is no different from the average in his actions, reactions, likes and dislikes. The great difference lies in his ability to grasp things quicker and more fully than others. When he appears queer it generally is due to educational maladjustment or sometimes to parental misunderstanding, and now and again a whole group of exceptionally bright children will be unfavorably branded by the action of an infrequent psychopathic or neurotic mental superior, which obviously, is unfair.

At La Escuela del Mar, where Miss Johnson as director of the school will have a faculty of experienced educators who are interested in her project, the summer session will be in progress for six weeks beginning July 7.

The procedure for the school is approximately as follows:

No child is admitted who has an intelligence quotient under 125, as determined by the Stanford University revision of the Binet tests. These tests will be made by Dr. Aaron J. Rosanoff with recommen-

BAKERIES AMALGAMATED

Coast Industries in Deal to Improve Service, Meet Competition and Encourage Investors

Amalgamation of a number of the leading independent bakeries on the Pacific Coast in a move to enable the local plants to cope with competition from eastern interest and to attract eastern investors was announced last night by James W. Costello, president of the Weber Baking Company.

In making known the culmination of moves that have been under way for some time, Mr. Costello announced that associated in the amalgamation, which will be arranged to preserve the identity of the local bakeries, will be the Log Cabin Bakery, represented by L. A. Stump; the 48 Bakery, with Fred Scalzo and Charles Scribner as representatives; the Suydam Baking Company, represented by Earl and Roy Suydam, and Dale Weber, production manager of the various Weber bakeries.

Long Beach and Santa Ana, represented by the Kilpatrick Bakeries, headed by Harold Kilpatrick, and San Diego, by Henry Cramer, will join in the new organization.

BENEFITS POINTED OUT

"It is true that such an amalgamation is in process," said Costello in verifying reports that have been prevalent for several weeks. "For several years past, attempts have been made to amalgamate some of the leading independent bakeries here on the Coast in order to enable these local independent plants to cope with the competition of eastern interests.

"Through this amalgamation of independent bakeries on the Pacific Slope, we expect to render greater service to the public through the elimination of waste in deliveries, by avoiding duplication of routes; by better standardizing and improvement of production methods; by better service in general to the consuming public."

The identity of the local bakeries affected will be preserved in the new organization, according to Costello, and there is to be no change in the management of any of the

JULIAN "PLOT" CHARGES REVEALED IN TRANSCRIPT

Berman Asserts Lavine Received $30,000 for Giving "Publicity"; Fund for Keyes Mentioned

Charges that Morris Lavine, newspaper reporter, was paid between $30,000 and $40,000 to write publicity stories intended to stimulate the sale of stock in the Julian Petroleum Corporation were made to the county grand jury recently by Jacob Berman, also known as Jack Bennett, shortly before Lavine and Miss Leontine Johnson were indicted and accused of extorting $75,000 from Charles Crawford, Kent Parrot, Abe Morris and Jacob Friedlander.

In addition to this accusation, the transcript also sets forth that Crawford aided in raising $25,000 as a defense fund for Asa Keyes, to fight charges of accepting bribes, and also was approached for an additional $5000 by Lavine to carry the former prosecutor's fight to the United States Supreme Court.

These incidents in the investigation became known yesterday when the transcript of the grand jury proceedings was finished and copies furnished to the defendants and to Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

DETAILS REVEALED

In disclosing for the first time in detail the story of the asserted plot to extort money from a group of politicians and business men, the transcript reveals that for nearly a week prior to the arrest of the pair the District Attorney's office worked in close co-operation with Berman and Crawford to thwart the plan.

According to Berman, Miss Johnson first approached him at the office of his attorney, Otto Christensen, stating that she intended to write a series of articles exposing the inside story of the Julian Petroleum Corporation collapse, and asking for additional information.

"I told her that I would have to talk the matter over with my attorney," Berman said, "and asked the woman to return the following Monday.

"She came up on Monday and I talked to her and discussed the case, and wanted to know how far the stories were going, and she said, 'They are going pretty far, unless. . . .' I said 'unless what!' 'Unless some one kicks through,' she added."

LAVINE MENTIONED

With this remark Miss Johnson told him to call at her apartment at 236 South Coronado street and discuss the matter further, Berman said.

It was here according to Berman, that he first met Lavine in connection with the asserted extortion plot. At this time the woman suggested that Berman go to Abe Morris and Charles Crawford, put the proposition up to them and see how much they would pay to keep their names out of the stories, Berman said.

Instead, however, Berman asserts that he advised Morris and Crawford of the asserted plot and asked them what to do. They suggested that he keep his contact until they decided how to meet the situation.

According to Crawford, a meeting was finally called at the home of Morris and the matter was discussed at length. Later the meeting adjourned to the home of Parrot, who was not present at the first conference, and it was decided to lay the entire matter before the District Attorney. Parrot and Friedlander told Dist.-Atty. Fitts of the asserted plot, Berman said.

KEYES AFFAIR

The attempt to obtain the $5000 for the Keyes appeal was explained by Crawford in relating a conference he had with Lavine on the 9th inst., only a few hours before the arrest.

Lavine, according to Crawford, said: "Well, will you give me $5000 for Keyes, to take that case to the Supreme Court?"

Crawford testified: "Well, I told him that I was a party to raising $25,000 to help Mr. Keyes and I would certainly go further to help him if there was any chance, but as I understood it, in my judgment, there wasn't any chance. I had the thought that the $5000 wouldn't reach its destination any way, through that source."

There is nothing in the entire transcript of testimony taken in the case to indicate what secret Lavine and Miss Johnson intended to expose in their asserted plot to obtain money.

According to Crawford, $15,000 of the $75,000 fund was to be paid by himself. The remainder was to be collected from Parrot and a group of brokers, he said.

DENIAL BY LAVINE

After reading the transcript of the case, Lavine denied vigorously Berman's assertion that he had paid him between $30,000 and $40,000 for

CHAMBER AIDS CENSUS BUREAU

Data on Count Broadcast by Special Committee

Numerous Meetings Held to Spread Information

Stress Laid on Provision for Absentees

With the date for the beginning of the fifteenth decennial census of the United States a little more than two weeks away, an intensive effort is now under way to disseminate detailed information on the coming count to every resident of Los Angeles county, according to Harry Baskerville, chairman of the census committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Representatives of all lines of commercial and business houses, as well as utility companies, manufacturers and distributors, are being called together several times each week by the committee for the purpose of obtaining reports on progress made.

Of principal significance is the problem of impressing upon the householder the importance of co-operating in the taking of the census.

"ABSENCE" BLANKS

Attention is called by the committee head to the "absent family" provision of the census, which provides that special papers may be prepared in advance of the census count by persons who either contemplate absence from the city during the month of April or who are not at home during the day at hours when the census enumerator may be expected to call. The "absent family" schedules may be secured from A. C. Munson, census supervisor, located on the mezzanine floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building, and either filled out there or left in the hands of a reliable person who will be at home when the enumerator calls.

All information given on the census questionnaire is confidential and is used only for the tabulation of statistics which will not reveal information with regard to families or individuals. The chamber has received inquiries as to whether information is turned over to other government departments or private firms. This is strictly prohibited under the United States Census Act and provides a penalty of imprisonment for its violation, according to Baskerville.

COUNTY DISTRICTED

Los Angeles county is divided into five census districts and will require 1600 enumerators to make the count of population and to secure required data on agriculture, manufacturing and distribution. Beginning on April 2, the enumeration of population must be completed within two weeks, but the full month is permitted to secure the other data mentioned.

Persons in the county wishing to procure "absent family" schedules should apply to W. E. Ballentine of Monrovia, who is census supervisor of his district. His office is located in the Citizens' Bank Building of that city.

PROFESSOR TO LECTURE

Dr. John M. Pfiffner of the school of citizenship and public administration of the University of Southern California is to address members of the Junior City Club at a dinner meeting tonight at the City Club, 833 South Spring street.

ROAD-FUND TOUR OFF TODAY

State Chamber Party Will Collect Data in Drive for Equitable Distribution of Highway Money

Ten official cars, carrying letters of good will to presidents of all Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Supervisors en route, from William May Garland, president of the State Chamber of Commerce, will leave the local offices of the chamber this morning for a five-day inspection tour, covering 2500 miles of Southern California State and county highways.

Among others, Engineer Cortelyou of the State department, E. W. Murphy, director of the chamber, and Wallace S. Woodworth, chairman of its highway committee, will make the tour.

The leaders of the tour stated that its members hope to gather data which will lead to an equitable distribution of State funds in the development of highways in the ten southern counties. Woodworth, leader of the tour, also declared that members of the chamber are optimistic of solving a number of fundamental problems in the further development of the Southern California highway system.

With Bakersfield as the goal of the first day's tour, the party will go by way of Santa Monica to Santa Barbara and the Castaic Junction. On the way they will inspect the new Ridge Route road and the Newhall short-cut.

Tuesday morning the caravan will leave Bakersfield over the Tehachapi to Mojave and Barstow where lunch will be served and continue to Needles. From Needles the route will be to Blythe for lunch by way of Parker and Rice and again to Indio and El Centro where the party will spend Wednesday night.

An early start has been scheduled Thursday from El Centro to take the party through San Diego to Agua Caliente where lunch will be served, and back again to San Diego. The ten cars will return to Los Angeles Friday night after making the run from San Diego via Riverside over the inland route and continuing by way of San Bernardino, La Canada and San Fernando.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE Navajo Indians have sent a representative to California on what seems to be a hopeless mission. To see if anything can be done about the flooding of the market with bogus silver "Indian jewelry."

Navajo silver craftsmanship is one of the few thoroughly American arts. Most of the other fine arts have come from Europe; this, almost alone, is ours.

For centuries these strange descendants of the herders of the Mongol plateaus have sat at the doors of their mud hogans in Northern Arizona evolving beautiful designs in silver. Their work has originality, rich symbolism and beauty.

BY WHOLESALE

Within the last few years a manufacturer in Denver—backed by a former bartender and professional gambler—has been stealing these designs and turning out so-called Navajo jewelry like shingle nails. The government is trying to protect the Indians by making it unlawful to represent anything as Indian-made unless actually the work of Indians. This movement is nullified and rendered hopeless by the fact that the women shoppers of this country seem to prefer the slick, machine-made goods to the charming irregularity of the genuine Navajo silver.

The government, up to the present time, has found no way to guard against vulgarity, stupidity and bad taste.

ART AND IRREGULARITY

One of the reasons that nine-tenths of our modern adobe houses have not the charm of the old before-the-gringo days is too much regularity.

Much of the loveliness of the old mission at San Juan Bautista, for instance, is because there are no columns of the cloister exactly alike.

I know an architect who finally achieved this effect by using all his bricklayers and having the bricks laid by the hod carriers. Like the Indians, the hod carriers didn't know the job well enough to ruin the charm.

FOREIGN THUGS

The clean-up being attempted in Chicago shows that the gunmen and gangsters are nearly all foreigners. There seems to be something terribly wrong with the deportation machinery of this country.

WHO TAUGHT CHAPLIN?

A cable dispatch says that the English comedian who "taught Charlie Chaplin how to act is dead." I am sorry he is dead; but he didn't teach Chaplin how to act. The next we know there will come a dispatch saying that the man who taught the sun how to make rainbows is dead. Nobody taught Chaplin to act. He was born that way. He is not an actor; he is a satirist—and one of the greatest who ever lived.

LIMIT ASKED ON TEST FOR PLAYGROUND POST

On recommendation of Supt. Hoyt, the Playground and Recreation Commission has requested the Civil Service Commission to make the position of Supervisor of Construction and Maintenance for playgrounds promotional, when the examination is held. The position is now vacant as a result of the promotion of Hoyt to superintendent and it is the desire of the commission that in the civil service test applicants be limited to employees of the department who may be qualified for the duties. The pay ranges from $250 to $300 a month, the same as for other supervisors. No date has yet been set for the test.

WESTERN LEAD CASE RECALLED

C. C. Julian Being Sued on Scheme of 1926

Withholding Many Shares of Stock Charged

Promoter Gives Testimony in His Own Behalf

Hectic days in connection with the organization of the Western Lead Mines Company, one of C. C. Julian's pet promotion schemes in 1926, are being recalled in a lawsuit now in trial before Superior Judge Hollzer, wherein John Salsberry is suing the promoter for an asserted withholding of 155,000 shares of the company valued at $1 a share.

Julian has been the principal witness in his own behalf at the trial, which began last week and will continue when court convenes at 10 a.m. today.

The suit follows the promotion of a lead prospect that Salsberry and two associates had on the line between California and Nevada. They had no money and consulted Julian, who is asserted to have conceived the idea of developing the prospect by organizing the Western Lead Mines Company, capitalized with 2,000,000 shares of stock.

Julian, on the witness stand, asserted that under an agreement he had with Salsberry and the others he was to hold the 155,000 shares of stock until the mine was developed in order to sustain the stock of the company as the price the public was buying it. He said the company now is dead.

BABY'S BODY DEPOSITED IN REFUSE CAN

Ghastly Find on Venice Pier Reveals Tragedy of Unwanted Offspring

Wrapped in blue-tinted paper like a parcel of merchandise and with the back of her head crushed from a blow with a blunt instrument, the body of a newborn baby girl was found yesterday in a refuse container in the women's rest room of the ballroom on the Venice pier. A woman dancer, whose name was withheld, made the discovery as she swung open the top of the metal receptacle to deposit a used paper towel.

The woman notified police and Detective Lieutenants Christensen and Bowers of Venice division took the body to the Nolan undertaking establishment at Venice. There, they reported, examination revealed the infant had been dead about two days. The body was unclad except for the wrapping paper.

An inquest will be conducted today.

dations as to outstanding features of any sort.

The pupils range from elementary to high school ages. They rise about 6 a.m. and take a few physical training exercises, arrange their tasks for the day, attend flag-raising exercises and have breakfast. A short camp inspection follows, after which they attend classes and study until noon. After lunch (all meals are prepared by an expert dietitian) everyone must rest for a while and then they have another hour of study. After this the rest of the day is given over to recreation, all under supervision but with a great deal of freedom allowed them, then an early dinner followed by story telling around a beach camp fire, a program or motion pictures and everyone is in bed at an early hour.

BRANCHES TAUGHT

Included in the curriculum will be French, Spanish, Latin, physical training, physical corrective work, orchestra, swimming, playground, craft, typing, penmanship, preschool work, mathematics, social sciences, English, dramatics, folk dancing, music, art, nature study and general science.

The faculty will consist of Miss Johnson, director; Marietta Baker, Malcolm MacDonald, Alice Mathison, Mabel Jones Broaddus, Julia Ellen Rogers, Anna A. Hills and Anne Dahlberg, with Dr. Rosanoff as director of mental hygiene.

DANCER'S CHILD BELIEVED FOUND

CLIPPING TELLS OF TRIAL

The clipping was a story from Paris recounting the story of the nurse about mutilating the finger of the secret baby of Gaby Deslys. After pondering the receipt of the clipping for several days Mrs. Miltner consulted Judge McGovney. Then the belief dawned on them that Mrs. Stiles may be the secret daughter of the dancer. Only a few intimate friends knew of the scar, or of the history of Mrs. Stiles and they were at a loss to know why the sender of the clipping should have sent it anonymously. Also they were puzzled as to how the sender had learned of Mrs. Miltner's Pasadena address.

Then Judge McGovney went back over the history of Mrs. Stiles and found as follows:

On November 17, 1888, a young man appeared at a foundling home conducted by Mrs. Isaac Edwards on Main street in Peoria, Ill., with a baby about five days of age. He made arrangements with Mrs. Edwards for the keep of the child and requested that if possible she be given to some family for adoption without any further permission from him. He gave no history of the baby as such was not then required by the law of the State. At the time Mrs. Edwards had fourteen other babies in the home. The stranger paid a month in advance. When he had gone Mrs. Edwards discovered the mutilated finger. It had been wrapped in gauze. It did not heal for months.

BABY ADOPTED

At the end of the month a $10 bill was received in an envelope which also inclosed an unsigned note stating the money was for the keep of the baby for the following month. But a week later Mrs. Miltner and her husband visited the nursery and were so taken with the new baby that they decided to adopt it. As the finger of the infant had not healed she took the baby to a doctor who told her the finger evidently had been slashed with a razor, deliberately, and for a purpose. Payments to the home ceased when the baby was adopted.

The girl was named "Edna C. Miltner," after her foster mother. In a baby picture taken when Edna was 5 months of age it is revealed that the finger had not yet healed. In the picture the infant is shown holding the mutilated finger apart from the others. In a picture taken when she was 4 she is shown concealing the finger as if conscious of the scar. In another photograph taken when she was 14 she held her left hand so the little finger again was hidden.

Subsequently her foster father died and Mrs. Miltner moved to California with Edna. Four years ago Edna was married to Edward Stiles. Later she procured a divorce and returned to live with her foster mother in Pasadena. Then came the mysterious clipping.

DANCER'S AGE MYSTERY

All that actually is known of the origin of Gaby Deslys is what manager information she gave out herself. Her age is a mystery, although theatrical records state that she asserted she was born in 1888, but as far as is known she never stated where that event took place. Judge McGovney asserted that he has evidence that Gaby Deslys was born about 1867. He does not want this evidence public until it is presented before the Paris courts.

"Gaby Deslys earned her greatest prominence when the fall of King Manuel of Portugal in 1910 was attributed to his infatuation for her," Judge McGovney asserted. "At that time she was a woman well beyond 30 as her pictures will show, and her reputation as a dancer then had been established in England and throughout Europe. I have evidence that Gaby Deslys began dancing as a little tot in London music halls and was taken from country to country over a period of many years before she became famous.

"Records of stage women show that the majority of them can take many years from their looks by taking excellent care of themselves, such as Gaby Deslys did. She derived much publicity by the vagaries of her toilet and one among the things she did was to take baths in milk. I believe we can prove that Gaby Deslys, when a girl about 16, gave birth to a baby somewhere near Chicago in 1888. Whether the father was of some European nobility, or of prominence we do not know. And whether Gaby Deslys was sent to this country to give birth to the child to prevent scandal in some European family is to be determined by evidence I have submitted to the French courts."

Among the numerous European claimants to Gaby's fortune is a family named Navratil of Hatvan, Austria. This family claims the cancer's real name was Hedvig Navratil.

They claimed in court that the dancer avoided the family because of its humble status, and also because they were not Parisians. This claim was strongly disputed by a Paris butcher who asserted Gaby Deslys was his daughter. Other claimants continue to offer "proof" which in turn is scoffed at by other disputants.

Of all the evidence so far submitted in the trial Judge McGovney asserts the claims of Mrs. Stiles are the most logical and are supported by stronger facts.

In the meanwhile, during the patient investigation of the Paris courts, Mrs. Stiles, in Pasadena, is wondering if the mysterious clipping was sent her by the man who took her to the foundling home in Peoria more than forty years ago and knows all about it.

CHURCH CENTER FORMALLY OPENS

Hollywood Methodists Occupy Their New Establishment

Services Conducted in Recently Completed House of Worship

THE $800,000 religious center of the First Methodist Church of Hollywood at Highland and Franklin avenues, consisting of a recreational building, a thirty-five-room school and office building, and a Gothic-spired church seating 1100, was opened yesterday. The recreation building has been completed and in use for some time, but yesterday was the first occasion on which either school building or church structure was occupied.

While awaiting completion of the church the congregation, which gave up its old meeting place on Ivar street just above Hollywood Boulevard two months ago, has been conducting services in the recreation building on the new site. The Sunday-school sessions and other religious educational classes also have been held in the recreation building.

Preceding the first service in the new church yesterday, the members of the classes in the various religious education departments assembled in the recreation building and then marched to the new school building, with S. L. Blankenship, superintendent of the Sunday-school, leading the procession. Each group went to its own assembly room or classroom for brief exercises, which were in charge of Robert E. Harned, director of religious education, and then they all proceeded to the church to attend the first service in the new edifice at 11 a.m.

The service was conducted by Dr. Charles F. Seitter, pastor, who offered the opening prayer. The sermon was preached by Dr. Moses Breeze, who, with William Lippman has directed the campaign for funds to erect the new buildings. About $250,000 remains to be collected before the church can be dedicated free of debt, but after the service yesterday, $150,000 was pledged toward this amount and it is hoped that the date for the formal dedication can be announced in the near future.

publicity stories when the Julian concern was still in good standing.

Berman's testimony on this matter follows:

Q.: You were active in the affairs of the Julian Company, were you not?

A.: (By Jacob Berman:) Yes, sir.

Q.: Did you make any payments to Morris Lavine, at any time, while you were operating the Julian Company?

A.: Yes.

Q.: How much?

A.: Between $30,000 and $40,000.

Q.: How are the receipts for that amount evidenced?

A.: Some were paid in checks; most of them paid in cash.

Q.: What became of those checks, if you know?

A.: The government has them in its possession.

Q.: For what purpose did you pay that money to Mr. Lavine?

A.: For articles put in the paper, whether they were true or not, to stimulate the sale of the Julian stock.

The defendants, through their Attorneys John S. Cooper, William J. Clark and A. F. Dailey, have filed a demurrer to the indictment which will be argued before Superior Judge Wood at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

According to the defendants, the $75,000 was not obtained by Lavine through any extortion plot at all but was paid willingly as the purchase price of two suit cases full of documents which are in possession of Miss Johnson. These documents, Lavine asserts, were of great value to brokers now involved in a suit concerning affairs of the old Julian concern and they had a perfect legal right to purchase them if they saw fit. This legitimate deal, however, was contorted by enemies until it appeared to be a blackmail plot, Lavine said.

The documents are in possession of the grand jury which is inspecting them to ascertain whether there is any evidence of a criminal nature. The grand jury is scheduled to resume its sessions at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

NINTH PLANET 'NOT SO MUCH'

from Lamanda Park and purchased his present residence after making a study of conditions affecting the use of telescopes.

In discussing the selection of sites, the telescope maker displayed a graph, prepared before the Mount Wilson telescope was located, which indicates that the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., where the ninth planet was discovered, is situated at the most advantageous position in the world from the standpoint of "seeing," the expression used by astronomers to indicate suitable atmospheric conditions.

Making a reflecting telescope mirror is a most delicate and painstaking task and after shaping his glass disk to approximate shape, Morse is now engaged in removing minor surface irregularities that are invisible to the naked eye. An electric light is passed through a prism through an invisible hole in a piece of metal and directed on the face of the glass. By placing one's eye close to the tiny hole in the metal, the glass mirror appears to be covered with a golden light. Slight dark shadows appearing on the glowing face of the disk indicate slight ridges which must be removed by placing the glass in an intricate machine which gently polishes it with rouge at the spot desired.

When his telescope is completed, Morse will attempt to assist in solving one of the most difficult problems affecting astronomers—the explanation of variable stars.

"These variable stars," he said, "would be all right if they were regular in their variable habits, but they are not—so it is these irregular variables about which astronomers, professional and amateur, wish to find out something."

When his telescope is completed, Morse plans to have it available to the public one night a week, but in the meantime he asks to be allowed to work undisturbed while he peers along the tiny beam of golden light in his effort to complete the "far-sighted" eye of his instrument.

CLINIC FOR CANCER HAS HEAVY DAY

Victims From Throughout Nation Crowd Office Here Saturday for Treatment

Cancer sufferers from practically every part of the United States were treated over the week-end with the new Coffey-Humber gland extract at the clinic in the Pacific Electric Club.

In the absence of her husband, Mrs. Agnes Humber, wife of Dr. John D. Humber, gave the injections yesterday and Saturday. Besides the 400 persons treated at the clinic during the afternoon, Mrs. Humber visited five hospitals and the Sawtelle Soldiers' Home.

Dr. R. W. Starr, member of the medical staff of the Southern Pacific, reported that 80 per cent of those receiving treatment are improving. He estimated there are 800 inoperable cases in Los Angeles county and pointed out that new patients desiring treatment next Saturday must register during the week at Room 741, Pacific Electric Building.

Several doctors from eastern cities and two from the Japanese navy attended the clinic yesterday.

mother, Mrs. Della Cota, was treated for severe cuts.

The San Francisco car continued on over the curbing and ended up against a steel girder of an oil station.

A wild chase after one drunken driver yesterday ended in the capture of another when the original fugitive became lost in a maze of traffic. Motor police were hot on the trail of a frenzied motorist whose car was careening along Central avenue when another machine cut across their path, causing them to lose sight of their quarry. Just then another car whizzed by in an equally zig-zag course. They chased it and, at Ninth street, captured Arthur E. Steiner, 21, of 3414 Roseview avenue. He was charged with drunk driving and his car also was impounded.

Twenty-eight cars, seized in drunk-driving cases, are impounded at Lincoln Heights stockade.

OTHERS ARRESTED

When Officers Cavanaugh and Maloney responded to a call that "a man is killing his wife" they arrived at the address given, 1006 Romaine street, just in time to see R. McFerrin, 37, dart out of a rear door. He jumped into his car and drove away at top speed while the officers commandeered another machine and gave chase. Three blocks away they captured him and arrested him on a charge of drunk driving.

Others booked on a similar charge were Fred J. Schultz, 34, 400 South Witmer street; P. Banordi, 243 1-2 West One Hundred and Thirteenth street, and Elton H. Lindawood, 50, 231 West Sixty-third street.

After she is asserted to have kicked a hole in the top of a taxicar, Marjorie Klatte, 22, was booked at Georgia street Receiving Hospital on a charge of being drunk. Her heel was severely bruised and lacerated in the kicking process. She gave her address as a hotel at Third and Figueroa streets.

Hospital surgeons last night considered the condition of Mrs. Cayetona Orita, 53, of 129 South Avenue 18, as very serious. The woman was struck by an auto at Avenue 18 and Broadway and is at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital suffering from a fractured pelvis and internal injuries. The car was driven by Leo Miramonte of 1743 Gabriel avenue, Palos Verdes. He was not held by police following an investigation of the accident.

Pastor Says He Could Have Been President Except for Perfidy of Hiram Johnson

"Our nation never was more in need of dependable men than it is today," declared Dr. John Snape in his sermon yesterday at Temple Baptist Church. "The cry in many quarters is for 'all-round' men, but this age does not need all-round men so much as it needs square men, qualified as leaders along special lines. God's dependable man stand at the cross roads of every crisis."

Telling the story of "two men by the name of Charles," Dr. Snape first studied the career of one who knew life as a bartender, ran the gamut of infamy and recently was buried in a $15,000 coffin.

"They say he died leaving $15,000—but bear in mind that he left it, and that that was all he ever was worth," said Dr. Snape. "The other Charles identified himself with movements of reform within the commonwealth he loved, fought for the elimination of race-track gambling at Saratoga Springs, succeeded in eliminating it; gave himself to high ideals and toil himself hard to their achievement and developed through the college of law and statesmanship into an international figure. Across his shoulders has recently been placed the robe of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. He could have been President—but for the political perfidy of Hiram Johnson. Who is he worth? We don't know. He isn't dead yet. But in moral dependability his worth cannot be measured by millions."

THINGS UNSEEN HELD TO BE MOST WONDROUS

"Wonders of the World" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Adjt. Frank Howell at Salvation Army Temple. Adjt. Howell spoke in part as follows:

"Great physical wonders among the ancients, notably the Pyramids of Egypt, the Colossus of Rhodes and the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, were considered the last word in building. For physical endurance and permanency they have never been surpassed. Modern wonders, the wireless, the telephone, radium, the airplane, and others, are considered by many the greatest of all wonders. But when you stop for a moment to think you will see that none of these is the real wonder of the world. What, then is? The kinship of man with God, the fact of redemption, the fact of the imminence of God and the gift of the Spirit. These things, being eternal, though unseen, are greater than passing, material things, which are seen."

WOMEN WRITE PASTOR ABOUT IDEAL HUSBAND

Letters from many women giving their ideas of the essential qualities which an "ideal husband" should possess, were read yesterday by Dr. Bruce Brown at South Park Christian Church. Following are a few of the sentiments expressed:

"I want a husband that will make me obey him by love and not force."

"One who will keep up his end of the doubletree."

"One who is not afraid of the strong and who will fight against the wrong.

"One who respects women and loves children.

"A man who can make enough money to build a house and has enough love to build a home.

"The man that I marry must believe in the Bible and respect the church.

"One who expects a woman to hold her own opinions and respects her for having convictions.

"I want a husband who has never been bridled and saddled and who has never had a halter around his neck."

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS DISCUSS "SUBSTANCE"

"Doth not wisdom cry? and understanding put forth her voice? . . . Riches and honor are with me; yea, durable riches and righteousness. My fruit is better than gold, yea, than fine gold; and my revenue than choice silver. I lead in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment; that I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures." These verses from the Proverbs were among the Scripture citations in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" yesterday at all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following statements: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay . . . Spirit, the synonym of Mind, Soul, or God, is the only real substance."

RELIGION INDORSED BY MODERN SCIENCE

"This Growing World" is the theme of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. Sheldon Shepard at First Universalist Church. Dr. Shepard said in part:

"Accumulating and advancing knowledge of the generations inevitably changes the concepts of the intelligent portion of the race.

"Every religious belief is undergoing transformation. Let men rejoice that each succeeding year brings them nearer a tenable conception of the truth.

Modern knowledge and science have emphasized every important teaching of religion, and shouted "Amen" to its every essential injunction. The notions which fall by the way, though they are the items for which men have killed each other, are nothing but the frills and foibles. Whether a religious man looks with favor or alarm on the conquests of advancing knowledge depends upon whether he is interested in the real fundamentals of religion or in its shell and husks."

PASTOR DISCUSSES PROGLEM OF PAIN

"The cross revealed Jesus Christ to the world as nothing else could have done," declared Dr. J. George Dorn in his sermon yesterday at Hollywood Lutheran Church.

"The world can hardly understand why there ever should be any suffering," said Dr. Dorn. "To be 'a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief' was the lot of Jesus. All who were ever called to important services for God were dipped in affliction's solution. We see a weeping Moses rise from a Nile's abandonment to a Pharaoh's palace. Jonah sleeps soundly on board of ship, but in the 'bowels of a fish' he is soundly alert. Manasseh among the 'thorns and fetters' of Assyria puts on his penitential garb. The cross glorified Christ because it revealed to the world a love which shrank from no sacrifice, which was capable of complete abandonment."

SERMON DELIVERED ON REINCARNATION

"Reincarnation and the Second Christ" was discussed yesterday by Bramacharee Nerode at Mt. Washington Center. Excerpts from the sermon follow:

"The field of reincarnation need not necessarily be this globe. It can be in one of the myriad planets where desires and ideals of the ego may find fit place for their fructification and fulfillment. In the bosom of the Cosmos, planets are nothing but different grades of existence and consciousness. According to the place of consciousness, ego reappears here or elsewhere—wherever it finds materials for further progression. Spiritual insight reveals that supersouls are born when the world movement is in need of light and guidance. Christ-Avatars have appeared in each thought cycle, and so it is not illogical to think that possibly some world-soul is already treading the earth-plane incognito or will put on the physical garb to blaze the way of matter-blinded humanity."

PHILOSOPHIC MYSTIC PRAISED BY SWAMI

A sermon on "The Philosophy of Shankar" was preached by Swami Dhirananda yesterday at Figueroa Playhouse. The speaker said in part:

"A poet, philosopher and reformer of undying fame that lived in India in the middle ages was Shankar. His remorseless logic put many a well-known priest and sophist to flight. Nothing else exists but the spirit, the world is not what it appears to be and the soul and the spirit are one—this uncompromising idealistic monism was his philosophy and also is that of millions of his followers today. His devotional poems to different gods and goddesses prove his recognition of minor objects of worship as a step to the realization of the absolute and his constant emphasis on meditation, morality and good actions shows his regard for commonsense methods for ordinary mortals."

UNKNOWN AUTHOR'S TOMB AGAPE

New York Publisher Reads Elegy of Would-be Writer; Novelist Nowadays Must Have Influence, He Says; Small Chance for Unsolicited Manuscript

Pity the poor unknown, would-be novelist; he faces the prospect of remaining unknown.

No less an authority than Alfred A. Knopf, New York publisher, who is in Los Angeles on a business trip, stopping at the Biltmore, is responsible for the observation.

"Almost everyone nowadays with the intelligence and ability to write a good novel," said Knopf, "knows someone, a critic or a friend of a critic or published, through whom he brings his work to the attention of the right people.

"Although my firm and the firms of other publishers maintain expensive reading staffs and are receptive to the works of new writers, the fact remains that very few unsolicited manuscripts coming through the mails are worth while. In my own experience I know of no such work that reached the publication stage."

Knopf gave it as his opinion that the readers of the country are coming better books every year, partly, incidentally, because of the efforts of various book clubs.

"On the whole, the batting averages of the book clubs are remarkably high," said the publisher, "and if it be objected that the book clubs are standardizing reading one may answer that no objection can be raised to standardization on the present high plane."

Publishers have more to do than merely to print books, Knopf reported, stating that all firms now find it necessary to have staffs to check on the data set forth in books and to read copy on the manuscripts. In some cases, books are almost entirely rewritten in the offices, he said.

Professors are frequent offenders, Knopf said, saying that in the majority of cases their works require much revision. And, he revealed with a rueful smile, they are not above cribbing: for a member of the technical staff of his company, checking on the information set forth in a volume, found that the author had "lifted" a considerable amount of matter from another standard work without change.

Art Club Opens New Exhibit of Mural Painting

The California Art Club opened to the public the first exclusive exhibition of mural and decorative painting by its mural-painter members at its Barnsdall Park clubhouse.

Twenty-five works which include scale sketches of proposed and executed finished murals and decorative canvases constitute this showing. A list of the exhibiting painters include Edouard Vysekal, Conrad Buff, Jessie Arms Botke, Cornelis Botke, Julian E. Garnsey, T. B. Modra, Francis William Vreeland, Dorothy Dowiatt, Irene Robinson, Mary L. Pottenger, Paul Sample, Frederic D. Penney and Edith Truesdell.

The club galleries are open to the public every afternoon except Monday from 2 to 5 p.m. Thursday afternoon admission is free. On other days a charge of 25 cents is made.

Arizonans Will See Angelenos Show Products

Arizonans who receive members of the Chamber of Commerce goodwill tour, scheduled to depart Saturday for a week's trip, will see some of the products manufactured in Los Angeles, demonstrated by executives of manufacturing concerns, according to plans for the tour.

Reservations are still being made, according to E. F. MacDonough, manager of the chamber's domestic trade department. The party will be headed by President John C. Austin of the chamber and is scheduled to cover all of the leading Arizona cities.

Every manufacturer and distributor participating in the tour is being urged to carry souvenirs to be distributed along the route.

CONDEMNATION OBTAINED

City Attorney Werner has notified the City Council that the final order of condemnation has been obtained for a plot of ground at the intersection of University avenue and Twenty-seventh street.

Financial Group to Hear Collins

Building and loan association executives from a score of Southern California cities are expected to attend a luncheon on Friday in the Windsor Tea Room, Brack-Shops, to hear an address by James F. Collins, director of the State Department of Professional and Vocational Standards.

Collins will speak on the construction industry in California and its relation to the building and loan business of the State. Three departments of State government that closely affect the building industry are units in the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards. They are the State Board of Architects, the Board of Civil Engineers' Registrations and the Bureau of Contractors' Registrations.

SHELTER AUTHORIZED

Construction of a shelter pergola at Point Grandview, in Elysian Park, for which there is a budget allowance of $400, has been authorized by the Park Commission.

Play Center in Canyon Asked

Establishment of a county recreation center on the Hansen tract in Big Tujunga Canyon is asked in a letter to the Board of Supervisors from the Greater Northwest Improvement Association. According to the association, 103 acres are available for such a center.

The board will consider the letter at its meeting today.

PARK FIRE DAMAGE BILL QUIZ ASKED

A bill for $2643.05, covering expense of erecting check dams and other work at Griffith Park as the result of the brush fire in that area last fall, rendered by the Board of Public Works to the Park Commission, on recommendation of the Bureau of Budget and Efficiency, has been referred to Park Superintendent Shearer for investigation and report.

Today's Bible Text

O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out!—Romans xi, 33.

ALSO ALMOND BLOSSOMS
Thirty-six thousand cars passed a given point in Beaumont on a recent Sunday. Doubtless all going to church!

WOMEN'S RITES
"Women have as much right to be hanged as men," insists the Women's Freedom League of England. Evidently wants to be given more rope!

TRUMPS
From the bids and batting averages already starting in the sports section, diamonds will be trumps in a few weeks. There will be plenty of grand slams for bases.

ON THE WRONG SCENT
Any wife who would mistake the odor of the stuff you fight to keep off of your face in a barber shop for that of modern beauty aids deserves to lose her husband.

SUFFOCATION?
Compton justice couldn't decide what killed a dog after an onion, a potato and a shotgun load of salt had been fired at it. Maybe the animal got a whiff of the onion as it passed.

THOSE LONG SKIRTS
Faces are coming back into their own as marks of feminine charm. Spanish beauty who refused to appear in a bathing suit, in a beauty parade, got away with second honors.

SAILING THE SALTON SEA
The Salton Sea has risen several inches recently. There is a suspicion that a leak at the intake to show how much water Imperial Valley must have, rather than an earthquake in the bowels of the earth, is responsible for the flood.

COMPENSATION
A Chinaman who claims to be 250 years old credits his long life to eating herbs that grow on the mountains of his native province. But who wants to miss all the thrills of modern American life to root in Chinese mountains?

UNDERSEA STOP SIGNALS
Trolling spoons are being fitted with tiny red reflectors to catch the rays of light and make the fish think they are alive. The only difference between the fish and the motorist is that the former may die if he stops and the latter if he doesn't.

WHY IS A CITY COUNCIL?
The San Diego City Council does not seem to care for the rare old Torrey Pines, the only remnants of a bygone age. A thoroughfare is to be cut through the group just north of that city. If anybody could invent a foolproof City Council, he would be hailed as one of the saviors of modern society.

OPENING OLD WOUNDS
A few English peers still are sore because a Russian fleet hovered near when a British flotilla was in friendly contact with the South during the Civil War. They want to collect some $190,000,000 loaned to the Confederacy some 65 years ago, which failed of its purpose.

TIME WORKS WONDERS
Chicago Y.M.C.A. official, visiting in Pasadena, in defending the name of the gang-ridden city, says good people no longer are afraid to venture forth on the streets in fear of hold-ups. One can get used to anything and then the people of the Windy City haven't paid taxes for two years and they can afford to lose a little loose change.

HAD A PRECEDENT
The Uganda policeman who failed to recognize the Prince of Wales didn't know that he was repeating history in the English royal family. When King Edward was the Prince of Wales he, too, had the wanderlust. While on a solo hike in Canada he came upon a farmer, whose wagon had broken down. The prince helped the man and the farmer asked to whom he owed thanks. "I'm the Prince of Wales," said the future king. "Put 'er there," said the other, holding out his hand, "I'm the Czar of Russia."

THE MORTON DECISION
The decision of United States District Judge Morton at Boston, that purchase of liquor is not a crime as the law now stands, will seem strange to many people. Morally, the purchaser of liquor is unquestionably a participant in a crime. But legally, a crime is not created by inference; it must be specifically described by statute; and the rule is that statutes must be strictly construed or taken within their most limited sense. The decision of Judge Morton is somewhat akin to the recent holding of the California Supreme Court in the Keyes case, in which it was declared that a bribe-taker does not conspire with bribe-givers to commit a crime—the taker and the givers being on opposite sides of the transaction. The distinction is a fine one—so fine that the District Attorney, the trial court and the court of appeal failed to distinguish it.

Judge Morton holds that while purchase for sale of liquor is forbidden explicitly, its purchase for consumption is not forbidden except inferentially and that inference does not go. To ordinary persons it would seem clear that the purchaser of liquor "aids and abets" its seller, but Judge Morton, passing beyond the point at issue, holds that he does not.

There is some confusion as to whether Congress intended originally to make the purchase of liquor a crime. It is being contended that to do so would make it difficult in many cases to get evidence against liquor sellers. So long as the buyer in such a transaction does not commit a crime, he can be compelled to testify to it, while if the law makes him also a criminal he can decline to testify on the ground that to do so would tend to incriminate him. That is the theory; but in practice this contention does not amount to much. Few if any cases are on record where a buyer in good faith (if good faith can be said to enter into such a transaction) ever gave any evidence against a seller, and none, so far as this paper is aware, where courts have succeeded in compelling such testimony. One reason for this is that the purchaser of liquor does usually also possess it, and possession is a crime, concerning which his testimony could not be compelled. Only in case of non-delivery after purchase, it would seem, could the purchaser be required to testify.

It must be understood, of course, that an officer making a purchase for the purpose of getting evidence would not be committing a crime under any construction of the statute, since in that case the purchase is made for the upholding of the law.

Whether Judge Morton's ruling, which is to be appealed, is upheld by the higher courts, or whether it leads to an amendment of the prohibition act by Congress, there can be no doubt that the prohibition act violations which so distress the country are equally due to the activities of the buyers and of the sellers. The purchaser of liquor contributes to criminality, whether or not he actually takes part in it, and is just as much to blame, morally, as the technical criminal.

Bootlegging will stop when it becomes either too dangerous or too unprofitable, and it will contribute greatly to the latter result if there is an increasing realization of the fact that if there were no purchasers the cessation of the criminal liquor traffic would be automatic.

Judge Morton's decision, assuming that it is good law, which remains to be seen, offers an illustration of one of the places where law and morals differ. It might be an excellent idea to bring them into closer correspondence, which at any rate can be done by Congress.

In other words, if buying liquor is not a crime it can and should be made one. The effect of making it such might very well be salutary, since the purchasers of liquor have not the profit motive which impels sellers to take chances, and the possibility that their purchases might involve them in heavy fines and jail sentences would tend to be a deterrent.

MACDONALD HOLDS ON
Ramsay MacDonald's government, defeated on a minor issue a few days before, was upheld Thursday in the House of Commons with a margin of seventy-three votes. This gives the British Premier a new lease of life and probably assures his continued power until after the naval conference is over at least. So far as can be judged at this distance, the vote seems to indicate less of satisfaction with MacDonald's policies than unreadiness of either the Liberal or the Conservative party to face a new general election. Both old parties seem to be dissatisfied with their leadership and neither is in a position to take over the government should MacDonald fall. The size of the majority does not, however, indicate MacDonald's true strength, since many Conservatives refrained from voting and the total against him might have been considerably larger.

His government has already lasted longer than was expected when the election results were announced last June and it was disclosed that the Labor party had won 47 per cent of the Parliamentary seats, with a handful of Liberals holding the balance of power. There is little doubt that the naval negotiations with the United States and the present naval parley account in the main for this long life of MacDonald at the helm. The Liberals and a substantial element of the Conservatives doubtless approve naval reduction and especially desire an understanding with the United States.

The test of Thursday, also, was on a straight-out Conservative issue, with which the Liberals had no sympathy. MacDonald's defeat will be inevitable if he yields to the radical wing of his own party and tries to push Socialistic legislation.

ERIN'S PATRON SAINT
There is one day, one saint, one country that will always have a hold on every heart responsive to poetry, open to sentiment and in tune with the eternal. March 17, St. Patrick, Ireland—when these are forgotten civilization itself will have lost the savor that sweetens existence on earth. In a country so rich in ideals as this blessed United States of ours, we need not fear that the contribution to American life brought here from the green isle of Erin will ever perish.

Yet the ordinary every-day citizen really knows little of what St. Patrick did for Ireland, outside his traditional feat of driving out the snakes. "Driving out the snakes" was a true symbol for the good deeds he performed in making Ireland the first frontier in the defense of Christian faith, when that faith was but a small candle shining in a pagan world. Perhaps it is a proof of his worth, better than could be found in perusing ancient parchments, that the man who is chiefly remembered for exterminating the snakes in Erin today holds so honored a place in the calendar of the saints.

Perhaps, also, the glamour associated with every name that has a Gaelic tang to it, with every deed that suggests a Celtic origin, is also due to the myths and romances so inextricably woven into the history of Ireland. A race which, from time immemorial, has fought for ideals and expression, rather than for material advantage, must perforce tell its tale in song and minstrelsy.

So it is that the fame of Erin has come down to us mostly through the feats of her fighting men. That is only because it is harder to fight for an ideal than for an actuality. St. Patrick was a saint of peace and progress, of constructive thought and orderly advance. Through all her stormy past Erin has been true to the principles instilled by her patron saint. If any doubt this, let him mark the course of steady development and quiet building up of national fortune pursued by the Irish Free State since it won its final bitter struggle for independence and self-expression.

REGISTERING ALARM
By James J. Montague

There is hope of uplifting the "speakies;"
Producers foresee a new day
When the heart-throbbing stuff and the bluster and bluff
Of the villain will vanish away.
They mean to make plots far more subtle,
And speech more precise and refined;
In the future they feel that the screen will appeal
To the cultured and erudite mind.

Alack, for the day when this happens,
When they blot out the film of the past,
When the hero shall strive to seem really alive
And the villain seem mild in the cast;
When no more we shall witness such thrillers
As "Mabel the Murderer's Wife"
And the "speakies" essay to reflect day by day
Only scenes drawn from actual life.

I like them red-blooded and stirring,
With a highly impossible plot
And with men who can fight for the wrong or the right
While passions are heated red hot.
I like them with hatred and fury,
Replete with revenge and with spite,
And that is the reason for many a season
I have gone to them night after night.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
BY Lee Shippey

THERE are all kinds of gardens and we're a darned poor judge of them. But if we were called on to judge we'd give first prize to Mrs. George Norris, who has about the best children's garden we ever saw. If Stevenson had seen it his "Child's Garden of Verse" would have looked like the Encyclopedia Brit, instead of being one slim volume.

From the standpoint of mere art, Mrs. Norris's garden wouldn't rank with some. But from the standpoint of joyous brightness, it outranks any other we've seen. It is a garden in which every tree is fruited with a swing, an airplane or some other device for entertaining—and upbuilding—children. And every twenty-foot plot of soil sprouts a playhouse, a see-saw, an outdoor gymnasium or a moated toy castle.

And the most marvelous thing of all is that it all cost very little money. Mrs. Norris has done it all with her own capable hands.

Just Did It to Fill in Time

Of course, the explanation is that Mrs. Norris has more spare time than most young mothers have. She has been married ten years and has only five children, all daughters. She used to be a professional whistler and stage entertainer and when George came home from the war and wanted her to marry him a good many folks thought she never could settle down to domesticity. The prophets were, in fact, a little surprised when she started in having babies, and decidedly astonished when she kept it up. But they were struck speechless—or as near speechless as such observers can be struck—when the former actress lugged a kit of carpenter's tools into her big back yard and began building things which looked as if they had been built by sure-nuff carpenters. The first was a playhouse of three rooms, each completely furnished. In the living-room there is a little divan, a little piano, a telephone connecting with the grown-ups' house and several little chairs. But all are solid and usable and sure-enough, not toy imitations. The piano is one which a grown person can sit down to and play and cost about eighteen monthly payments. The electric stove in the kitchen is one on which you can cook. Grown people have to stoop to move about in the playhouse, but children have as much room in it as grown folks do in kitchenette apartments.

Built at Small Expense

George is just as happy to do things for his children as Mrs. Norris is, but George is the junior partner in a neighborhood grocery—and you know what that means. Some men work from sun to sun, but the neighborhood grocer's work is never done. Even on Sundays there are accounts to straighten up and business letters to write. So that while George does what he can, it is Mrs. Norris who must do the bulk of the building.

After the playhouse, she built an outdoor dining-room, with a big grate in it. There's a grate in the playhouse, too, by the way, and another one in a little summer-house or grown-folks playhouse to which the Norrises take their guests when they want to play bridge or sing or otherwise jollify—so that they won't keep the children in the house proper from sleeping soundly. That's consideration—what?

And after building those things, Mrs. Norris kept on building a lot of other things about the place—the lot being 240 feet deep—just to keep her hand and the children in. And the result is that all the Norris kiddies—as well as all the neighborhood kiddies—would rather play in the Norris yard than anywhere else in town. It is said that the Harold Lloyds have about the best and most complete actually working playhouse in town. But theirs, of course, was built with money. The Norrises' was built with love and second-hand materials. Every time Mrs. Norris drives downtown she comes home with a car full of junk, and within the next week or so that junk is built into something new for the children.

Lament of a Would-Be Guest

This week's first prize for Scotchiness goes to the Union League Club of Michigan, from which we have just received a handsome complimentary invitation, to a testimonial dinner in honor of Edgar A. Guest. The only trouble is that the dinner was in Detroit on March 7, this year, and we didn't get the flattering invitation till after it was over.

But, by golly, we certainly would have been there to pay honor to Eddie Guest if we could have been.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

BRAZIL'S ELECTION
[Washington Post]

The election which has just been held in Brazil offers striking evidence of the success of the representative system of government in Latin America. This great South American republic has demonstrated its ability to maintain a government of the people, by the people and for the people on a sound political basis. Congratulations are due from all other self-governing peoples.

Local disturbances during the campaigns were greatly magnified to the outside world. They were of no significance, however, in the final contest, and indicate a lively interest in political affairs rather than any widespread intrigue or disaffection. Brazil has developed a strong two-party system which has proved effective in expressing the will of the people. Candidates for both parties were men of great ability and high character. The struggle between them was clean-cut and proved to be a genuine test of strength. There could be no more convincing evidence of political progress.

There was a general exercise of the suffrage right, which suggests that the Latin-American people will no longer permit themselves to be bamboozled by opportunist politicians. Balloting was peaceful, honest and lawfully conducted. The popular will was expressed in a manner that should give encouragement to all Latin-American peoples who are trying to operate their own governments for their own benefit.

AS SHE IS PHONED
[New York Evening Post]

Differences between the King's English and American usage, which strike the American traveler as amusing, have caused some complications for the secretaries of the American delegation to the London Naval Conference. The British "telephonist" employs an altogether different set of expressions from her American counterpart, the "operator." A busy line brings forth the statement, "The line is engaged." When a connection is made the expression is, "You are through," which means that your connection is through and not "Your time is up; please deposit another nickel."

"Hold on, there," is used for "Hold the wire." When a call is uncompleted it is announced as "ineffective." A call which is completed "matures." "Information" becomes an "inquiry desk." "They do not answer" is transformed into the more formal, "There is no reply." An "operating-room" is called a "switch room" and "long distance" is "trunk exchange." When lines are "out of order" in New York, they are "not working" in London. For telephone calls the "charges" in America become "fees" in London. For what Americans usually designate as "talking" over the telephone, with the British is "speaking."

It is to be hoped that Uncle Sam's colloquialism, running into the slightly bookish cast of the King's own English, will not require the calling of a conference on the limitation of linguistic differences.

Other Bible Departments

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] On the editorial page of The Times of Tuesday, March 4, appeared a splendid article entitled "New Club Department." However, as a representative of the Ebell of Los Angeles I beg leave to take issue with the writer in regard to the opening sentence, "For the first time in the history of California there is a Bible department in a woman's club."

It was in 1912 that the department of Bible literature was organized in the Ebell of Los Angeles at the request of Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, who was the first curator of the department and who was later president of the club. It was her idea that the Bible itself should be studied along the very lines so recently suggested in the article found in The Times. Also through this department Ebell makes a contribution to the community since members of the club may bring their friends to the meetings merely by the use of calling cards.

Among the other clubs in Southern California that have Bible departments may be mentioned Hollywood Woman's Club, Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale, Wilshire Woman's Club, Pasadena Shakespeare Club, Woman's Club of South Pasadena, Highland Park Ebell, Woman's Twentieth Century Club of Eagle Rock and Lincoln Study Club.

IDA PACE PURDUE,
Corresponding Secretary, the Ebell of Los Angeles.

New Planet Controls Weather

SAN MARINO, March 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In The Times, February 3, you published an interview with me under the heading, "New Temblor Theory." In that interview I said that the magnetic forces of planets cause earthquakes and rainfall in cycles. I told the reporter that some of these cycles are caused by planets that lie beyond Neptune, one of which causes a cycle of 315.5 years. This statement, however, does not appear in the interview; but will be found in the March (1930) issue of "Water Works and Sewerage." In that issue I have christened the planet that causes this weather and earthquake cycle with the name Apollo.

The very surprising fact is that barely had my article been published when the Lowell observatory announced the discovery of a trans-Neptunian planet whose orbital period is believed to be about double that of Neptune. This is undoubtedly the planet that I have called Apollo, whose sun spot cycle is 315.5 years and whose orbital period is about 322 years, according to my calculations.

H. P. GILLETTE.

The Other Side

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The editorial entitled "East and West at Grips," published in The Times of March 8, was, like most Times editorials, informative and interesting, but in this instance, is on "the wrong side of the fence."

Says the editorial, "Gandhi is marshalling the philosophy of the East against the ethics of the West." Now if philosophy is something speculative and ethics a code being practiced, it would seem to me that you might better have said that "Gandhi is marshalling the ethics of the West." Now, if philosophy is the West." The "passive resistance of 300,000,000 philosophically all-enduring orientals" appeals to the writer as being at least a rather active passivity!

The very nature of the campaign is worthy of attention. It is not a campaign "against organized government," but against the rulership of a foreign nation. It is the spirit of the Indian campaign that invites attention. Your editorial says that "it is framed entirely on the idealism of Buddha." You might, in all truth, have added "and on the idealism of Jesus."

Is England treating Gandhi with "urbane tolerance" because she loves Gandhi or because she realizes his power and the esteem in which he is held by his people? As to "the Red seed of Russian Communism," a noted Indian educator recently told the City Club that the Indian youth pay little attention to the few Communists who are in India. Supposing, however, that internicine warfare should follow England's relinquishment of India—whose business should it be but India's?

DISDAINED PHYSICIANS

Disraeli affected to regard all doctors with a sovereign disdain, writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian. "Gull is all froth and words," he declared at 73. "They are all alike. First of all they throw it on the weather; then there must be a change of scene; so, Sir W. Jenner, after blundering and plundering in the usual way, sent me to Bournemouth, and Gull wants to send me to Ems; I should like to send both of them to Jericho." And Joseph Chamberlain's insistence that to go to bed and to come down again constituted exercise enough for any man must have been a sore trial to his doctors.

HAY HARVESTED ON ICE

George Hanson of Madison, S. D., has been putting up hay by running his mower over ice. He had a crop of hay in a slough which was so soft last fall that the hay could not be cut. More water collected and has frozen solid, so that now the mower and rake can be run on the ice to get the hay. Hanson's planted crops were completely hailed out last summer and his winter hay is doubly valuable to him.—[Detroit News.

RIDING IN THE RAIN

BY W. L. Y. DAVIS

Singing in the rain has its advantages—to other folks. There are too many grouches around. But for sheer enjoyment and exhilaration, riding in the rain beats the bathtub or any other form of song.

Starting out the other day, it began to sprinkle. Putting up a decrepit umbrella that had folded up under the stress of life, some one remarked that it was going to be all wet. However, the heavens were just thickening up with blessings.

The drops began to splatter on the windshield and navigation was difficult. Once we whirled around in the opposite direction. But we had just skidded about on a lot of blessings.

The waters began to rage down the gutters and some one suggested a cloudburst. But it was just a big cloud bag of blessings that had burst and let them all out at once. When we decided to disembark, we had to take our family out in our arms—one at a time—and wade to the shore knee-deep in blessings.

Coming to a place on the boulevard where a dip was brimful, our old car plunged in hoping to navigate the current. But the water became too affectionate with the carburetor; the engine gave a wheeze and cough—and there we sat, marooned—in blessings.

Coming to a river that ordinarily crawled under its bed to sleep, we found it gone mad. It had carried away a span of the bridge. So many blessings had fallen up in the mountains and canyons and they called it a flood. But it was merely a torrent of blessings.

The engineers went to work to put up big dams for the flood control; but these are merely contrivances to restrain the blessings that go raging, tearing, roaring, smashing, plunging, submerging their way to the sea. And the big ocean is just a cup filled with blessings which the folks inland hardly know how to negotiate.

So Deity has had to salt them down to keep them from spoiling!

WHERE DO YOU LIVE?

By The Foothill Philosopher

"Where do you live?" some one asked me and, of course, it was easy to tell him the place of my abode—but often I have wondered why folks do not ask one another, "How and when do you live?"

Certainly I live in the foothills, near a whispering stream and yet (paradoxical as it may seem) I also abide on the mountaintop and down by the roaring sea.

Like many other of my friends, I am most alive when the world around me is dead in slumber, for it is then that I seek the company of great souls who have come to earth and departed, but who "being dead, yet speak" and "live again in minds made better by their presence."

To me the most interesting men are those most interested in fundamental, eternal things, and it is their companionship I seek when darkness and silence descend upon the world. And each and all of them claim me for their own because I love them.

I sit in exile with Victor Hugo and help him write his appreciation of the great Shakespeare. I slip into the room in which Walt Whitman sits writing and I hear him say, "You are my inspiration, my song and myself." I roam with Dante through the nether worlds and enjoy the drama as much as he. With Milton I wander through the three worlds and watch the flaming pinioned gods and demons pass the portals of his mind.

With greater ones still do I hold converse. I kneel with St. John on the Isle of Patmos and behold the visions unfolded to his spirit. I sit in the cave with Zoroaster and hear him say, "Contemplate the beams of fire with a most pious mind." I sit with Buddha under the bo tree and, with him, I declare: "From this spot I shall not move until my darkness is illumined." With Moses I walk through the wilderness, leading a great people to freedom and a land of plenty. And, last and best of all, I kneel at the feet of the Man of compassion, who bids me rise and takes my hand and calls me "Brother."

Thus do I live, and that is my true life. J. M. W.

WHERE CAN I LEARN
Furniture Making?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

A handsome black walnut dining-room set, which would retail for from $1000 to $1250, has just been finished in the Venice Evening High School, Walgrove avenue and Venice Boulevard, Venice, in the free woodshop class. The materials cost around $200. The art and craftsmanship account for the value of the beautiful set.

Other members of the class make home furnishings or practice along problems of house construction or remodeling. The instructor, Ernest T. Champion, is a practiced woodcraftsman. This class is free to men and women of all ages and the only expense is the cost of materials which they use. The class meets on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 7 to 9 p.m.

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason

SATISFIED CUSTOMERS

If customers were satisfied with everything the times provide, there'd be a frightful slump in trade, the dealers all would be dismayed. If we were satisfied to drive the cars we bought in '95, regardless of their ancient lines, their interplaned age designs, the greatest industry we know would have exploded long ago. Perhaps the blacksmith here and there would build a motor car with care, and dope it up with grease and pitch, and sell it to the rich. But we don't like to own a wain that's out of date and scarred and plain, so every now and then we buy a bus that gratifies the eye. And as new factories arise, employing countless well-paid guys, who earn the ample wage they make it gaudy rags and sirloin steak their money goes for; this is that, to buy a book, a chunk of hat, a cord of wood, a chunk of ice, a phonograph, a set of duds. And every merchant gets his share of what the worker has to spare, so trade increases far and wide because men are not satisfied. If we were satisfied to wear our clothes until they're threadbare, the same old rig year after year, the same old car or the cassimere, a lot of men would shut their doors, and tailors would desert their dens and men engaged in shearing sheep would throw away their shears and weep. And were a thousand other guys who earn the poorhouse in the dark manufacture varied dyes, would wear the poorhouse in their duds or steal a ham and go to jail. If we're not willing to be taxed to raiment that is dull and passe, we would not have the people bors think that we are broke on the blink. And so we buy whene'er we can, fine raiment for the outer man, and keep herds on a thousand hills and as we defray the bills.

'TIS IRELAND'S DAY ON RADIO

Wit and Laughter to Ripple Through Ether

Broadcasts to Honor Memory of St. Patrick

Special Programs Arranged by Local Stations

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m.; Glenn Hood, "Songbird of the Yosemite." World-wide news at 12:30, 4:20 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

The top of the morning to you! St. Patrick's Day it is, to be sure. It takes all kinds of folk to make the world—and it takes all kinds of folk to make radio what it is today. The part played in radio broadcast by the Celt is inestimable. His lips touched the Blarney Stone and now they speed through the microphone—the zest of honest laughter, nimble wit, childish fancies, flawless idealism and the utmost heights of religious fervor.

Each thread in the tapestry of radio reflects the racial blood weaving of the ages. Time, sitting before his loom, carries through all the pattern the clover-green thread of the green little isle. Of all the peoples in the world, the Irish represent more truly the whole gamut of human emotion, and whether it be "fighting at the drop of the hat," making you smile or bringing tears to your eyes, without St. Patrick's good folk radio would be static.

THEY'RE FOES OF GLOOM

Driving the snakes out of Ireland centuries ago served no better purpose than the part the Celt plays in driving gloom from the house of radio.

So the "Seventeenth of Ireland" finds music and song in its honor through radioland.

May the spirit of St. Patrick become immortalized by radio as radio is immortalized by the spirit of this joyous saint.

Erin go bragh!

KHJ, at 1 p.m., will bring the United States Navy Band in a concert that should be worth dialing. At 4:30 p.m., Voices of Filmland, but KHJ will not reveal the movie celebrities. Three popular talking-picture stars will sing as many songs, direct from the studios. They will be chosen from among the following names: Bessie Love, Cliff Edwards, Charles King, Dorothy Sebastian, Joan Crawford, Ramon Novarro, Lawrence Grey and Kay Johnson. Neither the stars nor the titles of the songs will be announced. You are invited to write your guesses to KHJ. At 7:30 p.m. Merle Johnson will conduct his concert orchestra in Chaminade's "La Lisonjera," and other features. Fred Vettel, tenor, and Veronica Wiggins, soprano, will be guest artists. At 8 p.m., the Jamboree from KFRC will bring a touch of old Ireland.

CONCERT PROGRAM

KFI, at 5 p.m., will feature the Story Man with his aerial puppet show, in which Clickety-Clack will be heard. At 6:30 p.m., a program of light concert music, including two numbers from Victor Herbert's last composition, will be heard. One of Franz Von Suppe's most popular overtures, "The Beautiful Galathea," wil open the concert. At 7 p.m., "The Lilt of Irish Laughter" ripples through the St. Patrick's Day program given by the Rochester Civic Orchestra. From 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., four chain programs offer a variety of entertainment well worth dialing.

KECA, at 6:30 p.m., will feature the Virginia Ballroom Orchestra with the Two Shades of Blue, Mart and Lil, in an hour of real blues and real music. At 7:30 p.m., Felipe Delgado, Spanish baritone, will hold your dial.

KNX, at 2:30 p.m., will present a St. Patrick's Day program given by none other than the Ancient Order of Hibernians, than which none other should know Ireland and the Irish better. This should be the highlight of St. Patrick's Day.

Peak May Lose Spanish Name

San Gabriel Peak of the San Bernardino Mountains probably will be changed to the name of Charlton Peak in honor of the late R. H. Charlton, for twenty years supervisor of Angeles National Forest.

The suggestion was made by Supervisor Mendenhall, now in charge of the forest. Recommendations that the old Spanish name of the landmark be changed in honor of Mr. Charlton's service for the government were made to the United States Geographic Board at Washington, D. C., by S. B. Show, district forester for California. Mr. Charlton died on February 13, last.

Roads Report Car Due Today

On a double transcontinental drive that will cover 9802 miles of almost continuous duty at the wheel of his roadster, Cecil Hawley, director of the Texaco National Roads Report, will arrive in Los Angeles this evening from San Francisco for a brief half-hour welcome at Wilshire Boulevard and New Hampshire avenue. His arrival is set at 6:10 o'clock, bringing the distance covered from New York up to 5420 miles in seven days, eighteen hours and ten minutes.

Hawley, who is the son of Congressman Hawley of Oregon, departed from New York the 10th inst. at midnight. He has been driving with only short stops for replenishment of fuel and oil with the exception of two-hour rests each 300 miles, when a local relief driver takes the wheel.

The entire trip is made in strictest accordance with the speed and traffic laws of the various States and cities.

ORATORY EVENT SURVEY MADE

All of Southern California's High Schools Canvassed

Greater Number of Entries for Contest in Prospect

Better Understanding of Aim of Sponsors Reported

A survey of the high schools of Southern California has just been completed by a representative of The Times for the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution. Every high school, from the northern limits of Fresno county south to the Mexican line and from mountains to coast, has had a personal visitation, with the view of lining up the schools, organizing districts and giving advice and other assistance to teachers and prospective contestants.

Better understanding of the aim of the contest and the motives of its sponsors has been brought about by the survey. More schools are participating than heretofore and thousands of students are preparing orations for the local elimination contests. These must be held some time before April 11, next, date of the district contests.

WORK INVOLVED

Preparation of an oration on the Constitution necessitates deep and serious research and study; study of not only its text, but its background; a study of the times and conditions which brought it into being and of the men who constituted the convention and framed and indited and finally adopted the instrument for submission to the various States.

The chief difficulty confronting many of the smaller high schools, and especially those of the rural districts where there are no considerable libraries, is the lack of reference books.

The director of the contest, Prof. Nichols, early in the campaign, sent out a bulletin giving a list of upwards of thirty standard works helpful to students preparing to contest. Still another list was sent to the schools, comprising fourteen best books on the Constitution, compiled by a committee of the American Bar Association.

BAR GROUP INTERESTED

The American Bar Association has taken a keen interest in the contest from its inception. At its annual meeting in 1926 the association appointed a special committee to select a list of books which would be most helpful to contestants. This committee comprised F. Dumont Smith, chairman of the Americanization committee of the American Bar Association; Maj. Edgar B. Tolman, editor of the American Bar Association Journal, and Ernst Freund, professor of law at the University of Chicago.

Unfortunately only a few school libraries are so comprehensive as to contain many or even a few of the suggested books. The outlying schools have to find them wherever they can. They send to their county or nearest town libraries, and often find only a single copy available. When there are scores of schools and hundreds of student applicants the difficulty that exists may be readily understood. Even the shelves of the State Library are depleted by these young seekers after knowledge.

SOME SCHOOLS FORTUNATE

But in some of the schools, especially those of the larger cities where they maintain libraries, the case is quite different. These schools, during the seven years the contest has been under way have been building up collections of books on the Constitution. The enrichment of school and public libraries by such works as referred to has been a notable and direct result of the widespread and eager interest in these annual high-school contests.

The Los Angeles City Library has been very helpful. Aid to prospective entrants is offered by Librarian Perry through the circulating and reference collections in the sociology and history departments of the library. All titles in the list published by Prof. Alan Nichols may be found there.

TITLES SUGGESTED

The sociology department of the city library suggests the following additional titles for helpful reading:

"The Constitution Today," R. L. Ashley.

"The Constitution Explained, Harry Atwood.

"The Constitution of the United States," W. B. Giteau.

"Usages of the American Constitution," H. W. Horwill.

"The Founders of the Constitution," David Hutchison.

"The Citizen and the Constitution," T. D. O'Brien.

"Constitutional Problems Under Lincoln," J. G. Randall.

"Origin and Growth of the American Constitution," H. Taylor.

"The Making of the Constitution," Charles Warren.

"Congressional Government," Woodrow Wilson.

The office of the Oratorical Contest in the Times Building, Prof. Alan Nichols, director, has two reference works which will be found very helpful to students preparing for the contest and these books may be had gratis by applying for them in person or by mail. One is the "Citadel of Freedom" and the other is "Oratory." Both were written by Randolph Leigh, national director of the National and International Contest especially for prospective contestants.

AIR GIANT LIFTS VEIL TO SECRET

Maddux Has Eyes on Great Ford Transport

Craft to Be Four-Motored and Carry Forty

Sleeping Accommodations on New Ship Planned

The mystery giant air transport ship being built by Henry Ford interests in Dearborn, Mich., is a four-motored, all-metal monoplane capable of carrying forty passengers in daytime with sleeping accommodations for half that number, and it may be placed in operation over T.A.T.-Maddux Airlines next summer, it was learned here last night with the departure for Dearborn of William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Company.

J. L. Maddux, president of the transcontinental line, said that the new transport will be completed in May and will be subjected to exhaustive tests before it is offered for passenger service. He declared he is not in a position now to say whether the new-type ship will be used on his line, but indicated that if the tests come up to expectations it is probable Los Angeles passengers will be offered transportation on the super-ship.

EAGLE'S PREDICTIONS

The new monoplane is a development of the prediction made by Col. Lindbergh, chairman of the technical committee of T.A.T.-Maddux, that transports will offer sleeping berths to passengers on the coast-to-coast trip.

Maddux also declared that within the next three years 100-passenger planes will operate from Los Angeles to New York nonstop, refueling in the air, serving hot meals and offering sleeping berths.

He pointed out that models of such a ship already have been tested, and although he was reticent in making known details indicated that several manufacturers are getting under way with new air leviathans.

MAYO GOES EAST

Mayo left last night by train and plans to stop off at Tulsa, Okla., en route to Dearborn. He expects to return here within a short time. He came here more than a month ago to inspect the new Long Beach Ford assembly plant and to confer with Maddux on the new Ford air development.

Maddux said that the new four-motor planes will not replace production of the present trimotored transports, operating on the transcontinental route. He indicated that the three-motored ships would be used on short trips as feeder planes to main line.

Aviatrix Takes Over Airport of Young McAdoo

William Gibbs McAdoo, Jr., has gone out of the aviation business and released his interests in the Culver City Airport to a woman flyer, Margaret Perry, wealthy Beverly Hills sportswoman.

MARGARET PERRY

Miss Perry plans to operate the Culver City field, base of the Reinhart-Mendell endurance flight. The airport is unoccupied at present, but the new proprietor plans to get the runways and hangars in shape within a few weeks.

McAdoo said he does not know Miss Perry's plans, but it is understood that the aviatrix is interested in a national aviation country-club plan and may turn the port into a society flying center.

McAdoo's father, former Secretary of the Treasury and son-in-law of the late President Wilson, plans a transcontinental airline over the southern route and it was indicated that the field in which his son was interested was to have been the western terminus of the line.

Clubwoman Will be Buried Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Miriam B. Burgess, South Pasadena club woman and originator of the live Christmas-tree movement in South Pasadena, will be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mrs. Burgess was 65 years of age. She came to Southern California with her husband nine years ago from Lansing, Mich., and was active in affairs of the South Pasadena Women's Club. She leaves her husband, Charles H. Burgess.

JOHANNA GADSKI WINS ACCLAIM

Brilliant Heights Reached in Brunnhilde Role

"Gotterdammerung" Closes Wagner "Ring"

Successful Engagement of Company Climaxed

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Johanna Gadski was opulently the star of the close of the German Grand Opera Company season yesterday afternoon at Shrine Auditorium. She sang the role of Brunnhilde in "Gotterdammerung," and gave proof of her superb art in interpretation, and also in the singing. She was in better voice than at any time during the engagement, and attained stirring and even thrilling heights of brilliance in the more dramatic scenes of the spectacular music drama.

"Gotterdammerung" provided a most auspicious climax for the series of Wagnerian performances, and evoked distinctly the desire for the rehearing of the composer's great works again next year. A card vote taken from members of the audience during the past few days indicated a preference for "The Ring of the Nibelungen," but suggestions were also received by the S. Hurck and L. E. Behymer for numerous other works in the German repertoire, including some not Wagnerian. Those appearing in this suggested list were among others, Richard Strauss's "Die Rosencavalier" and Eugen D'Albert's "Tiefland." "Tannhauser," "Lohengrin," "Die Meistersinger" and "Parsifal" were among the Wagnerian selections.

Financially, the German Opera Company engagement approximately broke even, according to Behymer. There was some diminution of attendance because of the inclement weather on one or two days, but the final performance brought out virtually a capacity audience. Popular interest was widely reflected in the demand for cheaper seats throughout the series, and the number of repetitions in attendance was noteworthy, perhaps partly on account of "The Ring."

"Gotterdammerung" was presented with a high efficiency by a company that was unusually competent throughout, and because the work itself is of a more operatic character it aroused marked enthusiasm. The applause was prolonged following the opening act, which lasted a full hour and a half, and there was again an ovation with cheers and bravos following the second.

This tribute was directed to Mme. Gadski, when she came before the curtain alone. Hers was indeed no uncertain triumph in this instance, as she did by far one of the most authoritative performances during the engagement.

The Brunnhilde of "Gotterdammerung" is an essentially human opportunity in contrast to the Brunnhilde of "Valkyrie" and "Siegfried." Motives of love, jealousy and greed actuate the character, which is extremely exacting of the actress.

To crown all comes that supreme vocal tour de force "The Immolation." A restless horse, (Brunnhilde's) somewhat interfered with the singing of "The Immolation," but Gadski managed to survive the disturbance admirably. She was perhaps the more dazzling, however, in the earlier scenes, which were the high point of the entire series of productions. The spectacular effect was most notable during the "Siegfried" funeral march and the blazing heavens of the Dusk of the Gods.

Rudolph Ritter, somewhat heroic of stature, assumed the Siegfried accoutrements previously (in "Siegfried") belonging to Johannes Sembach. Less finished in his work than the other, he nevertheless filled the requirements rather ably. Vocally he lacked at times in impressiveness.

The Hagen of B. Challis, substituting for Carl Braun, was highly satisfying dramatically. His tones came through vigorously in the more dramatic moments of this stern, somber character. Gothold Ditter as Gunther, Juliette Lippe as Gutrune, and Sonia Sharnova as Waltraute all compensated the listener, as did very especially the three Rhinemaidens sung by Edna Sahm, Merran Reader and Sheila Fryer. Ernest Knoch performed the most difficult duty yet in the direction of the large orchestra and stage ensemble, and accomplished this most worthily.

ORCHESTRAL ART SHOWN IN 'TRISTAN'

"Tristan and Isolde," by many considered Wagner's greatest work musically, was performed Saturday evening by the German Grand Opera Company, with the cast headed by Juliette Lippe and Karl Jorn. The former was a dominating figure on the stage, and gave the role of the great romantic heroine a powerful significance by her portrayal in the opening scene.

The second act was also expressively presented by the two leading singers, and throughout the work Conductor Ernst Mehlich's interpretation was a feature. Indeed, he principally should be accorded the honors for the finer elements in this production.

The accompaniment was fiery and colorful on the one hand, and exquisitely poetical on the other. The climax of the first act was brilliant, and brought a great burst of enthusiasm.

Jorn's opportunities in the third act were considerably mangled, for the cuts were more severe even than those ordinarily made in presentations in this country. Such episodes as the "Love Curse" were reduced to a fragment, or eliminated entirely, and the drama moved almost too swiftly to be logical to the end.

Jorn lent dignity and force to the earlier scenes of the music drama, but was disappointing in the final act, though it must be said he had scant chance to appear otherwise, what with a nightgownish garb in which he was clad, and the reduction of his role to a minimum. In singing he did not reach as nigh a point as earlier in the week in "The Flying Dutchman." However, what he added to the brilliancy of the first act and the entrance scene of the second were all to his credit.

Miss Lippe, it might be mentioned, did not rise to expectations in the "Love-Death," but compensated for this lack with her stunning dramatic impersonation of the role as a whole. The Kurwenal of Richard Gross, the King Marke of Laurenz Pierot were creditable, and the Brangaene of Sonia Sharnova was exceedingly fine. Josef S. Lengyel sang the off-stage notes allotted to the sailor on Tristan's ship. Orchestrally, the production was one of the best, and the general stage effect commendable.

There is no musical creation to equal "Tristan and Isolde" for those who love this work, and to hear it is always a rare enthrallment.

Cohen and Kelly Reach Scotland

Tag Day

In the land of the heather catches Charlie Murray and George Sidney, who enact leading roles in "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" at the Million Dollar Theater.

STAR APPEARS TONIGHT

Before what is promised to be one of the most fashionable audiences ever assembled in the Belasco Theater, Lenore Ulric, exotic David Belasco star, will tonight make her first appearance in Los Angeles in several years and be seen in W. Somerset Maugham's drama of the Orient, "East of Suez."

Miss Ulric will enact a role of a sinuous half-caste charmer who sacrifices everything to win the man with whom she is infatuated.

In Miss Ulric's support will be seen Leyland Hodgson and Reginald Sharland, two young English actors of distinction; Elly Malyon, John Ivancovich, Kenneth Treseder, Virginia Bradford and John De Weese. The play is in five episodes, most of which are laid in the interior or courtyard of an abandoned Chinese temple in Peking.

Miss Ulric will give the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees during her limited engagement at the Belasco.

"CHASING RAINBOWS" SCHEDULED

Loew's State Announces New Superproduction as Next Attraction

Described as one of the most absorbing love stories to reach the screen, "Chasing Rainbows," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's successor to "The Broadway Melody," is announced as one of the year's superattractions for Loew's State, starting Thursday.

The romance of Bessie Love and Charles King which ran through "The Broadway Melody" is continued in this new production, which, it is said, even outclasses its predecessor.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran reach the heights of their respective comedy careers, it is said, in their individual roles. Jack Benny also carries a humorous role. Others in the cast are Nita Martan, Eddie Phillips, George K. Arthur, Gwen Lee and Youcca Troubetzkoy. Charles Reisner, director of "Broadway Melody," also directed the new film.

Screen Players Will Appear at Fox Criterion

Seven members of the cast of "Men Without Women" will make personal appearances at the Criterion Theater tonight.

Those who will appear on the stage are Kenneth McKenna, Frank Albertson, Walter McGrail, Warren Hymer, Farrell MacDonald, Ben Hendricks, Jr., and Harry Mount. The cast will be the guests of the Pacific Coast Submarine Club.

"Men Without Women" enters the second week of its engagement today.

Women Promised Actor's Picture

Autographed photographs of Dennis King will be given to all women attending this afternoon's performance of "The Vagabond King" at the Paramount Theater.

King is said to be scoring a hit with his singing and acting in this all-color musical operetta, which features the compositions of Rudolf Friml. "The Vagabond King" was directed by Ludwig Berger, and tonight members of the local German colony will attend the performance of this musical romance to honor their fellow-countryman.

DIRECTOR PREPARES

One of the busiest spots on the First National lot is Mervyn LeRoy's office. The recent announcement that he was starting to select his cast for his next directorial effort, "Top Speed," has caused an avalanche of Hollywood's ambitious players in quest of that chance that may mean stardom.

JOE BROWN COSTARS IN NEW FILM

Winnie Lightner to Share Honors in Warner Picture, "Hold Everything"

"Hold Everything" is the title of the all-color Vitaphone musical production, starring Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner, which will have its world premiere at Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater Thursday night.

"Hold Everything" is said to be filled with lilting songs and beautiful settings. It also presents in one of its leading roles Georges Carpentier, fighting for the heavyweight championship. The film tells the story of a boxer whose path toward the championship is beset with crooked schemes, but who finally punches his way to glory and wins the girl.

Joe E. Brown enacts the leading role and has as his foil the boisterous Winnie Lightner, noted comedienne of vaudeville and musical comedy. The quartet of leading players includes Sally O'Neil. Others are Edmund Breese and Dorothy Revier. Roy Del Ruth directed.

Spanish Film Points Way to Future Efforts

BY SALVADOR BAGUEZ

The film, "Charros, Gauchos y Manolas," a musical revue and the first picture to be produced by the recently organized Hollywood Spanish Pictures Company, which is headed by Senor Rodolfo Montes, was previewed at the Million Dollar Theater last Saturday. It is divided in three parts, each supposed to be a faithful interpretation of the regional types of the countries represented.

While the picture itself isn't one to cause a revolution in Spanish talkies, it will certainly serve as an important experiment regarding the recording qualities of the many different Spanish dialects. If this film, in which the correct Spanish dialects are used, is any indication of the suitability of reproduction of such dialects, then each one will record successfully.

The types as interpreted by the various members of the cast are very acceptable, except those of the lower classes which have all been exaggerated, notably those of Mexico and the Argentine. Costuming is exceptionally authentic.

The musical end of the revue is devoted entirely to typical songs of the countries, with the accompaniment of a stringed orchestra. Members of the cast who merit praise are Carmen Castillo, Delia Magana and Samuel Pedraza in the Mexican part; Carmen Granada, Paul Ellis and Vicente Padula in the Argentine, and Maria Alba, Marina Ortiz, Luis Elorriaga and Jose Pena in the Spanish.

A two-reel all-talking Spanish comedy produced by the same organization was also shown, and judged by the hearty reception it received proved that comedies in Spanish will be successful. Romualdo Tirado, noted Spanish comedian, takes the leading part and is assisted by Don Alvarado, Carmen Guerrero, Matilda Linan, Daniel F. Rae and Ramon Munoz.

FILM TO CLOSE RUN

"New York Nights," with Norma Talmadge as the star, ends its run tonight at the Ritz Theater. This tale of Tin Pan Alley introduces to the talking screen this noted actress. Tomorrow "Sunny Side Up" will be presented. This musical comedy stars Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell.

HELENA HAS DOMESTIC TROUBLES

May Robson Uses Drastic Methods in Farce-Comedy at Playhouse

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Helena's boys, the young rascals, are treated to the spectacle of considerable horseplay in the comedy named after them at the Hollywood Playhouse. The spectacle is provided by Helena, nee May Robson; and patrons of the theater, by permission of Producer Henry Duffy, are permitted to look in on it also. How amused they will be, is largely a matter, if I may say so, of how easily they will be amused Helena's boys—both of them—are more or less flabbergasted.

Never having been vouchsafed the privilege of witnessing a performance on the stage by Miss Robson before, I find myself entertaining the suspicion, willy-nilly, that this is exactly the kind she has been giving before delighted audiences for many seasons. Miss Robson, if we are to believe her often-reiterated statement in both play and curtain speech, is an apostle of eternal youth. And certainly her forty-five years of devotion to the cause of the drama have neither dulled her perception nor impaired the spryness of her limbs. She is the livest thing in "Helena's Boys."

The story of the play, another variant on the sauce-for-the-goose theme, tells how Mrs. Tilden (Helena) teaches her "new-thought" offspring a lesson. The twain—Henry, who writes verse, and "Beansy," who gives pompous lectures, "the bird"—have absorbed the grandiloquent philosophy of one Morsely Girard, editor of the Advance and one who looks at life "in the large." They come home, the sons do, bringing Girard with them, just at a time when Helena is trembling before the advent of a new husband. Helena, you see, wants to break the glad news to her boys; but she doesn't know exactly how to do it.

It takes her three acts to make up her mind; when at last she speaks, it is to announce to the horrified assembled company that she and Mr. Truesdell are about to embrace one another and "free love" simultaneously. And as she expects, this intelligence provides both the boys and Girard with a new thought they hadn't counted on.

This is the "lesson." It is applied by all the high-pressure methods known to the playwright, one Ida Ehrlich. Helena goes in for abbreviated skirts, black pajamas and highballs. Indeed, the dominant impression one carries away is that she creates as, making a valiant attempt to negotiate the stairs to her room after what appears to be three whisky-straights, she gives it up as a bad job and peers out through the cage-like balustrade long enough for everybody to discern that she is quite—and only the one word fits the case—cock-eyed.

While I hold no brief necessarily for the "new-thinkers," it does occur to me that they are somewhat overdone by James Bush and Geoffrey Wardwell. This is perhaps, a matter of direction as much as anything. William Kirby, Ben Taggart, Myra Hubert, Tove Linden and Lillian Harmer are among the others.

Fox Planning Installation of Grandeur

As a result of the enthusiastic reception given "Happy Days" in Grandeur film, it is planned to install Grandeur film into Fox de luxe theaters over the country as soon as possible.

The first installation will be made in the Fox Brooklyn, and the new Fox theaters in Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit, Atlanta and St. Louis. In order to protect the Carthay Circle Theater with a 2000-mile "geographical clearance," the Fox Theater in St. Louis will be the nearest house to offer "Happy Days" in Grandeur.

Brenda Forbes in 'Rope's End'

Although there is no love interest, there is a girl in the study of crime psychology, "Rope's End," which is showing at the Vine Street Theater.

Noel Madison, star of "Rope's End," William Smith, producer, and Mr. Collins, stage director, chose Miss Brenda Forbes as the typical well-bred English girl for the cast of the British drama, after careful consideration. Miss Forbes plays Leila Arden with a delicate hint of comedy.

She has been over from England about six months, and is a daughter of Mary Forbes, and a sister of Ralph Forbes.

Palace Books 'Glory' Sequel

With the two friendly enemies resuming their respective roles as Flagg and Quirt, Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe in "The Cock-Eyed World" has been announced as the next attraction for the Fox Palace Theater.

The boisterous comedy will replace "New York Nights," Thursday. Lily Damita, Lelia Karnelly and Jean Bary have prominent roles.

ROOSEVELT BOOKS AARONSON AND BAND

Announcement has been made by Frank Cummings, Jr., manager of the Roosevelt Hotel, that Irving Aaronson and his nationally known Commanders will succeed George Olsen and orchestra in the Blossom Room of the film capital hostelry, staring on the 26th inst. Featured with the band will be Phil Saxe and Red Stanley. Cummings, Jr., is making lavish preparations for a gala premiere night.

GIRL'S ATTACK STORY SIFTED

Young Victim Tells of Being Given Drugged Liquor

Asserts She and Companions Lured to House

Crime Laid to Boys' Gang; Two Under Inquiry

A story told by a 16-year-old girl of having been lured to a house on Washington Boulevard near Venice, given drugged liquor and then attacked by several youths early yesterday, is under investigation by police and detectives of the crime prevention bureau.

The asserted attack was reported by the victim's mother yesterday after the girl had been taken home and left, half-conscious, on the front lawn. Her clothing was torn and examination by a physician is said to have disclosed that she had been assaulted.

The victim, with several other girls and youthful male companions, had gone to the Washington-Boulevard address on the pretext of one of the youths that he had relatives living there. Once inside the house, the girl said, liquor was served and she was compelled to drink. She vaguely recalled a struggle with her asserted attackers and declared she remembered nothing more until she regained consciousness at her own home. The liquor was supplied, she said, by a youth known to her only as "Curly."

Two youths arrested by Officers Ferguson and Solovan of Georgia division early yesterday are being held for questioning. They gave their names as Alfred Wotkyns, Jr., 17, of San Gabriel, and Albert R. Sewell, 18, of Alhambra. Liquor was found in the car, the officers said, and both had been drinking. They were arrested at Washington and Figueroa streets and are charged with Wright Act possession. Sewell's efforts to destroy a bottle of liquor found in his pocket were frustrated.

ACTOR WILL UNDERGO OPERATION ON TONSILS

Having recovered from the illness with which he was stricken recently while at work at Universal studios, Glenn Tryon, film actor, will go to the Hollywood Hospital within a few days for an operation on his tonsils.

VICE SQUAD RAIDS SHOW

More Than Hundred Men and Dozen Girls Arrested After Asserledly Improper Performance

More than 100 men, spectators at an assertedly improper show, and a dozen women who appeared in the performance, were arrested early yesterday by Sergt. Crane and officers of the West Los Angeles vice squad in a hall at 11632 San Vicente Boulevard. The raid came at the close of the show.

All were booked on a morals charge at Central Station and the women were charged with presenting indecent dances. Among the number were six male performers. All were indignant at their arrest, asserting that the same performance has been presented in many vaudeville houses without protest.

The twelve girls under arrest gave their names as Misses Cora Beeson, 27, actress, 421 South Union avenue; Gertie Jacobs, 23, actress; Bubbles La Vail, 18, artist, 6355 Hollywood Boulevard; Ruth McIntosh, 30, 5119 Avalon Boulevard; Cynthia Hendricks, 21, 5425½ Hollywood Boulevard; Elsie Yerkes, 24, 249 South Harvard Boulevard; Helen Drennan, 24, 119 North Olive street; Ruth Hayes, 29, 688 Shatto Place; Jacqueline Shannon, 22, 3050 Field avenue; Peggy Starr, 24, 1322½ Macey street; Bertie O'Marr, 26, 7555 East Fifty-first street, and Jean Rae, 24, Eighth and Coronado streets, all dancers.

The show, which was booked by Johnny Beck of 408 West Eighth street, theatrical booking agent, is said to have been contracted for by an entertainment committee with no specific understanding as to the type of diversion to be provided.

Bail was fixed on the women at $500 each. This later was reduced to half that sum, while the original bond demanded for the release of the arrested men, $150, was reduced to $25.

Central Police Station was fairly besieged all day yesterday by fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers and other relatives and friends of the prisoners eager to post bond for their release. Virtually all of them had regained their liberty by noon.

Police officials were reluctant to discuss the raid, declaring they had not witnessed the performance and knew nothing of it. Attempts to reach the raiding officers for their version also were without avail. The arrested persons will be arraigned at 10 a.m. in Division Eight of Municipal Court.

COAST BAKERIES AMALGAMATED

companies. Mr. Costello will head the new amalgamation.

"It is purely an amalgamation to better solidify and protect our interests, while at the same time enabling us to better serve the public," he said.

"Pay rolls and distribution of money in this territory will proceed the same as when each plant was operated independently," Costello pointed out, "in addition to which the amalgamation will enable us to bring in vast sums of new capital from eastern investors for the expansion of the bakery business here on the Coast."

Explaining how the new organization will attract eastern investors, Costello said:

"When each unit is operated entirely independent of all others, eastern investors are not interested in putting their investment funds into bakery development out here. But when they can be assured of a unity of interest, co-operation between units, centralized general management and consequent elimination of waste, investment in the bakery business out here becomes attractive. The bringing in of these eastern investments will contribute materially to the prosperity of this territory."

Alpheus Smith Funeral Today

Funeral services for Alpheus Webster Smith, veteran rubber company official, will be conducted at 11:30 a.m. today at the Graham & Isbell chapel, 915 West Washington street. The body will be cremated.

Mr. Smith, who was 71 years of age, died Friday at his home, 1275 Westchester Place, after an illness of four years. For many years he was western representative of the Goodyear rubber-glove branch of the United States Rubber Company, with headquarters in Chicago. In 1922 he retired and came to Los Angeles. He was born in North Adams, Mass.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Emily May Smith, Mr. Smith leaves one son, Webster Smith of Chicago.

LAND SHOW HAS MAP OF AQUEDUCT

Various Routes Depicted on Giant Relief Chart; Riverside Honored Today

In order to afford those who visit the land show an opportunity to get a graphic idea of what the Colorado River aqueduct is like, the Metropolitan Water District has placed its giant relief map as an exhibit at the show.

The map shows the various aqueduct routes being studied by the engineers before making a final selection.

The map has been the subject of considerable study on the part of Chairman Whitsett of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Water District, Chief Engineer Weymouth, and Mayor Porter. It is drawn exactly to scale from government maps and field surveys made by the water department and district crews. It affords an excellent opportunity for a grasp of the aqueduct construction problems because of its accuracy.

Survey crews are expected to complete their detailed studies of the four possible aqueduct routes shortly, it was announced.

Riverside county day will feature the program of the Land Show today and will present a varied entertainment. The Riverside exhibit has been voted by many visitors as one of the most beautiful of the sixty displays.

Two speaking programs are scheduled, one at 2:30 o'clock and the second at 8:30 o'clock. O. K. Kelsey, agricultural commissioner for the county, is in charge of the program.

Registration to Date in County Totals 611,514

Registration of county voters totals 611,514 to date, according to figures compiled by Registrar Kerr. Of the total, 340,725 represent Los Angeles city registrations and 270,789 registrations in county territory outside the city.

Registrar Kerr also announced the following scheduled elections:

April 22, County Sanitation District No. 3, embracing Alamitos, Bixby, Dominguez precinct No. 3, and the cities of Long Beach and Signal Hill, registration closing next Saturday.

May 13, Long Beach primary, registration closing April 12.

June 3, Long Beach and Alhambra general, registration closing May 3.

Actor to Guide Danish Athletes

When Denmark's delegation of athletes arrives for the Olympic Games here in 1932 they will be placed in charge of Jean Hersholt, film character actor, who has been named chairman of the Danish commission by the King of Denmark. Hersholt received official confirmation of his appointment yesterday.

JEAN HERSHOLT

Hersholt was well known as a hockey player in Denmark and took an active part in winter sports there. He is interested in establishing a program of winter sports as an annual event in the Southland.

Denmark will send one of the largest delegations it has ever had at an Olympic meet to the games here, according to Hersholt.

GAS WASTAGE MOVE NEARS

Court Order May be Issued Today to Curb Flow of Certain Wells at Santa Fe Springs

A court order in connection with certain oil wells in the Santa Fe Springs field, asserted to be wasting an unreasonable amount of natural gas in the production of petroleum, may be entered today by Superior Judge Hazlett presiding at the injunction proceedings brought by the State against operators to stop the waste.

If the order is entered it will be a temporary emergency one to be in effect pending the final outcome of the temporary restraining order asked by Attorney James S. Bennett, counsel for Fred G. Stevenot, director of natural resources for the State in whose name the court action was begun.

When the hearing is resumed at 10 a.m. today more testimony will be taken relative to a list of twenty wells introduced by Attorney Bennett, Friday. The wells, according to the State, are the worst offenders in the field. All told there are some 500 oil wells in the Santa Fe Springs field.

Following the introduction of the list of wastrel wells, the State immediately began calling engineers and experts to the witness stand to corroborate figures.

Attorney Bennett announced last night that he thinks he may be able to finish with the expert testimony by noon today.

If the proof has been sufficient concerning the wells, some of them with a present gas-oil ratio of 20,000 cubic feet of natural gas with every barrel of oil produced, Judge Hazlett has indicated that an emergency order will follow.

The present hearing is on an order to show cause, directed against the operators in the field, to show why they should not be restrained from wasting an unreasonable amount of natural gas in the production of petroleum. If a temporary injunction is granted the case then will go to trial on its merits with the State seeking to obtain a permanent injunction under the provisions of the new Gas and Oil Conservation Act passed by the last Legislature.

SURE AN' IT'S HAIL TO ST. PATRICK

Begorra the Whole City Will Honor Old Ireland's Patron Today an' There'll be Many a Foin Banquet an Dance Tonight, Bedad

Celebration of St. Patrick's Day in Los Angeles today will not be confined to any particular religious sect or organization. The day will be the occasion for many banquets, receptions and dances throughout the city. High mass will be said at St. Vibiana's Church by Bishop Cantwell and services in other Roman Catholic churches will be held.

At the Knights of Columbus Hall there will be special meetings and a reception at night in which Irish playlets and pageants will be featured. Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will join in the reception.

The birthday of Ireland's patron saint also will be celebrated by the Salvation Army. It is the golden jubilee of the organization and special services will be held at the Citadel, 125 East Fourth street. One of the features of the night session will be an Irish pageant, participated in by members of the corps who are of Irish descent.

During the afternoon session, various problems of the organization will be discussed. The meeting will be presided over by Brig.-Gen. James C. Bell, commander of the Los Angeles and the South Coast division. At this meeting Capt. Edwin Taylor, new leader of the broadcasting silver band, will make his first public appearance.

Another organization that will celebrate the day is the Electric Club, which will hold a banquet and meeting at noon at the Biltmore. The musical program will be provided by Maj. Mathison's Irish pipers and Lewis Meehan, Irish tenor. Attorney Coyne will be the speaker of the day and Jerry Monahan will preside.

At the various ballrooms throughout the city special dances, pageants and costume balls will be held.

Office Opened by Advertising Company Here

The J. NEW ZONING PLANS TO BE CONSIDERED

Hearings on Projects Will Take Place Wednesday and Thursday Afternoons

The Board of City Planning Commissioners has set for hearing the tentative zone map for the Hamilton and the White Point Additions in the harbor district at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in Room 360, City Hall.

In the same room at 2:30 p.m. Thursday Commissioner Thomas will conduct a hearing in the matter of the revised plan for zoning Pacific Palisades. This plan is for use under the proposed new zoning ordinance and employs the intermediate residential and neighborhood business zones. Most of the changes are from the present B zone to the proposed new R-2 and R-3 zones, which will permit multiple family dwellings with a height limit restricted to three stories.

Tax Case Plea to be Entered

Entry of plea will be made today by Charles G. Wiggins, a dentist, accused in a Federal indictment of evading the payment of his income tax for 1925, 1926 and 1927.

The government charges that he owes $3777.54 additional income tax.

Dr. Wiggins will appear in United States District Court.

LAW'S REASON TOLD TO YOUTH

Superior Court Judge Talks on Modern Ways

Appeals to Sportsmanship of Young Hearers

Urges Rules of Game All Must Play, He Says

"You cannot impress modern youth with the necessity of obedience to the law by attributing to it which is merely a human invention the sanctity of holy writ. You want a better reason," declared Superior Judge Yankwich in addressing yesterday before the open forum of the Community Church of Hollywood on the subject, "Justice Through Law."

"You tell them that law is not something imposed by some authority which he must obey. Tell them that law arises out of the needs of a community of which they are part and expresses merely the will of the community to give protection to certain rights and obligations arising from various social relationships which existed long before formal law came into being.

ALL IN GAME

"Appeal to their spirit of sportsmanship. Tell them that the same spirit which requires the player in a game to subordinate his own desires and do things that may be irksome to him that the team may win is the spirit which requires the observance of social rules, even though they imply personal inconvenience."

In that portion of his address directed to the problem of law and justice Judge Yankwich said:

"The problem of law and justice is manifold. There is no legislative panacea to it. This calls for intelligence in legislation. The complaints we hear about too many laws should be turned into complaints against too many ill-advised

SIMPLICITY PAST

"Again, much as we may yearn for the simplicity of the past, we live in a complex world and the demands for social control of various activities in a complex world call for many laws. The judicial side of the problem calls for judges having broad conceptions; judges who conceive law as a growth and the object of legal procedure as to achieve justice. Too many consider the function of a judge as an umpire in a game of skill between two players and award the prize to the most skillful. Finally, we need an earnest desire on the part of the whole community to achieve justice through law.

"After all, law reaches only a few. The majority do not require the spur of the penalties of the law to fulfill their individual or social obligations."

"HEALTH" FOODS ATTACKED

Dr. Pomeroy to Curb Illegal Labeling of Products Without Definitely Curative Properties

Warning the public to beware of so-called "health" foods for which the manufacturers claim curative or health-giving properties, Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer, announced that the health department will this week inaugurate an intensive campaign to curb the illegal labeling of food products.

The move, according to the health official, is in accordance with a recent ruling of the food-and-drug administration of the United States Department of Agriculture holding that it is unlawful to label or brand any food product with the words health or healthful unless the product acts in a definite health-giving or curative capacity. The ruling is expected to result in a large number of manufacturers being compelled to change their labels.

In many instances the label claims on certain food products are such that the consumer is led to believe that the ordinary diet is deficient in such vital substances as vitamins and minerals and that the product is necessary for the conservation of life and health, Dr. Pomeroy stated.

"The effort to give the impression that everyone needs a product added to the every-day diet to avoid nutritional disaster, is a misrepresentation which the authorities enforcing the food laws aim to combat," Dr. Pomeroy said. "Such products are not only a waiste of money if purchased for their curative properties, but are responsible for a more serious loss because their use is relied upon as a substitute for appropriate corrective measures. Manufacturers are warned to have their labels conform to the facts of medical science and actual laboratory analysis."

Pool Games End at Playgrounds

Discontinuance of the operation of pool and billiard tables at Los Angeles playgrounds, recommended by Supt. Hoyt, has been approved by the Playground and Recreation Commission, on the ground that it is an expensive activity to maintain and tables require frequent repairs and most careful supervision.

This service already has been discontinued at Slauson, Recreation and Arroyo Seco playgrounds and by action of the board the tables now will be removed from Echo playground.

It was decided to retain only the tables in use at the Men's Club, 221½ South Main street.

SUPPORT WON BY MRS. WARE

Court Orders $25 Monthly and Cash Payment

Ruling Exonerates Her of Infidelity Charge

Asserted Compromise Plot Held Groundless

Harry L. Ware, former department-store merchandise manager, must pay his wife, Mrs. Carolyn Ware, separate maintenance of $25 a month until he is able to resume employment, as ordered by Superior Judge Engs. At present Ware is incapacitated by illness.

Mrs. Ware was granted $2500, the balance due on attorney fees of $3000; $2000 in cash, one of the two family automobiles, household furniture and a spitz dog.

The ruling completely exonerates her of the charges of infidelity made against her by her husband in his cross-complaint for a divorce.

Mrs. Ware accused her husband of infidelity. Ware's cross-complaint named Theodore Von Jannings, motion-picture actor, as her associate.

PLOT CHARGED

During the course of the trial assertions were made by Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Bogart that Von Jannings had been hired by Louis Krause, a private detective, to compromise Mrs. Ware in order to obtain evidence for the husband's divorce action.

Judge Engs holds that Ware did not know of the machinations of the detective. Ware testified on the witness stand that Krause was employed by him, but he emphatically denied that he paid him any money to hire Von Jannings to become acquainted with Mrs. Ware and compromise her.

CHARGE INVESTIGATED

An investigation of the Bogarts' charges were made by the court during the trial. Neither Krause nor Von Jannings could be produced in court at the time of the investigation. Judge Engs said, however, he was satisfied that perjury had been committed. Mrs. Krause testified she did not know where her husband was.

Following the trial, Attorney Clyde Murphy, counsel for Mrs. Ware, wrote a letter to the Los Angeles county grand jury asking for an investigation of Krause's activity.

City Prosecutor Lloyd Nix has filed a complaint against Krause for operating as a detective without a license.

FLASHER REQUESTED

A request for a red flasher signal at the north end of the Highland-avenue parkway has been requested of the City Council by John M. Lee. His plea was transmitted to the Police Commission and the Traffic and Lighting Committee.

LEASEHOLD VALUES HIT

Appeal of Lumber Company Says Tax Methods Driving Industries from Harbor

Assertedly excessive valuations on leasehold interests are driving industries away from Los Angeles Harbor, it is contended by the Hammond Lumber Company in an application to the District Court of Appeal of the First Appellate District at San Francisco for a rehearing of its case against Los Angeles county over $10,594.49 paid for taxes on tidelands used and occupied by the lumber concern at the port. A copy of the application has been received by the clerk's office of the Supreme Court here.

The lumber company paid the taxes under protest, maintaining it used the property under a permit and that the assessor took as a basis the value of the fee paid for use of the premises and not the value of the limited possessory interest of the company to the land. It is also contended that the assessor did not act in good faith.

Action in the case was started on January 7, 1925. Attorney R. L. Horton, representing the Hammond company, declares that the decision in the case is far-reaching in effect and that he intends if necessary to carry his appeal to the State Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court.

"Harbor leases are being grossly overvalued for assessment purposes," the petition says. "And now that this decision has been rendered it will open the door to further excessive valuations."

The case has progressed through the Board of Equalization and Superior Judge Collier's court. The District Court in finding against the lumber company, said there was "nothing to indicate an arbitrary, discriminatory or fraudulent assessment and findings in favor of the fairness, correctness and value of the assessment have ample support."

Judgment Won in Crash Case

Mrs. Blanch Berlin was awarded a judgment of $15,000 against Dr. C. C. Violett of Whittier by a jury in the court of Superior Judge Hahn, for injuries received in an automobile accident which, she says, left her partly paralyzed, blind in one eye and deaf in one ear. The jury was out two hours, after a trial lasting four days.

Mrs. Berlin, who was represented by Attorney Nathan O. Freedman, brought her suit against Dr. and Mrs. Violett and Mrs. Florence Cross. She asked $63,000. She asserted she was riding in a car driven by Mrs. Cross when a collision occurred with the doctor's car. The accident occurred on June 23, 1929, at Whittier Boulevard and Philadelphia street in Whittier.

BAKMAN UP IN MURDER CASE TODAY

Preliminary Hearing Will be Conducted on Charge He Killed Whitson

Accused of the shotgun murder of Guy Whitson of 3715 Riverside Drive, Daniel F. Bakman, Los Banos contractor, will appear before Municipal Judge Ballard today for preliminary hearing.

Bakman, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Russell, emptied a shotgun into Whitson's stomach at a lonely spot on Dark Canyon Road, about a mile from Cahuenga Pass, after trailing his automobile for several miles and finally forcing it off the road. Russell asserts that the shooting was prompted by jealousy on account of Whitson's attentions to Bakman's wife. She was forced to accompany Bakman on the trip which ended with the shooting of Whitson, Russell said.

Attorneys for Bakman yesterday declared that they will not allow Mrs. Bakman to take the stand as a witness against her husband in the belief that without it the State will not be able to prove the premeditation required for a first-degree murder charge.

Former Banker to Appear for Sentence Today

William H. Gunder, formerly assistant manager of the Vernon branch of the Merchants' National Trust and Savings Bank, is to appear today before United States District Judge James for sentence.

Gunder pleaded guilty to a charge of misapplication of bank funds, amounting, Federal officials said, to about $80,000.

Atwater Bridge Action Desired

The Board of Playground and Recreation Commissioners has asked the City Council to authorize a request for bids for the construction of a footbridge across the Los Angeles River from the Atwater region to the Griffith Park Playground, thus ascertaining the cost of such an improvement. The Council transmitted the matter to the City Engineer.

WHAT SOME SAY

Joe Scott
Southern California has the man power and the money power to make itself felt as a dominant factor in State politics, and that "forty years is long enough time for the people of Southern California to act as hewers of wood and drawers of water in political matters."

John C. Porter
I know full well that you will place the "Banner of Integrity of Public Officials" wherever you have the opportunity.
This City, this County, and this State must recognize and supply the need of common honesty in official life. So here's wishing you success.

John G. Bullock
Sometimes some of us old-timers wonder if "work" is being given the same important place it used to occupy. It was good to hear from you, and I wish for you the best of everything always.

Col. William Eric Fowler
Your generosity is much appreciated, as is also your interest in the activities of the Republican party. With renewed thanks and all good wishes.

Captain Jack Poland
(Writing about Salling in 1919.)
CALIFORNIA is the greatest place in the world—and she may be fortunate enough some day to have a man like this for Governor.

Herbert Hoover
I want you to know how much I appreciate your confidence and good wishes which you send me.

Calvin Coolidge
I want you to know how much I appreciate your thinking of me.

Al Cude
I have known Cole Salling for more than 25 years. I like him. His word is good.

Geo. Wright
If every tax-payer in California knew what I know they would vote for Cole Salling for Governor.

Gesner Williams
This campaign is made to order for a candidate like Salling.

Dr. Ed Janss
Here's one thing about Cole Salling. He will finish every job you give him.

Florence Collins Porter
He is a gentleman.

Harry Collins
If you want a change in our State government for the better, Cole Salling will give it to you. I know him.

Hugh Evans
Cole Salling has the knowledge and executive ability to make the best Governor California ever had. He knows how to do things right.

Creely Kolts
If you are dissatisfied with the present overlapping duplication of Commissions, special assessments and taxes, elect Cole Salling Governor of California. He is the one man we can unite on and elect.

Cole Salling
The question of hanging a man by the neck until he is dead or jerking a woman's head off before she is dead is a serious problem, and should not be made a political football. Why not let the people have the opportunity to decide with their vote if they desire to abolish capital punishment in California?

Miss Katherine Spangler, talented whistler and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Spangler of 1085 Meadowbrook avenue, has arrived in Chicago, after a successful tour through the Middle West. Miss Spangler, who is called in local radio circles the Southern California co-ed whistler, plans to continue her concert work in Chicago. She is a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha and Phi Beta sororities. Many social activities having been arranged in her honor during her stay in the Windy City.

Delightful Affair

The California Country Club formed an attractive setting for the beautiful bridge luncheon given last Tuesday by Mrs. J. A. McGhee of Pittsburgh, and a member of the club. The table was decorated in pastel shades of orange, green and orchid. Unique favors were given, with Spanish bridge prizes to match. The guests included Mrs. Percy McNab, Mrs. Claude L. Bradford, Mrs. Edward Hurst, Mrs. Weiler Reed, Mrs. Grove Higbie, Mrs. Charles Brust, Mrs. Fred Detmers, Mrs. John Reid, Mrs. Wade Green, Mrs. Howard Hawk, Mrs. Perry Conner, Mrs. H. C. Fertig, Mrs. W. Dudley Branock, Mrs. Dick Smith, Mrs. Ralph Barney, Mrs. Eugene Lamb, Mrs. John Hays, Mrs. Frederick A. Rhodes, Mrs. Fred Morrison, Mrs. Guy Hanson, Mrs. Gene Kuder, Mrs. H. W. Morrison, Mrs. David Reed, Mrs. James Donaldson, Mrs. Harry Leinsic, Mrs. Peter Haberman of Pittsburgh, Mrs. C. Chase, Mrs. Roe Robinson, Mrs. R. Rudy, Mrs. Randolph Bradstreet, Mrs. Weymouth, Mrs. Horace Averill, Mrs. Horace F. Converse, Mrs. Harry Hubbard, Mrs. Frank Dimmick, Mrs. Henry Guenther, Mrs. E. R. Putnam and Mrs. Oliver T. Rees.

Entertain Old Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blackwood entertained for Judge and Mrs. Samuel W. Greene during their recent visit in Los Angeles. The Blackwoods and Judge and Mrs. Greene are old friends, all formerly having resided in Louisville, Ky.

Celebrate Anniversary

Wadsworth Harris, who gave a Longefellow recital in honor of the poet's birthday anniversary, will give a Shakespearean recital for his brother and sister Bostonians, New Englanders and their many friends in celebration of the 366th anniversary of the birth of the Immortal Bard of Avon. Mr. Harris will be one of the guests of honor at the banquet celebrating the twenty-first anniversary of the Federation of State Societies.

Bridge-Luncheon

Mrs. Frank C. Branum and Mrs. G. Etence were gracious hostesses at a charmingly appointed luncheon and bridge Wednesday, the affair taking place at Chapman Park Hotel. The tables were decorated with a profusion of spring flowers and ferns. Those included were Mrs. Max Dehner, Mrs. Ed Vanderbilt, Mrs. Charles Cook, Mrs. George Fornes, Mrs. R. R. Pattillo, Mrs. Jack Peterson, Mrs. Kee Nettler, Mrs. W. P. Lasham, Mrs. A. Sweet, Mrs. C. Weber, Mrs. R. A. Hamlet, Mrs. Tom Case, Mrs. L. Thompson, Miss Ethel Sheldon and the hostesses.

At Country Club

In honor of Mrs. Frank Hageman of Salina, Kan., a bridge-luncheon was given last Wednesday by Mrs. Gertrude K. Alexander at the California Country Club. Guests bidden had formerly lived in Salina and included Mrs. George Hull, Mrs. Christine Hull Freeman, Mrs. Clara Hauback Culp, Mrs. Mildred York Webber, Mrs. Blanche Hartlett Bean, Mrs. Alice Sterl Parent, Mrs. Sarah Nelson Granger, Mrs. Adele Carter, Mrs. May Bent Fritche and Mrs. Maud Whitehead Alexander.

For Eastern Visitors

Judge and Mrs. Guy Bush of 158 South Serrano street entertained with a delightful dinner party at the Club Casa Del Mar yesterday, honoring Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Scott of Detroit, Mich., and their attractive niece, Miss Muriel Mackintosh, who are passing several weeks in Los Angeles. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Harland Smith and Charles Tabor. Mrs. Bush is planning to leave next Sunday for the east, stopping first in Chicago, then on to Washington, D. C., to attend the League of American Penwomen convention, not returning to Los Angeles before April 29.

Smart Affair

Using a lovely decorative scheme of almond and quince blossoms in a tall, green pottery urn to decorate her luncheon table, Mrs. T. H. Goodnow of Oak Park, Ill., who is spending some time at the Biltmore, entertained Thursday afternoon at the Mary Louise, with bridge featuring the afternoon's entertainment. Guests included Mrs. E. A. Kettlewell, Mrs. J. F. Blything, Mrs. Duncan E. Willett, Mrs. O. M. White, Mrs. J. A. Romer, Mrs. F. E. Matthes, Mrs. P. Des Fardins, Mrs. B. L. Bevington, Mrs. Fred Boysen, Mrs. R. D. Dickham, Mrs. J. M. Teeple, Miss Jessie Kettlewell and Miss Mary Hall.

Initiation Festivities

To climax their initiation festivities, Iota Sigma Theta Sorority of the University of Southern California gave a formal banquet to its new members at the Chapman Park Hotel last Monday, the 10th inst.

Places were marked for twenty guests around the attractively decorated long table in the Rose Room. Pink and blue decorations were in keeping with the sorority's colors.

Miss Helen Kenney as social chairman arranged the interesting event in collaboration with Miss Helen Dewort, president. Those initiated included the Misses Beulah Bolton, Lois Green, Martha Johnstone, Dorothy Hodge and Bertha Rudd.

Here and There

Mrs. Phyllis Blowers Wright is sojourning in Catalina with her father, Judge Laurence Newton Blowers of Portland, Or., who is visiting her in Southern California.

Dr. J. M. Scanland, formerly medical superintendent of the Napa State Hospital, and Mrs. Scanland, are visiting relatives, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Shipley of Hollywood and Mr. and Mrs. William Ewing Montgomery of Glendale.

At Del Monte and vicinity Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fish at their Carmel Valley ranch.

A wire has been received from S. F. B. Morse, saying that the yacht, "Temptress," has arrived safely at Mazatlan. Mr. and Mrs. Morse and Mr. and Mrs. Francis McComas sailed February 27 from San Pedro, to be gone on a six weeks' cruise in Mexican waters.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Clement Wilson of Fremont Place have been out of town for several days, having motored to Arrowhead Springs for a rest in the hills. Others recently at the resort were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Noyes, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. George Shapiro, Mr. and Mrs. Saul Malsman and Mrs. Bradner Lee.

Mrs. George Burkitt of 360 Sycamore avenue arrived February 25 in New York, and is stopping at the Montclair.

Ahwahnee (Yosemite) visitors, lured by the last of the sledding, skiing and tobagganing this winter, have included Mr. and Mrs. E. Dingle, Maj. and Mrs. Lawrence Mott, J. S. Hurley, P. S. House, E. A. Stevens and A. C. Robbins.

Council Asked to Act in Drive on Billboards

Pursuing the campaign against unsightly billboards on the streets of Los Angeles, the antibillboard committee of Federated Civic Organizations will make a report of its preliminary survey at a meeting Wednesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Federated Civic Organizations has requested the City Council to pass ordinances which shall keep billboards out of residential zones and off boulevards and confine them to business areas and industrial districts.

The City Planning Committee of the Council now has the matter under consideration.

Rail Conscience Fund Increases

George R. Bierman, general passenger agent of the Union Pacific System, has received a letter, unsigned, holding $2 for a "ride on the Union Pacific several years ago." He was bewildered what to do with the money when W. F. Truelson, assistant treasurer, suggested the money should go to the "conscience fund."

Truelson started this fund several years ago when an unnamed party sent in $57.50 and a letter explaining it was to pay for material and ties stolen from the railroad. The fund now runs well over $100.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

by Honore Booth

FASHION EXPERT OF HARPER'S BAZAAR

NEW YORK, March 16. (Exclusive)—Last week I wrote you some of the dicta of those great Paris designers of clothes, Jean Patou and Lucien Lelong. This week I should like to collate for you some of the practical fashion points which were stabilized in the recent openings. These same openings were not revolutionary in character. But they served to crystallize the new ideas, to adapt them to greater practicality and to add vitalizing details. Buy your clothes now, says a Paris fashion authority, for they should be good for two years to come. We have entered a new era, and it is well to understand in practical words what are the essential facts of the era.

Age of Specialization

First, the thing that we have suggested in the past has been more than justified, the special dress for the special occasion, and each special dress with the length and lines suited to its purpose. Some houses showed as many as six different hemlines. There are the sport dress, the morning street dress, the early and late afternoon dress, the dancing frock and the formal evening gown. Obviously there are very few women who would or could run this gamut in a day. The point is to know what will be the most important occasion in your day and dress for it. Also to realize that the little tweed you wear for the morning's golf or the tailleur in which you shop will not do for late afternoon as it did of yore. If you have in general one of each of these types of frocks, you may assure yourself that if they are well chosen you will be well dressed wherever you go.

Glimpse at Lengths

Sports: As you are most comfortable. Make the dress serve you. Freedom of movement is indispensable.

Daytime: From eleven to fifteen inches from the floor. Study your type. For the average build of woman, about fourteen inches. But don't be led if this is not becoming to you.

Lunch and early afternoon: Only a little longer.

Late afternoon and tea time: From nine to eleven inches from the floor or even longer in the dress to be worn on into the evening, such as the so-called "Sunday evening dress."

For dancing, theater, etc.: So that you can dance without breaking an ankle. An even, or even-in-effect hem which clears the floor. About ankle length.

Ultra formal: This will be a matter of personal choice. Very few young girls will wish or have occasion to wear trains. Many older women who entertain in their own homes will be delighted with them. But the formal dress will be on the ground.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

ATTENTION ONLY INTENSIFIES HARMLESS HABITS

Children are capable of all kinds of habits which, being unnecessary and sometimes really harmful to their health and development, we are prone to call "bad." The following habit is so trivial and harmless that to center attention upon it seems to me a great mistake:

"I am very much interested in your column," Mrs. C. La C. says, "and I am coming about a problem which I have never seen discussed there. My daughter, aged 21 months, has the habit of standing with one foot on top of the other. I tried reminding her of it and I am ashamed to say I even slapped her, but it hasn't done any good.

"My son, aged 6 months, has blackheads on his face. He is being fed a patent baby food. Tell me how much to use."

IGNORE ANNOYING HABITS

Mrs. C. La C., I hope you won't be offended when I say that this seems to me an utterly inconsequential habit, since, if you have explained it correctly, it cannot possibly harm the child. Stop noticing it. Do not keep impressing her with the fact that she is standing on her foot, and when you see her doing this think up some lively game she can play that will send her hurrying off to enjoy it.

Too much parental attention often intensifies a number of very annoying nervous habits, such as sniffing, headshaking, eye-blinking and habits of that sort. If ignored and overlooked, the child forgets them, for at this early age most habits are fleeting and temporary. the parent constantly reminds the child that she is standing on her foot, when undoubtedly the child does it unconsciously.

I am not impressed by the food you are using for a 6-months-old child. I am sure there are directions for feeding on the can, which you can follow if you want to continue its use. I think he should be on a good formula of cow's milk, water and sugar—with orange juice, cod liver oil, cereal and vegetables as additional foods.

This information is available in our feeding leaflet, which will be sent to you upon receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. We have one on nervous habits which might fit your case nicely, too.

Blackheads are due to improper feeding. Often there is excessive fat in the child's diet or sometimes it is the sugar and starch. In your case the last would be the probable cause. I feel sure that the blackheads will disappear if you change the formula to the type suggested above.

EVERYBODY DANCES

With the return of old-fashioned dances, specially suited to matronly people, dancing is enjoying a high wave of popularity in Belfast, Ireland. "The modern girl's mother is becoming just as fond of dancing as her daughter," one instructor declared recently. "Elderly women find it a pleasant change after a dull day of housework. Even fathers have fallen to the lure of the dance floor. Parents find it supplies zest to life and banishes minor troubles." Family nights are now a feature of the programs in several Belfast dancing halls, and the places are crowded at these events.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

When meeting strangers have a care;
Of your approach I pray beware.
—Flip the Terrier.

FLIP CALLS HIS MASTER

Flip the Terrier had gone down on the Green Meadows. The ground was still frozen, but there was the feel of spring in the air and it made Flip uneasy. He wanted to go roaming around, so he had gone down on the Green Meadows just to see what was to be seen. He was trotting along, halfway to the Smiling Pool, when ahead of him and a little off to one side he saw something move. Instantly he turned in that direction.

Almost at once a queer-looking object began to flop along ahead of him, as if trying to get away from him. Of course, Flip became very much interested at once. He knew it was a bird, for it kept spreading its wings as it flopped along. It would stand almost straight and waddle in the funniest way and then pitch forward.

Flip began to bark and prance around it. The bird stopped flopping along and squatted down. Flip danced around it, more excited than ever, all the time barking. Then he darted in to seize it. Instead of seizing it, he jumped back with a sharp yelp. That bird had struck him with a long, sharp, pointed bill. Flip thought he could move quickly, but that bird was quicker than he. Right then and there was born a new and very great respect for this curious feathered person.

Flip looked back up at Farmer Brown's house. He saw Farmer Brown's Boy walking toward the barn. Flip began to bark, as he does when he has cornered someone. Farmer Brown's Boy stopped to look over toward Flip. He could see the little dog dancing about as he barked.

"I wonder what he's found now," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I wonder if Johnny Chuck has come out and Flip has found him. I can see something down there, but I can't make out what it is. I guess I'll have to go down and find out."

Of course, Flip became much interested at once

So Farmer Brown's Boy started down across the Green Meadows. Flip redoubled his barking when he saw his master coming. He kept making little rushes at something, but Farmer Brown's Boy noticed that these rushes always stopped short of whatever or whoever it was he was rushing at. Flip grew a little bolder as his master approached. With his master there he felt braver. Once more he made a real attempt to seize that bird. Once more he jumped back with a sharp yelp.

Farmer Brown's Boy chuckled. "Flip is getting more than he bargained for," said he. "As I live, I believe that is Dipper the Grebe. What under the sun is he doing down here on the Green Meadows. Here, Flip, here! Leave that bird alone!"

Reluctantly, Flip obeyed. He stopped his rushing and barking. Farmer Brown's Boy stooped over and picked up that bird. It was Dipper the Grebe. Dipper, you know, is one of the water folk. He is in a way a sort of small cousin of Dippy the Loon.

Health and Diet

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

KINKS AND ADHESIONS

It is not at all unusual to find kinks or prolapsus in the intestines of patients examined under the X-ray fluoroscope. Indeed, it is rare to find a patient who does not have some form of interference with the normal shape of the intestines. These kinks and prolapsus become especially noticeable when the patient is examined in the standing position, as they sometimes disappear when the patient is examined while lying down. For this reason patients often experience relief while lying, but have digestive disturbances while standing or sitting.

These kinks and prolapsus are undoubtedly caused by our civilized method of living, and are in turn responsible for many of the ills of civilization.

Most of the tissues which hold the stomach, small intestines and colon in their proper positions are attached to the back, and the organs would tend to fall into their normal positions if we walked on all fours. However, this is not a convenient posture for us to use, so the abdominal organs are held in their position principally by the internal pressure of the abdominal muscles, by the basin of the pelvis, and by the organs resting upon one another. It is quite evident, therefore, that a slight relaxation of the abdominal muscles may permit a very distinct sagging of the stomach and intestines.

It is often possible in examining a patient under the X-ray to see the stomach rise as much as four or five inches simply by the patient pulling in and tensing his abdomen. If he walked about in this tense condition habitually he would not be troubled with prolapsus, but it is the rule for one to use the lazier method and allow the abdomen to sag as it will.

Whenever there is a distinct sagging or where a sharp twist occurs there is bound to be a slowing up or partial stoppage of the intestinal contents and this may lead to putrefaction and the creation of virulent toxins which produce an inflammation of the intestines or the formation of gas which produces large dilated pockets.

Another very serious result of prolapsus is that when the organs are out of position they tend to rub against each other. This causes an irritation and the irritation brings on a growth of connective tissues in such a way as to bind the two organs together, causing them to adhere by what are known as adhesions. When the organs have grown together in this faulty position you can easily see that the kinks are very likely to become permanent fixtures if nothing is done to remove them. When this adhering tissue has caused a kink or strangulation the condition may become quite serious, depending upon the extent of the closing.

The majority of these cases occur between the ages of 15 and 30, and may remain throughout life. At least 75 per cent of the constrictions occur in the small intestines. When this constriction occurs the bowel contents have a hard time in passing through the narrow space, and partial or complete stoppage may occur. The mass of feces sometimes hardens to form coproliths, which are small and round and look something like cherries. Sometimes the bowel passage is completely blocked by these coproliths. In other cases little masses of worms may form and cause a stoppage. Growths or tumors may result from the continued irritation and by pressing on the bowel force it still more out of place.

Tax Adviser to Face Judge

I. Ira Angus, Hollywood income-tax adviser, is to appear today before United States District Judge Kilits for arraignment on a charge of aiding in the making of an asserted false and fraudulent income-tax return for Earl Foxe, a motion-picture actor.

Angus is at liberty on bail of $2000.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the kitchen room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

OYSTER COCKTAIL

One tablespoonful each of vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, tomato ketchup and horseradish. Two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, a few drops of tobasco sauce; mix thoroughly and chill for two hours before serving. Cut a grapefruit in half, remove the pulp and chill, have the oysters very cold, stir them into the sauce, add two tablespoonfuls of the grapefruit pulp that has been chopped fine, place the mixture in the grapefruit shells; place in a dish of cracked ice and serve.

ALMOND CREAM DESSERT

Heat two and one-half cupfuls of milk in a double boiler, mix two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and half a cupful of sugar, pour the hot milk over the dry ingredients, stirring constantly, return to the double boiler and cook slowly for twenty minutes. Beat two eggs slightly and gradually pour it into the mixture and cook slowly without boiling for three minutes. Cool and add one teaspoonful of almond extract and three-fourths of a cupful of finely chopped almonds. Pour the mixture into parfait glasses and chill. Top with a spoonful of whipped cream or the stiffly beaten white of an egg to which has been added four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Garnish with a cherry.

SPINACH CUTLETS

Take six bunches of spinach, wash well and cook in the water that adheres to the leaves, until tender, drain well, then rub the mixture through a sieve, add to it one cupful of fine bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of onion pulp and a little of the water that the spinach was cooked in, stir this mixture over the fire until it will leave the side of the pan, place in a saucepan one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of flour, add the spinach to this and cook until thick, add more crumbs if necessary, turn the mixture onto a shallow dish and leave until cold, then form into cutlets, cover with flour and fry in deep hot fat, serve with a Bechamel sauce.

Solved

Read the following extracts from a letter telling how one Ben-Hur enthusiast solved the

"Great Coffee Aroma Mystery"

"I have frequently seen advertisements of various brands of coffee stating 'This coffee tastes as good as it smells.' In every such case I have purchased the particular coffee advertised, only to be wretchedly disappointed.

"For years this was a mystery. To me nothing can smell more delightful than good coffee, yet I have never found a coffee that tasted as good as its aroma would indicate.

"However, several months ago I purchased Ben-Hur Drip Coffee and a Ben-Hur Coffee-Maker. After using it a while . . . carefully studying the process and comparing it with other coffee-making methods, the mystery was solved and now, for the first time, all is clear!

"No coffee can taste as good as it smells, because any process of making coffee that fills the house with coffee-odor is a wrong process. In such methods the aroma of the coffee is entirely evaporated, and instead of being in the cup where one can taste it, it is dissipated into the air where only the smell remains!

"In using the Ben-Hur Healthful Coffee-Maker there is no evaporation of aroma. In fact, there will be practically no fragrance in preparing it, as the aroma is retained in the coffee itself. As a matter of fact, Ben-Hur Drip Coffee made in the Ben-Hur Coffee-Maker tastes better than it smells."

HOW
BE A 1930 MAN—1929 IS OUT OF DATE.

Are you the type that can handle a REAL position running from $4000 to $12,000 a year? There are many who can, but only a few do. Are you one who can, but yet don't?

LET THIS MAN TELL HIS STORY: "My name is Wirick. I met with success from the very beginning and within a few weeks was able to build up my earnings. Was able to earn $276.73 in one week. Many other men in the organization have more enviable records than I. However, I hope to aspire to get the checks that my fellow salesmen are getting. I aim to make what Mr. Teshera makes, as his checks run more than 100% higher than mine. He has been with the company two or three weeks longer than I, and neither of us have been with the company three months.

I HAVE SEVERAL OTHER MEN WORKING FOR ME LIKE THE TWO ABOVE. In fact, in 1930, men are going to find that they could easily make from $100 to $500 a week, distributing our commodities.

I want a man who stands for honesty and knows he has the ability to do big things—has confidence in himself—one who will act creatively and will finish up the job that he undertakes and bring credit to the house he represents.

SALES EXPERIENCE IS NOT ESSENTIAL AND YOUR AGE ELIGIBILITY EVEN IF YOUR PAST BALANCE HAS BEEN SMALL.

Don't try to analyze yourself, as we are all too charitable with our faults. Come in and see me and I will tell you quite a bit about you and whether you can take over these duties.

I also have a few other openings which might interest you, as you can earn much more than the average salary.

OUR ORGANIZATION IS THE LARGEST CONCERN OF ITS KIND IN THE WEST, and we are looking for extraordinary men.

If you would like an opportunity where you can make from $100 to $400 a week, attend our conference

CLARK HOTEL

The man who answers this advertisement must have ambition and determination, plus that quality that makes a REAL man.

A FEW POSITIONS WITH EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITIES OPEN IN THE FOLLOWING COUNTIES:
ORANGE, VENTURA, RIVERSIDE AND SAN BERNARDINO.

It is impossible for you to attend this conference, write P. O. Box 1324, Sta. C, Los Angeles, for personal interview.

Harry Chamberlain
Nationally known Sales Consultant and Adviser, says:
"For 20 years I have been looking for my present deal. All over the United States I have contacted many men—sincere, high-minded, earnest, hard-working fellows, who have said to me: 'Chamberlain, I want to get into the Real Estate business, but I want a permanent, clean-cut set-up with a high-standing reliable firm where I can settle down and stay. I don't want to be shifting around.

"Well, men, here it is. Just what you've always wanted. I'm building a quality—not quantity—organization. I'll give you a thorough training for the Real Estate business and make you a success. All I ask is your honest, sincere co-operation and hard work. My firm is leading in the West. We have $25,000,000 of high-class, close-in Real Estate to market. It's a ten-year job and there's a fortune in it for any organization. If you're interested, write me about yourself, in confidence.

Intervw. Will Be Arranged
This is a real opportunity for real, honest, red-blooded men.
